A WORD TO OUR FRIENDS We cannot but admire the constancy of deotion which characterizes the labors of she Dem ocratic politicians in behalf of their own papers but at the same time there is such a thing as run ning it into the ground. The Democratic patron age, of course, should be given to Democratic pa pers, but the persistent practice of Democratic "taking care" of Orphans' Cour advertising and estate notices which belong to Republican papers, displays an amount of meanness and deccit that is despicable. Suppose A. goes to the Court House to take out letters testamentary or of administration. The officer very politely informs the executor or administrator, that h will attend to it for him and save him the trouble of advertising the notice. The executor sequent upon that part of the evening's entertain administrator may be a Republican and probably ment. SENTENCE OF A MURDERER John Deail, recently convicted at Reading f the murder of Richard M. Harlan, was on Mon day sentenced by Judge Woodward to be hanged The prisoner received his doom without any man ifestation of feeling whatever, and conducted himself with the same unconcern that characterized him throughout the trial.

A statement that he had drawn up was read by his counsel to the Court. In this he alleged that after an altercation between them the deceased drew a weapon upon him and demanded his effects, and that he then struck him with the hatchet and then went on his way, not knowing he had caused leath. The prisoner now gives his name as Zachariah H. Snyder.

Prof. Evans' Readings.

We were very much pleased to see the large lience assembled in the Court House, on Tues lay evening of last week, to greet Mr. Evans. bt only was the audience a large one, but it was mposed of the "upper tendom" of our city, and ccount of the object of the "Readings," as ll as the heralding of the Reader, every one was a capital humor, anticipating a very enjoyable ning. A few well chosen words from Rev. W Gries introduced the Reader, and after a few minary remarks the scene from the 3d act of nry the Eighth, between Woolsey and Cromwas given. The first few lines recited, realed two facts-first, that Mr. Evans possessed cep, full voice of great flexibility ; and, second, at his conception of the character and mental ad physical condition of Woolsey was unmistak bly incorrect. To read the lines of Shakspeare n acceptable and agreeable tone is a task that any man possessed of such a voice as Mr. Evans' ould very easily perform. To read them, how-ver, with appropriate intenation and to let every pine at $59. ection have its proper relation to the circ inces under which the words are supposed to be ttered is an entirely different matter, and her

Ir. Evans failed.

The intention of the Dramatist in this conclud g part of the third act is evidently to represent oolsev in a state of despairing resignation, and hen Cromwell enters "amazedly" his pity and dmiration are excited by the patience of his maser who can "humbly thank his grace," the King, vho has - + + i ...

"from these shoulders, These rules pillars, out of pity, takeu A load woold shik a may." Therefore to make Woolsey express himself in tone that was almost loud-mouthed, was to give patience and resignation a voice "that is not heirs by right." The beautiful lines in which vooleey gives advice to Cromwell culminate i tion that renders him unable to proceed and are asks to be led in. The concluding lines, then, hould have been given in a voice trembling, chokng with emotion, and any intelligent reader of akspeare must have felt that upstretched arms and spouting declamation were painfully inappro

The rendition of Darius Green, which followed. vas very good, and his "flying machine" caused considerable laughter. Mr. Evans showed a keen sense of the ludicrous in the character of Abel aw. His assumption of dialect is clear and good. ough nat always well sustained. He recited, by request, "The Bleeping Bentinel," and did well in itting the third part, which is entirely superrogatory. That very unsatisfactory plece, " The sells," was rendered with the usual amount of effort after effect. If Edgar A Poe ever lutended that poem to be read aloud he must have had ome little spite against public readers.

The performance closed with the famous tria scene, Bardell vs. Pickwick. Our Easton friends nd others had led us to expect so much here that is little wonder we were disappointed. A very large party assembled at the house f Dr. Charles Martin, in Walnut street, on Thurs day evening of last week. Upwards of a hundred guests were present and a large number sent-"their regrets." There has never been a party given in Allentown that went off better and when everybody seemed so heartily to enjoy themselves. For those who chose to dance there was a large room provided and good music, while in the par-ors were distributed cards, chess and various games. Everything that could be done by the Doctor and his family for the comfort and amuse nent of their guests was done and by 10 o'clock the house throughout, presented a very lively and niniated appearance. The refreshments on a scale that elicited the admiration of all the guests and they testified their approbation by the very carnest manner in which they attacked them. Everything was of the best quality and in great abundance, and the table presented a most elegant appearance. The musical performances of ome of the ladies and the music and singing of Mr. Alfred Ettinger contributed much to the enjoyment of the guests. We must not omit to mention how thoughtfully the comfort of the gentlemen who smoke was provided for. The best blands of cigars were there and Doctors Martin. Jr., attended to the entertainment of the gentlemen in the smoking room. About 2 o'clock, on Friday morning, the company separated, all highly pleased with this delightful sociable and the kindess and hospitality of their entertainers.

ARRESTED FOR STRALING.

ARRESTED FOR STEALING. Yesterday David Haas and Wm. Hottell, both of Bethichem, were arrested by Constable Bhitz, on a warrant issued by Samuel Brunner, Esq., for various thefts. Mr. Wm. Nickum, on the 12th of January, missed a strap of bells, and a set of single harness belonging to Rer. J. B. Rath, which were kept in the same place. Yesterday morning Mr. Nickum discovered part of the har-ness on the hores of Mr. Felker, butcher, of fouth Bethlehem, who, upon being questioned as to where be got them, stated that he boogist the har-ness and sielgh bells of Haas and Hottell for nine dollars. On the strength of this discovery Mr. Nickum entered complaint and the parties were arrested and taken before Bquire Brunner. Here they denled knowing anything about the harvess.

Mr. Felker was sont for, who appeared and on outh stated that he bought the harness of the do-fendants, but before buying inquired of them where they got the articles. Hostell replied that the harness had been hanging in the house since his father's death, and they thought it best to turn them into money. Upon being confronted by Mr. Felker, Hottell confessed they took the harness and silver plated bells, at the suggestion of Haas, who knew where the harness and bells were, and thought it a good opportunity to make money.
