TOM TO NED. Dear Ned,—no doubt you'll be surprised
When you receive and read this letter:
I've riled against the married state,
But then, you see, I knew no better.
I've met a lovely girl out here,
Her manner is—well—very winning;
We're soon to be—well, Ned, my dear,
I'll tell you all from the beginning. SEASONABLE SPECIALTIES

I went to ask her out to ride,
Last Wednesday—It was perfect weather:
She said she couldn't possibly,
The rervants had gone off together,
(Hibernians anways rush away,
At consins' funerals to be looking.) Pies must be made, and she must stay, She said, to do that branch of cooking BLUE AND COLORED DRESS SILKS, > Oh, let me help you," then I cried; "I'll be a cooker, too—how jolly!"

She rolled her sleeve above her arm—
That lovely arm, so plump and rounded;
Outside, the morning sun shone bright;
Inside, the dough was defity pounded.
Her little ingers sprinkled flour,
And rolled the piecrust up in imasses;
I passed the most delightful hour
'Mid butter, sugar, and moiasses. With deep reflection, her sweet eyes PAISLEY AND BROCHA SHAWLS, win deep reflection, her sweet eyes

Gazed on each pot and pan and kettle;
She sliced the apples, illied her ples,
And then the upper crust did settle.
Her rippling waves of golden hair
In one great coll were tightly twisted;
But locks would break out here and there,
And carl about where'er they listed. And then her sleeve came down, and I
Fastened it up—her i ands were doughy;
Oh, it did take the longest time,
Her arm, ned, was fair and snowy!
She blushed, and trembled, and looked shy,
Somehow, that made me all the bolder;

Her arch tips looked so red that I— Well-found her head upon my shoulder. We're to be married, Ned, next month; Come and attend the wedding revels. I really think that bachelors Are the most miserable devils! You'd better go for some girl's hand; And if you are uncertain whether You dare to make a due demand, Why, just try cooking pics together.

THE AMERICAN BONAPARTES. The Imperial Family of France and

Its Connections in Bultimore. The Louisville Courier Journal has the following: The revolutionary movements which are now going forward in France invest the Napoleonic dynasty with additional interest. Prince Pierre Bonaparte, who has caused the pot to boil so fiercely, is a son of the Great Emperor's brother Lucien, who was considered the ablest of the family next after Napo leon. The present Emperor is regarded by many as not a Bonaparte at all, but the son of a Dutch Admiral, by Hortense Beaucharnais the daughter of Josephine. Louis Bonaparte was forced by his brother to marry Hortense. He was in love with another woman, and withal a dreamy sort of person. Those who believe in the operation of a principle of poetic justice running through the progress of history, make mention of the fact that the grandson of Josephine, and not of Napoleon, now rules in France as proof that the "whirligig of time brings in his revenge." Josephine once said: "My progeny shall be supreme." But Josephine was not the only woman who

She then sailed for England, where she took up her residence at Camberwell, near London. And here, on the 7th of July, 1805, was born her an only child, Jerome Napoleon Bonaw iving in Baltimore. Napoleon had determined that his brothers should marry among the princesses of Europe and all efforts to induce him to recognize the wife of Jerome were vain, and Jerome was at last forced to yield to the wishes of the Emperor and marry the Princess Frederica Catharine, of Wurtemburg. Madame Bonaparte met her husband but once afterward, and then no word passed between them. It was in the gallery of the Pitti Palace, at Florence, in The Princess was leaning on the arm of her husband when the meeting took place.
