Poetry.

(For the Register.)

The Angel of the Sunset.

Beside the sunset's golden gates,
An Angel waits,
Each evening as the day goes through,
And ere it trends the silent lands,
Of it demands
That its story, full and true,
And taking then a sunbeam bright,
With it doth write
Upon the evening scroll,
Whatever's recital he may hear
Of gloom, or cheer—
The shameful, or the glorious whole.
And when each glad, each falling word
That is his heart,
And to the deathless pages given,
With smiling, or with pitying look,
And hands the record up to Heaven,
Of all that he has written there,
His part to bear
The glory of the brighter shame,
He is more merciful than just,
And trusts,
And hopes that Heaven is the same.

TO OFFICE SEEKERS.

"Andy is our Man."

BY ROSIE LEE.

Come office-seekers everywhere, come now both great and small,
Arch-bishop or traitor foe,—there's room enough for all!
But who is not a Johnson man must quickly change
For Unionists are not the style who Andy's favor find;
Or else, in this magic plan, 'twill take you safely through,
Just join the Southern-garb of grey, and doff the blue.
He's proved a traitor to his vow, and to his country's cause,
Who should be champion of her rights, and defender of her laws.
And that to make our country bleed are now his chosen ones—
Who robbed our children of their sires, our widows
From hearts that beat the bravest once, now in their rough-made graves!

Oh, well he loves the Southerners, for one at heart is he;
And safe are all his traitor friends when want him
Our arch-foe Davis need not fear; he will not want
For aught
While Andy Johnson keeps his seat or friends for gold are bought.
Too any office, high or low, his followers aspire
When to his chosen ones, but if he's not their heart's desire!
We've paid it all, too dearly paid, with dried and starved dying men,
Who long in Leiby prison lay,—that mighty slaughter pen!
And shall no cry of protest rise against this from the ground,
It does: a voice is speaking clear from every soldier's mound!

Ah! must we honor those who shed their brothers' blood,
More than our own brave, noble men, who for their country fought?
And, more, must we before them bow, wrong triumph over right,
And conquerors yield to those who were the van- quishers of right?
No! right and truth shall never fail, for Heaven shields the brave!
And slavers must feel the rod, for God has power to save!

Miscellaneous.

A Biography of Heister Clymer.

Heister Clymer was born in Berks co., Pennsylvania, in the year 1827, of respectable parents. He had the benefit of a liberal education, studied law, and was admitted to practice at the Reading bar.

Nothing was heard of him in public life until the year 1850, when he commenced his political career by running for the Legislature on the Whig ticket, in Berks county. Of course he was not elected. He, however, ran behind Gen. Wm. H. Keim, the Whig candidate for Congress, 1850 years.

He remained a whig until 1856, when he joined the Democratic ranks.

In 1856 he ran for the State Senate, on the Democratic ticket, to fill vacancy; and he has represented his county in that position for the last six years.

The Legislative Record of this period, will be searched by our readers for an article which Mr. Clymer was identified with any measure of great or public importance. It shows him as only taking part in ordinary or local legislation, except when he chooses moment to speak or vote on the great questions involved in the maintenance of the national authority against the revolutionary attempts of the seceding States. On all such questions he was invariably in favor of the rebellion. But let the Record speak for him.

On the 12th day of April, 1861, the day of the rebel assault upon Fort Sumter, he opposed an amendment to the bill for arming the State, &c. See Legislative Record for 1861, pages 843, 5, &c.

On the 10th of April, after the news of the fall of Sumter had been received, and the Northern heart had been fired by this insult to our national flag, Mr. Clymer with his five disloyal colleagues, entered on the Journal of the Senate their solemn protest against the passage of the bill for arming the State. See Leg. Record for 1861, pages 102-3.

In the session of 1863, during the dark days of the Republic, and when reverse had overtaken her armies, Mr. Clymer voted against sustaining the bill, by voting against the joint resolutions of the Legislature to provide for the collection of the direct tax levied by the United States. See Leg. Record for 1863, pages 154-5.

On the 9th and 10th of April, 1863, on the consideration and final passage of the bill to authorize those in the military and naval service of the United States to vote, he voted with his Democratic colleagues against every section. See Same, page 808.

In the session of 1864, on the 9th of March, upon the joint resolutions proposing an amendment to the Constitution authorizing the soldiers to vote, Mr. Clymer being present, dodged, and in the afternoon of the same day, having asked leave to record his vote, the Senate adjourned. See Legislative Record 1865, pages 335, 341.
