"In line thirteen, on page 1, strike out the word 'twenty-three' and insert 'twenty-four'; and strike out all after the word 'that' in line 8, page 2, to the end of the section, page 4, in line thereof; and

As the bill and amendments are quite lengthy, we do not insert them here, but refer the reader to the Congressional Globe, third session Thirty-fourth Congress, page 1000, and the U. S. Senate Journal, third session Thirty-fourth Congress, page 305 where it will be found in full.

By this amendment of the committee of conference it will be seen that the duty on articles enumerated in schedule C, is increased from twenty-three to twenty-four per cent.

A vote being taken on agreeing to the report of the committee of conference, resulted as follows:—Yeas 33, nays 8.—Senator STEPHEN DOUGLAS voting in the affirmative, with the free traders of the south.—Congressional Globe third session Thirty-fourth Congress, page 1000; and U. S. Senate Journal, third session Thirty-fourth Congress, page 307.

June 15, 1860, the Senate, as a committee of the whole, proceeded to consider the bill (H. R. No. 338) to provide for the payment of outstanding Treasury notes, to authorize a loan to regulate and fix the duties on imports, and for other purposes.

Mr. Hunter, under instructions of the Committee on Finance, moved to postpone the further consideration of the bill until the second Monday in December next.

Upon this motion remarks were made by Senators Hunter, Bigler, Cameron, and Simmons.

Senator Hamlin said: "Mr. President, the motion now pending before the Senate is one to defer this bill to the next session of this Congress. It is a privileged motion, and stands higher in the order of privilege than a motion to amend."

Sensors, therefore, who, with myself, are in favor of this bill, who wish to make a record of their vote, and if left open to discussion perhaps to discuss its operations, are prevented from doing so directly by the very order in which the question is presented. A direct vote upon the bill, as the matter now stands, cannot be had, nor can it be had at all, unless the Senate will postpone the motion to postpone to the next session. There is, I apprehend, no other way to test the opinions of men in regard to this matter than by voting against the motion, and thus to bring the question directly before the Senate. The only way we can test our opinions is by voting against that motion. The motion to defer to the next session of Congress, preventing a vote upon the bill, is a motion to amend, and is the most effective that can be made by those who are determined that no action shall be had at this session. For the purpose of knowing precisely how men stand on this question, it is necessary that we should vote, and that it may be taken by yeas and nays, and let that vote be taken upon the bill."

The yeas and nays were ordered and resulted as follows:—

Yeas—Messrs. Bayard, Bragg, Chesnut, Clingman, Davis, Fitzpatrick, Green, Gwin, Hemphill, Hunter, Johnson of Arkansas, Johnson of Tennessee, Lane, Mallory, Pearce, Rice, Rowan, Smith, Tilden, Wigfall, Yule, and 25.

Nays—Messrs. Anthony, Bigler, Cameron, Chandler, Clark, Dixon, Doolittle, Fessenden, Foot, Foster, Hale, Hamlin, Harlan, King, Latham, Lincoln, Nicholas, Polk, Powell, Seward, Simmons, Sumner, Ten Eyck, Thomson, Trumbull, Wade, Wilkinson, and Wilson—23.

Senator STEPHEN A. DOUGLAS did not vote.—Congressional Globe, first session Thirty-sixth Congress, page 307; and U. S. Senate Journal, first session Thirty-sixth Congress, page 673.

So the further consideration of the bill was postponed to the second Monday of December next.

June 16, 1860, Mr. POWELL of Kentucky, moved a reconsideration of the vote by which the bill to adjust the tariff was postponed to the second Monday of December next.

The President pro tempore stated, that was a privileged motion and would be entered.

June 20, 1860, Mr. BIGLER moved to postpone all prior orders for the purpose of taking up the motion of Mr. Powell.

