DEATH-BED Scenes .- The rich Cardinal Beaufort said-And must I die! I could purchase the kingdom#if that would prolong my life. Alas! there is no bribing death. An English nobleman said-I have a splendid passage to the grave; I die in state, and languish under a gilded canopy. I am expiring on soft and downy pillow and am respectably attended by my servants and physicians: my dependents sigh; my sisters weep; my father bends beneath a load of grief and years: my lovely wife, pale and silent, conceals her inmost anguish; my friend who was as my own soul suppresses his sighs, and leaves me, to hide his secret grief. But O! which of them will bail me from the arrest of death !-Who can decend into the dark prison of the grave with me? Here they all leave me, atter having paid a few idle ceremonies to the breathless clay which may lie reposed in state, while my soul, my only concious part, may stand trembling before my Judge. The celebrated Talleyrand on his death-bed was visited by Louis Philippe, king of the French. " How do you feel?" said the king; the answer was, "Sire, I am suffering the pangs of the damned." Sis Thomas Scott said-Until this moment believed that there was neither a God nor a hell. Now I know and feel that ther are both, ment of the Almighty.

A rich man when dying, was informed by his physician that he should prepare for the worst. "Cannot I live a week?" "No," said the doctor, "you will probably continue but a little while." "Say not so," said the dying man, "I will give you a hundred thousand dollars if you will prolong my life three days?" but in less than an hour he was dead.

LITTLE WILLIE'S VISIONS .- Little Willie was Frank sat watching her flying fingers for an dying. He knew it, too, and was not afraid, hour or two, as he laughed and talked with his for he loved Jesus, and felt that Jesus loved would be the last. At nine o'clock she set the on the way to Heaven. For three hours before last stitch. New facings had been put-in, and | Willie died, it seemed as if Heaven was open before him. Among other things he said:

"The clouds are breaking; the angels are oming. Don't you see them? Hear the mushe looked up, with still a shade of sadness | sie; see the troops-the crowds of angels! My darling brother Eddie (Eddie died two weeks before him) is coming for me. Pa and Ma, don't you see Eddie? He is right by you. If you don't believe me, just look there. He has a crown, and one in his hand for me too .-Briers and thorns! Jesus wore a crown of thorns! Jesus is always by my side. Now the lay. Frank? asked Lizzie, in an earnest tone. angels are going away—are coming back again

"Pa and Ma, kiss me good-bye. Quick! quick! I am going. Sister, be a good girlmeet me in Heaven. Kiss me good-bye, all hands. -Ma and Pa, Eddie and I will come back for you. It's hard to die! O Eddie, leave me this time for Ma and Pa. Eddie is beckoning for me-I am coming; I will come. Lord, bless Pa and Ma."

He then repeated-"I want to be an angel. / And with the angels stand; A crown upon my forehead,

"to be supported," a wife. Lizzie was a good, sensible girl, and was soon tired of boarding. A snug house was rented, and the work of supporting a wife began in earnest. The five rooms cost two hundred dollars a year, and were prettily furnished. Lizzie preferred to do her own work, washing and all, and being expert with her needle, now and then found time to make a dollar extra. Then, as it was a little loneson for Frank, he brought home several clerks, as day boarders, at four dollars a week. Still with all this he would tell his acquaintances how much it cost him to live.
