THE dismissal of Chief Detective Enue, of Philadelphia, because of a difficulty in relation to the division of the reward offered for the capture of an escaped prisoner raises the quesion as to the policy of offering such reward. While the prospect of large pay certainly stimulates the officers in the discharge of their duty, the absence of such inducement makes them careless and indifferent. Public officers are paid to perform certain work. Why, therefore, should it be necessary to offer additional premiums for doing their duty? The very fact that such can be had in many cases has delayed the arrest of offenders whose whereabouts were known, but who were allowed their liberty until some money could be made by their arrest. In the case of the recent heavy robbery of a saving fund in Philadelphia, a large reward was offered for the return of the money or the arrest of the offenders. Most of the money was returned, but enough retained to make it profitable to both thief and officer. Does any doubt for a moment but that the offenders were known and are now free from punishment? If not, why would they, have returned any part of the plunder, and thus, perhaps lead to their capture? The detectives were on their track, certain parties were suspected, and then comes back part of the property by express. Under the present condition of things a shrewd burglar knows exactly how much he must steal to clear himself and pay for his deliverance. Were no reward offered, and thieves to know expiate their offence, we believe that robberies would not be so frequent, or at least that there would be more certainty of a conviction of the find that there "is no cause for action."

SHARSWOOD'S LAWS.

The Legislature can pass no election law ces. He has a reason for dreading Registry it may learn do less grumbling, less scolding Laws. If one had been in existence in 1868 he would not now be Judge of the Supreme issue. Court, but being such he feels bound to keep the way clear for other Democratic brethren who may follow after. In the case of Patterson et al vs. the various city officers, which was brought to test the constitutionality of the new registry law, he delivered an opinion on Saturday morning declaring it unconstitutional and void and based his decision principally upon the distiction made between the rules it provides for the State at large and for the city. We presume the decision only refers to the as applicable to the city. This being only a nisi prius decision given by the Judge, an appeal will be taken to the Supreme Court and question argued before a full bench.

THE dedication of the National Monument at Gettysburg on the 1st of July, promises to be a grand occasion. The names of Senator Morton, Bayard Taylor and Henry Ward Beecher, along will attract thousands, while the memories of the occasion which freed Pennsylvania from the rebel horde and gave together many who participated in the fight or who have cause to remember the day by the loss of friends or relatives. The tents which have been provided by order of Gen. Grant historic grove in which the brave Reynolds fell. Ample accommodation will be provided for all visitors.

SHOULD an extra session of the Legislature now be called, there would be two vacancies in the Senate. One in the Chester, Delaware and Montgomery district, caused by the resignation of Hon. Wilmer Worthington, who has been appointed Appraiser in Philadelphia, and the other in Allegheny county, caused by the resignation of Hon. Russell Smith, who was appointed Assessor of Internal Revenue. In the latter case Hon. C. H. Stinson, Speaker of the Senate, has issued a writ directed to the Sheriff of Allegheny county for an election to be held on the 12th of October for Senator to fill the vacancy. Dr. Worthington's time ex pires after the next election, and no special order is necessary.

THE suppression of illicit whisky distilla tion in certain parts of Philadelphia, is attended with so many difficulties, that the Revenue Officers engaged in the good work have been obliged to make application to the Secretary them in their labor. In certain parts of East in a few weeks sixty illicit distilleries were street, Boston. destroyed. In Baltimore, stupendous frauds have been discovered implicating United States officials. Even in Berks county there are men engaged in the business base enough to evade the laws.

To-DAY the Republican Convention which meets in Philadelphia will nominate candidates for Governor and Judge of the Supreme Court. the rottenness and corruption of the Demo- III. cratic party use his best endeavors to elect our ticket. Pennsylvania's interests must be protected, and that can only be done by showing that she stands firmly pledged to the present national administration and to the principles of the party as laid down at Chicago in 1868. A few more sweeping defeats and Democracy will be no more.

OBITUARY.

Henry J. Raymond, the founder and editor of the New York Times, died suddenly on Thursday evening of apoplexy. He was a brilliant and energectic journalist and was at different times connected with many of the journals of New York. When the Tribune was started in 1841, Mr. Greelev chose him as his first assistant and thus writes of him in "Recollections of a Busy Life:"

him in "Recollections of a Busy Life:"

"I never found another person, barely of age and just from his studies, who evinced so signal and such versatile ability in journalism as he did. Abler and stronger men I may have met; a cleverer, readler, more generally efficient journalist, I never saw. He remained with me nearly eight years, if my memory serves me, and is the only assistant with whom I ever felt required to remonstrate for doing more work than any human brain and frame could be expected to endure. His salary was of course gradually increased from time to time; but his services were more valuable in preportion to their cost than those of any one else who ever aided me on the Tribune."

In 1849 he was elected to the Assembly of his State and served as speaker. In 1869 he was a candidate for United States Senator but was defeated by Gov. Morgan. In 1864 he was elected to Congress from the 6th District of his State and was for a while caudidate for speaker but finally withdrew from the contest. His support of President Johnson soon placed him in equivocal relations with his party associates and he was afterwards credited with having suggested and arranged the wigwam convention in Philadelphia for the purpose of organizing a new party, whose platform should embrace the Johnson policy of struction. This Society is virtually a Life Insurance Company on a plan be within a person of the smallest means can procure the control of the first means and procure in societion to his family in case of his death. If does not accumulate millions of dollars of the means here's money, as do other Hide Insurance Companior, but each of the death of any member.

There is no possibility of this money until called for in the arm of the death of any member.

There is no possibility of this money and the fundamental in the fundamental in the fundamental the fundamental in the fundamental called the second of the fundamental called the second of the second WHY BECOME A MEMBER.

It is no more the moral duty of a man to provide the hilly bread for his family while he lives, than it is to pro-ride against Light heing fort poundless in the event of his leath. A PULICY IN THIS SUCCETY is the CHEAPER and SAFEST mode of making a certain provision for such OUNG MEN are as liable to take leave of life as the pondent sister.

Give the subject your thought, send to the Secretary foour circular, consider its cheapness and we are sure you will at once take out a policy.