The vote being taken, resulted as follows:—

Yeas—Messrs. Anthony, Bigler, Bright, Cameron, Chandler, Clark, Collamer, Crittenden, Davis, Doolittle, Fessenden, Fish, Foot, Foster, Hale, Hamlin, Harlan, King, Latham, Lincoln, Nicholas, Polk, Powell, Seward, Simmons, Sumner, Ten Eyck, Thomson, Trumbull, Wade, Wilkinson, and Wilson—33.

Nays—Messrs. Bayard, Bragg, Chesnut, Fitzpatrick, Green, Gwin, Hemphill, Hunter, Johnson of Arkansas, Johnson of Tennessee, Lane, Mallory, Pearce, Rice, Rowan, Smith, Tilden, Wigfall, and Yule—17.

Senator DOUGLAS did not vote.—Congressional Globe, first session Thirty-sixth Congress, page 3191; U. S. Senate Journal, first session Thirty-sixth Congress, page 720.

So the motion to reconsider was agreed to. The vote was taken on the motion to postpone, which was not agreed to.

The Secretary proceeded to read the bill, which was arrested by the intervention of other business, and in consequence of which the bill was not read.

Here ends the record! Working men, mechanics, of the manufacturing States, read it carefully, then say whether you are prepared to elevate, by your votes, to the Chief Magistracy of the Nation, a man who has used every means within his power to reduce the tariff, or appeal all acts levying a duty upon foreign iron, and who proclaimed, in the United States Senate, that he was a "free trade man to the fullest extent that we can carry it?"

People of Pennsylvania, are you prepared to elevate to the Presidential chair, and give the right to govern the Nation, a man who has used every means within his power to reduce the tariff, or appeal all acts levying a duty upon foreign iron, and who proclaimed, in the United States Senate, that he was a "free trade man to the fullest extent that we can carry it?"

Should the iron and other manufacturers be compelled to close operations, and thousands thereby be thrown out of employment by the introduction of the free-trade doctrine, through the instrumentality of an Executive pledged to that principle, will you vote so as to have to upbraid yourselves that your votes brought it about?

THE Springfield (Mass.) Republican says:—"Trains over the Rutland and Washington railroad are considerably impeded in the passage by the myriads of grasshoppers that lodge on the railroad track, and are crushed beneath the giant wheels of the engine. The track is rendered so slippery and greasy by the crushed insects, that it is almost impossible for any headway to be made upon the upgrades."

It is estimated (says the London American) that 30,000 Americans have left New York and Boston for Europe this season, most of whom are temporarily residing on the Continent and in different parts of the British Islands. Paris is reported full of Americans, and a large number are in London. The number of pleasure-seeking Americans in Europe is larger than at any previous time.

It is said the peach crop of Illinois will be immense. A ridge in Union and Jackson counties, twenty miles long and from five to seven miles wide, will produce at least one million bushels amounting to this immense crop will be distilled.

Among the curiosities discovered by the census takers is a pretty little girl of five, in the southern part of Missouri, New York, who has a husband one hundred and seven years of age.

Capt. Ellsworth, of the Chicago Zouaves, has resigned his command.

