WOMEN'S OCCUPATIONS. The practice of paying females less for doing the same kind of work performed by males is one that is daily growing smaller. There are many occupations that females can master as well, if not better than males. Custom has prevented the former from using her natural powers to that extent her necessities demand. For instance, type setting, now performed almost wholly by males, is an occupation undoubtedly within the easy control of females. It requires nimbleness of finger, just such dexterity possessed by the gentler sex. We believe this trade is about being acquired by a limited number of the sex in New York, and there are printing offices in other cities that give them employment. More are engaged, however, as "feeders" of presses, or in the process of "wetting down" the paper, so necessary to ensure good printing. The usefulness of the sex as type-setters has not yet been any thing like fully tested, and it should only be a question of time when they ought almost chtirely to supplant the sterner members of the human family in this description of labor.

Another occupation almost entirely in the hands of males is that of hair-dressing and "shaving," at least in this country. In France it is not so, the barber-shops in Paris being presided over almost wholly, if not entirely, by women. Here, then, is an avocation, easy to acquire, monopolized by the men -one for which the gentle teuch of woman is peculiarly adapted. It will be said, no doubt, that shaving the chin of a tobacco-chewing customer would not be one of the most agreeable tasks for a delicate female to perform. But this difficulty could be overcome by the young men giving up the nasty practice, which they would undoubtedly do rather than be compelled to submit to the man pulations of the big-fisted fellows who now "lather and shave" by rudely rubbing one's face almost into a blister. Who would think of paying a female barber less than any one else for a shave? No gentleman, surely. Here, then, is another occupation at the finger-ends of the womenone that would not only be profitable to themselves, but immensely popular with the oppo site sex. Who will be first to start the inno vation in Allentown? There are other occupations for which women are naturally adapted, such as book keeping, etc., that should bring them remuneration equal to that paid to men. Custon alone prevents them from adopting these vari ous avocations, and custom should be made to succumb. The field for female employment is wide, and it will be the fault of the sex if they do not in the future emprace the advantages within their grasp.

THE AMENDMENT PASSED.

The Fifteenth Amendment passed the Pennavivania House of Representatives last week. The Keystone thus takes her stand along with the other States on the principle of Equal Suffrage. It is not within the power of copper headism now to cheat the humble American citizen in this State out of his rights. The colored man was good enough to face the bullets of Southern traitors-he is equally fit to face the ballets of the copperheads of the North. It is to be hoped that a sufficient number of the States will quickly ratify the Amendment the Indiana Legislature, thinking to defy the sometimes distrusted him. He made free public will of the majority in that State, recently left expressions of individual opinion, and so far as these fellows by threatening to pass a law giving the majority power to proceed without force. them. Every means, fair and unfair, will be turned to the quiet of a retired domestic life at his attempted by the opposition to prevent the success of this great National measure of justice. It is only a question of time, however, and the American can well afford to wait for such a glorious consummation. Referring to the Amendment, in last week's Standard,

Wendell Phillips says :wentern Fillings says:—
"The Amendment must not fall. We must, if necessary, swamp Delaware and Indiana by the creation of new States. There is Georgia vaporing in old gouthern style, in insolant definate of the nation's will. She is not a State, not having yet been reconstructed or re-admitted. She could easily be divided into two good sized States, and admitted when she sees her way to the adoption of the Fifteenth Amendment. And again: "This is no time for mandilm sentiment. It is a time for drawn swords, and for going to the extreme verge of our constitutional power. We say, therefore, to Congress, carveout of robel territory like Texas and Georgia enough States to ratify the amend-ment, if events shall show it to be necessary.

iont, if events shall show it to be necessary.

We believe the Amendment will succeed without such extreme measures, but if it should not the Republican party will be ready to adopt even Mr. Phillips' plan quoted above.

SALARIES OF OFFICERS.

The Committee on Retrenchment and Reform in the Pennsylvania Senate made a re port on Thursday upon the subject of public expenditures. The report is signed by Messrs. Billingfelt. White, Errett, and Davis. It em braces numerous suggestions which if put into practice will be the means of saving thousands of dollars to the State. The report also em braces a bill, and among other things fixes the salaries of the Governor, heads of departments, etc., as follows :overnor. rivato Secretary to Governor. fessenger to Governor.

idental Expenses.... retary of Commonwealth... Auditor General Deputy Secretary of Commonwealth, Surveyor General Superintendent of Public Schools.... Adjutant General.
Deputy Superintendent of Common Scho
hief Clerks various departments.
First-class clerks various departments.

