OBT. IREDELL, JR., Editor and Proprietor ALLENTOWN, PA., MARCH 9, 1870. STORY OF STOREY AND THE

BLONDES. A certain Miss Lydia Thompson, who chieved an unenviable notoriety on the other aide of the ocean, has been fined for an as sault upon a Chicago editor. In England Lydia figured quite conspicuously in that class of entertainment, of which HIS ROYAL LOW-NESS, the Prince of Wales, is the peculiar patron, and as bad examples in high places find plenty of imitators, she became quite the rage among the "bloods" and fast men. Becoming somewhat danced out in England, the this Lydia determined to turn her steps toward or United States, there to find large audiences before whom to kick and frisk. After jigging scanty male attire before New York audiences, it is scarcely to be wondered at, that she and her beyy of "light waterfalled nymphs" should consider Chicago an admiraplace for the display of their peculiar talents. It is no use of Mr. Storey being indignant, Chicago has the character of being newhat looseand free and easy in its morals, and the vulgarity and indecency of the paper he edits helps to keep this up. The Blondes made an indecent exhibition of themselves, which Storey in his journal denounced in such nasty language as made the reprimand worse than the offence. Large audiences still went to see the lovely friskers, and Storey waxed furious. He published an article on their performance which was an outrage in Reelf and which the sex of these performers should have saved them from, with any man of decency. A crowd of them met Storey in the street and assailed him with a whip. Storey retorts with volleys of abuse taken from his editorial mat ter, and finally the parties are taken before a Justice and the women are fined. The silly performances of these women have disgusted lecent people, but not more surely than thefoul utterances of Storey have disgraced journalism for the editor who disgraces his colurns ther," very eloquently descants upon the neby the language he employs to express his cessity of temale patients being attended by want of ideas, does much more harm to the their own sex, and in view of what female community than the antics of a few disreputa- students have undergone at Bellevue Hospital ble females can ever accomplish. And that's she tells the following shocking story of the the moral of Storey's story.

THE LOSS OF THE OVERDA.

A terrible story is that of the loss of the Onelda and yet it is one to make the heart of an American swell with pride and admiration, as well as with pity and regret. One hundred and twenty lives lost! One hundred and twenty of our brave marine defenders gone to a sudden death! Not in the midst of victo-a sudden death! Not in the midst of victo-a sudden death! Noble American Sailors ! Dving they have shed a Justre on country and flag that will not readily fade

If Captain Arthur Wellsby Eyre could have rescued these men, then is he a cowardly murderer, a disgrace to the name of Sailor and deserving the exceration of not only every American citizen but of his own countryman, on whom his conduct cannot but reflect. The result of the investigations of the Court of Inquiry into the circumstances, will be looked for with painful anxiety on both sides of the Ocean.

ISTHMUS OF DARIES.

The project of making a ship canal, across the Isthmus of Darien, has been revived and our telegraphic news of yesterday tells us of the enthusiasm with which it has been received in England. Since William Paterson, in 1695, first conceived the idea of planting a colony on the Atlantic side of the Isthmus and that it makes use of: for, shunning the monstrous forming a commercial entrepot between the and sen-ational style on the one hand, and the Eastern and Western hemispheres, the practicability of such a scheme, notwithstanding his terribly disastrous failure, has had its believers, and his assertion that this failure was Illinoi-. due antirely to the treachery of his enemies in not sending the Colonist+ the promised provisions, is even now regarded by many as correct. In these latter years tile connection of the two occans by a ship canal, has been pronounced perfectly tensible, by the highest seiontific authority. The width of the Isthmus. at one point, is only 30 miles, and through Commander Edwards we learn, that remarkable depressions in the Cordilleras will much facilitate the work. Its importance in these days of commercial intercourse between the astions of the earth, cannot be over-rated, and its progress will be watched with the deepest interest, throughout the civilized world,
