(For the Register.) A LITTLE MYSTIC KEY. FOR YOUNG FOLKS AT HOME AND ABROAD.

There is a little mystic key That, using with discretion, Will always people's hearts unlock, And never know excision.

To all who bear this little key, Their friends appear more willing; Yet each one may obtain it free Without e en a shilling. At home, abroad, the whole year round,

I want you please remember; The little key—'tis ever bright In spring-time and December. Now which can quickly guess the name Or spend the night in fotte s, Right! bravely solved! it is the same— Set in Italie letters!

ETA MON KORE. (For the Register.)

SONG. Oh no! von must not mention me, My name—Oh! call it not; Past joys it may recall to thee, But let it be lorget. To think that she remembers it, Adds fresh anguish to my lot -

My name,-you must not mention it, Ah! let it be forgot. I would not o'er her spirit cast
A cloud to shade its joy:
I'd not recall bright seenes now past, Nor pleasure's cup alloy. Her heart is free abroad to rove, Let mine now be lorgot,
Oh! tell her not that still I love—

My name,-0 call it not. Should we again, in after years,
Meet on tha' sae el spot;
She'll find that I, though still in tears,
My vows have ne'er forgot.
But no, you must not mention me,
My name.—O call it not;
If en't restore nest inve to me— It can't restore past joys to me-Ah! let it be forgot.

Miscellaneous.

(For the Register) Our Nation and its Dangers.

Although unaccustomed to write on the subect matter in question, it may not be amiss in such perilous times for even a novice, to make an attempt to sound the alarm. It seems to me our people are but half awake, neither pulpit nor press, appear to see the danger, or to speak out as they should.—We need all the virtue and takent of the loyal people to stem the tide of iniquity that is rolling in upon us.

When men in trust swerve from the truth, and are recreant to the principles of moral honesty, (and even sometimes of common de cency,) what have we to expect from such a When I read of the cold-blooded butcheries (enacted at Memphis and New Orleans,) that would disgrace an age of barbarism, and know too, that it is winked at by those in high authority, and that the very men that perhaps who instigated or at least sanctioned such hor rible barbarities, are waiting and expecting to be invested with full power to sway the des tinies of our beloved Country; I cannot but involuntarily exclaim great and merciful God, whither are we drifting, whither are we verg-ing; for if those cruelties are perpetrated in a green tree, what shall be done in the dry. As I contemplate the madness of those who would blindly rivet their own chains, I am astonished and amazed, and my soul is stired within me. Strange indeed that men in our Northern States can be so blinded, by the hope of gain and the love of power as to willingly sell their country and its dearest interests. The Democratic party, or its leaders, appear to be willing to admit the unrepentant rebels of the South, with hands recking with the blood of their fellow citizens, into the councils of our nation, and who that reflects seriously can predict anything but disaster, and perhap utter ruin to the cause of universal liberty should they succeed. What becomes of all the glorious victories achieved by our brave and eroic soldiers if the South by the intrigue and treachery of traitors in our midst, should be suffered (with all their hostility to freedom and equal rights,) to gain the balance of power.-Such an event after spilling and wasting so much blood and treasure, would be appalling as it would provoke another and more terrible

What too becomes of the fame of our noile Grant and his worthy compeers? Would not the victors become the vanguished if treasor and rebellion is set up at a premium? May the mercy of heaven for the sake of those who would deprecate and avert such a terrible cat astrophe, frustrate the designs of those wicked and infamous men. We think our country in a most critical condition, whilst we had the good, and faithful, and ever to be lamented Lincoln at the helm, we could look up and confidently say, "all is well," we will yet outride the storm. And why could we so implicitly trust him? simply because we know that in Go was his refuge and strength, and that he ruled in rightcourness. But we fear that the case is widely different at this time, and yet it does not appear to create much alarm. Is it not as obligatory upon us to have our fasts, and our days of humiliation, in this great and fearful mora struggle, as when arrayed in a physical and deadly combat. Then we were willing to pro-pitiate the Almighty Ruler of the universe; and to acknowledge that there was a God that ruled in the armies of heaven and earth, and that His unseen hand was guiding and directing the affairs of this great nation. We then could walk softly with the Lord and honor and everence His name. But let us not be like unfaithful Israel of old, who as soon as one evil was removed would turn their backs upon their Deliverer and thus were constantly provoking the God that protected them, and like unto ourselves from being the most highly favored nation existing, had for their repeated acts of disobedience their ationality entirely destroy ed. Let us take heed and beware as the same God now rules the affairs of men.

The Johnsonian suggested that, as a soldier, the Michigan colonel ought to turn out and pay his respects to President J. huson on his arrival at Toledo. To which the colonel responded: "You may, but I will not, for I have no repect for him."

"But," quoth the Johnsonian, "you will go with us and show your respect for 'rant auc Farragut, who accompany him, won't you?"

"My dear sir," replied the colonel, "there was once an old lady who kept a boarding house for the person. One morning the came across a piece laborers. One morning she came across a piece of tainted beef, which she purchased cheap and boiled for dinner. It 'smelt to heaven,' and not a boarder would touch it. That evening she sliced and fried it, but wouldn't do—it still smelt. The next morning she made hash of it—but it smelt lo. der and louder, when a boar er, who The Republican Union party maintain that the could stand it no longer, spoke his mind: 'Look here, old lady, you may bile it, you may fry it. Post Office, New Canaan, Fairfield Co., Conn., Aug., 6th, 1866.