The Delegate
Since the delegates of the Democratic party of Lehigh county have met in Convention and have nominated a ticket, it might be well for a moment to consider some of the practical workings of the delegate system. In making nominations for officers, the three main topics to be considered, are the ability, fitness and claims of the persons seeking nomination. Other things being equal, the fittest man should be nominated. So also the man, who in view of past services, has the strongest claims on his party, or who is calculated to poll the largest vote, or other things being equal, should receive a nomination. Let us see how the delegate system is calculated to secure the fittest and most available candidate, and at the same time to reward deserving party men.—Do such considerations, as a general rule, in the practical workings of the system, control nominations? The delegates in each township are fixed by a few of the prominent men in the township. The people have but little if anything to say, except to vote. The influence of such prominent men is secured either by considerations of personal friendship, or by other considerations various in their character, without regard, in the great majority of cases, to the fitness or availability of the candidates. If there be a contest as to delegates, owing to differences among prominent leaders, there ensues a system of travelling through the townships and drumming up voters and hauling them to the delegate election, in which money generally accomplishes its object. The contest then becomes an under-ground, secret one, in which all sight is lost of fitness, availability and claims of the respective candidates.—But it often happens that delegates elected and pledged to vote for certain candidates, when once at the Convention, suddenly and mysteriously change their minds and vote for entirely different candidates. What influence has been brought to bear upon the delegates, is often an inexplicable mystery. At delegate conventions a system of political trading and gambling is carried on, which would scarcely be supposed possible. The delegates from one township say to the delegates from another township: "you support our candidate for Congress, and we will support your candidate for County Commissioner, and if you do not support our candidate for County Commissioner," Congressman was traded for County Commissioner on Saturday last, at the Democratic Delegate Convention. It is a fact hard to believe and yet such was the case. This system of trading extends alike to promises of future support for future nominations. We need not inform our readers that a system of political jobbing and huckstering like this is placed beyond the power of one or a few men, when every district may be represented by its fifty, its hundred or more persons, when the vote of each member of that delegation, however humble he be, is as potent as the vote of the most influential. We might, if we chose, advert to a peculiarity of our Democratic county politics, which distinguishes her from all other counties; and that is the fact of the tremendous influence exerted by family ties. There are cases, in which relationship controls nominations. This is a fact, however, which is sufficiently known to the people of our county. Take into consideration with all this the fact, that a Delegate Convention is held with closed doors, in which the people have no immediate opportunity of watching the votes of their chosen representatives, and we have a system of nomination, than which a more corrupt one could not well be devised. We are fully aware that there is no system of nomination, which is perfect; that every system is liable to its abuse; and that the workings of a system depends much upon circumstances. Still we cannot refrain from expressing the opinion that the delegate system as practiced in the Democratic party in our county, is one, most liable to abuse, and which should be speedily abolished for the sake of the public welfare, if the Democratic party of Lehigh county is to hold the reins of power in its hands.

Citizens of Lehigh county, you have this fall an opportunity, so far as your County offices are concerned, of choosing between County tickets nominated upon two entirely different plans, and it is for you to say whether you will ratify the action of a packed and faith-breaking Democratic Delegate Convention.

Democratic County Ticket.
The Democratic Delegate Convention of this county met at the public house of Mr. Franklin Balliet, on Saturday last, and nominated the following ticket:—
Congress—Dr. Thomas B. Cooper, of Saucon township.
Assembly—W. C. Lichtwaller, of Upper Maucung.
Clerk of the Courts—Boss Hausman, of Allentown.
Prothonotary—James Lackey, of Allentown.
Register of Wills—Jacob Slemmer, of Allentown.
Commissioner—George Neumeyer, of Lower Maucung.
Director of the Poor—Leonard Meyer, of Upper Maucung.
Coroner—Dr. E. G. Martin, of Allentown.
Auditor—Benjamin Cleaver, of Heidelberg.
Trustees—Mark S. Stetter, Charles Becker, of Allentown.
So far as the county house officers are concerned, the result is considered, as a triumph over the rotation men.

In regard to Congress and some other portions of the ticket, it is claimed, as a victory of the Breckinridge, over the Douglas men. From all that we can learn, the friends of Breckinridge seem to be very much pleased with the result.

THE OPPOSITION OF BERKS.—The Opposition of Berks county met in convention, at Reading, last week, and nominated the following ticket:—
For Congress, (Unexpired Term), Capt. Jas. McKnight, of Alsace; (Regular Term), Levi B. Smith, of Robeson; Sonnets, Aaron Mill, of Spring; Assembly, John B. Holloway, of Aulity; William Taylor, of Marion; Dr. Jeremiah Trexler, of Kutztown; Prothonotary, David Levan, of Reading; Register, William Call, of Reading; Auditor, Honorable Cleaver, of Olney; Clerk of the Court, Daniel Cleaver, of Ruscombton; Clerk of Sessions, Harrison Hamner, of Bernville; Commissioner, Conrad Reber, of Penn; Director, Jacob S. Ebling, of Reading; Auditor, G. E. Horcher, of Windsor.
The ticket is said to be strong and popular, and we are assured, that a good report may be expected from Berks, at the October election.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES.—At a municipal election held in New Haven, Connecticut, on Friday last, in which the supporters of Breckinridge and Douglas were thoroughly united, and the election warmly contested, the Republicans triumphed by 100 majority, showing a gain of 200 since last Spring's State election. Connecticut since the desperate fight of last spring has been abandoned by the Democracy as a hopelessly Republican State.