Marseoners.

The report says that $34,077.45 was paid last session for officers in the Senate, and $83, 705.80 for officers in the House, which amounts, it avers, were largely in excess of what was necessary, having been incurred in part without proper authority of law. If the act of last year be complied with the report says there will be a saving to the State of $67,283.25 the present session. The compensation of the members of the Legislature should be permanently fixed by law and $1000 is recommended. It is proposed to quit allowing members $25 per session for stationery, and also stop paying them mileage, inasmuch as railroad companies make a practice of dead-heading them. These are some of the reforms recommended. They will commend themselves to the consideration

THE LEGISLATURE.

The little good which is accomplished by our Legislature is fast filling us with feelings and the body which is paid by them to enact ur business, is engrossed with passing bills in which only a few individuals are interested Once in a while the thousand and one little private bills are dropped for a while and somehing grand is enacted to keep down dissatisaction. The grandest act of the present Legslature is the passage of the Suffrage Amend ment to the United States Constitution, every Republican voting for its adoption and, of course, every Democrat voting against it, and ve now have the Keystone State on the roll of honor along with Nevada, Kansas, Missouri, West Virginia, Wisconsin, Illinois, Michigan, Maine, South Carolina and Arkansas.

But there is the Registry Law, without which the annual voting in some strong Democratic districts is a farce, and the elections are decided by fraud. Why can't the bill be passed? The cople demand it, but before the people can expect their requirements to predominate over the thousand private bills which are before our Legislature, a radical reform in the construction of our law-making power will have to be created. Private bills are secured a passage either through a system of trading or by direct purchase. If a member from Lehigh have a pet project to put through he says to a member from Lancaster, for instance, "If you vote for my bill I will return the favor when you have something of your own you wish passed. And so it is all over the State, no matter what nterests the "little bill" may affect. By some total abolition of the Legislature and a transfer to the Courts of the power to conduct local business is advocated, but we believe the better plan is to increase the number of members to such an extent that it will take more money to buy them than can be made from the passage of private bills. Then the private calendar will become small and the time expended in its consideration will be devoted to the passage of laws in which the people have some died in St. Louis on the afternoon of the 25th inst.

Mr. Bates came of a Quaker family, who had lost their position in that Church by reason of their having borne arms in the war of the Revolution. He was born in Goochland County, Virginia, Sept. 4, 1793, and was consequently in the 76th year of his age. He was educated under the superintendence of Benjamin Bates, a relative of cultivated literary tastes. In 1826, while yet quite a young man, he was elected a representative in Congress He served but one term, and soon afterward was returned to the State Senate of Missouri. In 1850. Mr. Fillmore, auxious to entice him from the barren obscurity of his Missouri practice, and deeply impressed by the powers which he had displayed in the Chicago Internal Improvement Convention offered him the position of Secretary of War, but he declined it. Three years later, he accepted the Judgeship of the St. Louis Land Court, to which be was elected, and after holding it three years ecided also to abandon this. In 1856, his position in the While party, and his standing before the ountry, were such that he was selected to preside over the Whig Convention which met at Baltimore Four years later he became, himself, a prominent candidate for the Presidency. When Mr. Lincoln, after his election, decided upon selecting the leading men of the Republican party, including those who had been his principal competitors, for his Cabinet, the eminent reputation of Mr. Bates as a awyer, induced his assignment to the office of Attorney-General. In the Cabluct, he played a dignified, safe, and faithful, but not conspicuous and make it part and parcel of the National part. He was not reckoned one of the more Rad-. Our Young Folks for April, contains another instalment of Mr. Aldrich's "Story of a Bad Boy." The favor shown towards this remarkable story by both classes of readers those to whom it is adressed, and those who read it as critics—is such that the Publishers are justified in saving that it s exciting more general interest than any javenile story before published in this country. Its freshness, its good humor, and above all the trutifful ness, are in marked contrast with much that he written for young people. It seems to meet hearty approciation everywhere; and among its most entuthiastic admirers are many who, although boys no longer, retain a lively recollection of their own school days and boyish experiences.