Your circular for the call of the Wilkes Both Convention to meet in Philadelphia on the 14th inst., has been duly received under the frank of the eminent Pennsylvania Senator. I suppose I am indebted to the Honorable Connecticut rensgade for this early "smoking out" attention.— I'or this work of extreme kindness he and you have my thanks. Most of the apparent purposes of the call met my entire approval, but chaff is at a discount just now. No man unwilling to be deceived can mistake the latent object of the intended gathering rising as it does from the ashes of the assassin. Had Wickes B oth never lived, the Convention would ever have been called. Now, every sympa-California indorsed it! Every indulgent, concilatory advocate of the interesting ceremony of bullying, bludgeoning and murdering public men (who advocates the kights of Man) approve it! Every patriotic resolver "that the war for the Union is a failure" is in ecstacies over in! Every bitter secessionist every fighting rebel in the terrible war that has cost this nation hundreds of thousands of lives and billions of money, every conniving traitor that has been Washington planted and Lincoln saved, is inging peans of glory to it. And exery Press in the United States now advocating it, is obliged to excuse, paliate and defend the burnings, murders and massacres continually cropping out throughout volcanic rebeldom. From all such sympathies, tendencies and operations, Mr. Raudull, I would most respectfully respond, "Good Lord deliver me:" My conscience, my manhood, is my own, to me they are of more value than any office on earth. You have my Briefly yours.

NOAH W. HOYT, P. M. P. S. Private -If our noble, sober, patriotic, conorable and trustworthy President would but pardon Jeff in time to make him President of the convention, he would add another to the many grateful chligations he has already conferred upon millions of loyal hearts who took him out of the grasp of Rebels and elevated him to the point where Booth and Atzerot swung him to power and infamy. Divorces. A Phila paper says applications for divorce have, it is said, greatly increased with n the last few years in our city. It does seem astonishing what a hurry some people are in to sun-der the sacred bond, who, a few months ago, vere in just as great hurry to take upon them elves the obligations and responsibilities of married life. They kiss and twitter like mated birds for a brief fortnight, and the third week are brought up before the courts for throwing smoothing irons at each other, and indulging in other li tle endearments peculiar to single blessedness. In some late cases, husbands and wives have been off the hooks before the taste of the bri-Has no objections to Andrew Johnson, as he lal cake and wine had been washed from their mouths. There must be a screw loose somemouths. There must be a screw loose somewhere. The fact is, the whole preliminary business of courtship is one grand systematic course of mutual deception; both parties peristently shut their eyes to each other's true tharacter, and insist upon investigating each other with attributes which neither possess, and which none but angels ever do. They picture to themselves for the future an earthly beaven of music, dancing, billing and cooing. heaven of music, dancing, billing and cooing, raslight sorrees and pic-nics. This is the poetic side of the question. The prose reality comes the morning after the revel, and then look out for cold coffee, buttonless shirts, neglected hair dye, palid cheeks, abandoned ringets, and all other accompaniments of domestic orture. A BRAVE BOY .- Two little children of B. I. Wood, of Taunton, Mass.,—a boy aged eight, and a little girl—were riding in a chaise the other day, when the horse switched the reins from the hands of the boy and started off on a jump. The daughter jumped out, but the lift the chip of a boy climbed by the dasher until he reached the back strap of the harness, and worked himself along the shaft until he mount. ed the horse, and siezing the check rein, drew him up beside a fence and stopped him. The horse being all the time on a rnn, this was a remarkable exploit for a lad whose weight is torty-six pounds. On being-questioned, he said he could not discover anything to be "fraid

MA farmer in Massachusetts was coaxed into buying a lightning rod of an "electric ped-ler," for his barn, and shortly after, two hoge in he barn-yard were killed by lightning. The musbandman mentally cursed the rod, and tore it from the barn. When next the rod pedlar came along, and commenced his harangue about he "importance of guarding against lightning," ne dimer eyed him scornfully, exclaiming — Youlget out! I never had any pigs killed by lightning till I put up your infernal rod, and I hain't lost any since I took it down." A BATTLE INCIDENT .-- A German paper re-young soldier, in the midst of the tumult of batrie, thought he saw on the grass a four-leaved hamfock growing. As such a plant is rare, and is considered to bring good lack, he stooped to take it. At that very instant a cannot ball passed over his head so near that he must have been killed if he had not been bending down. The man so miraculously saved has sent the plant to which he owes his life to his betrothed at Kænigsberg." Senator Wilson, of Massachusetts, says "I have been a member of Congress for the post twelve years, on a salary of $3,000 per year, and were I to die to morrow it would be the expense of a pine coffin to selid my remains home in." And we have no doubt he speaks the literal truth. He was soo poor when first chosen Senator that his friends had to give him a suit of clothes. Yet what man in America has a prouder record than Henry Wilson? In Massachusetts there is a place called Sanberry, where Mr. Nchemiah Blackberry married Miss Susan Elderberry, a niece of Deacon Dusenberry, of Danberry. The ceremony was performed by the Reverend Mr. Cranberry; at the house of Mr. Huckelberry. Well, if their children don't make goosberries, what sort of berries will they be?

The Chicago Republican gives the following version of General Dix, amended by Johnson: "If any man attempts to haul down the American flag, ask him if he will accept a national situation?"

At the celebration of a marriage, a large number of young ladies present, the minister said: "Those wishing to be joined in the holy bonds of matrimony, will please stand up and nearly all arose.