The Republicans of Lehigh have selected an excellent and unexceptionable ticket. Every Republican had an opportunity of attending the Convention, and of participating in its deliberations, and has no reason to complain of the result. Men, placed in nomination, can honestly demand their party support. It is a debt, owed by every true party man. Especially at present, it is obligatory on all Republicans, to give our county ticket a zealous support. We have a Governor to elect. No stone will be left unturned to secure the defeat of Col. Curtin. Corrupt bargains have been made with the corrupt leaders of the Bell Party, to secure their support of Henry D. Foster, for Governor. All the differences between Breckinridge and Douglas men have been merged, for the time being, in an effort to elect Gen. Foster. The gubernatorial contest is the Thermopylae of Democratic hopes. Governor lost, and all is lost; Governor elected, and there may be a slim chance even in November to effect the defeat of Lincoln. Every vote for the county ticket, brought out, is a vote, brought out for Curtin, and every additional vote, produced, is a contribution to Lincoln's election. The Republicans of Lehigh county, so far as their county ticket is concerned, should have in view more than this year's success. We have steadily gained on the Democratic Party, since 1856. For the past two years, we have been partially successful with our county ticket. Causes are at work, which must insure a steady gain in the county, in our favor for years to come, and if we do not contribute to our own disaster, Lehigh county must and will be Republican. Secure a victory this fall, and we consider the question of political supremacy, in the county, settled.—Power will pass from the hands of the Democratic Party, and the Republican Party will administer the affairs of our county, as we trust, for the better. Will Republicans bear these suggestions in mind, and determine to achieve success; if it be within the compass of steady, persistent effort.

Causes are at work, which must insure a steady gain in the county, in our favor for years to come, and if we do not contribute to our own disaster, Lehigh county must and will be Republican. Secure a victory this fall, and we consider the question of political supremacy, in the county, settled.—Power will pass from the hands of the Democratic Party, and the Republican Party will administer the affairs of our county, as we trust, for the better. Will Republicans bear these suggestions in mind, and determine to achieve success; if it be within the compass of steady, persistent effort.

The Republicans of Lehigh have selected an excellent and unexceptionable ticket. Every Republican had an opportunity of attending the Convention, and of participating in its deliberations, and has no reason to complain of the result. Men, placed in nomination, can honestly demand their party support. It is a debt, owed by every true party man. Especially at present, it is obligatory on all Republicans, to give our county ticket a zealous support. We have a Governor to elect. No stone will be left unturned to secure the defeat of Col. Curtin. Corrupt bargains have been made with the corrupt leaders of the Bell Party, to secure their support of Henry D. Foster, for Governor. All the differences between Breckinridge and Douglas men have been merged, for the time being, in an effort to elect Gen. Foster. The gubernatorial contest is the Thermopylae of Democratic hopes. Governor lost, and all is lost; Governor elected, and there may be a slim chance even in November to effect the defeat of Lincoln. Every vote for the county ticket, brought out, is a vote, brought out for Curtin, and every additional vote, produced, is a contribution to Lincoln's election. The Republicans of Lehigh county, so far as their county ticket is concerned, should have in view more than this year's success. We have steadily gained on the Democratic Party, since 1856. For the past two years, we have been partially successful with our county ticket. Causes are at work, which must insure a steady gain in the county, in our favor for years to come, and if we do not contribute to our own disaster, Lehigh county must and will be Republican. Secure a victory this fall, and we consider the question of political supremacy, in the county, settled.—Power will pass from the hands of the Democratic Party, and the Republican Party will administer the affairs of our county, as we trust, for the better.
