

The Lehigh Register

ROBT. HEBBELL, Editor and Proprietor. ALLENTOWN, PA., APRIL 6, 1870.

LECTURERS AND EDITORS.

The laudable efforts made by different cities, through the medium of lecturers, are generally responsive to a pecuniary point of view. When the lecture is for a charitable object, the trouble of the affair is placed upon the shoulders of one or two, who get their bills and cards printed for as little as possible and carry them to the lecturers to be published in the Register.

THE CITY OF BOSTON.

All hopes of the missing steamship ever reaching port seem to be over and only in the hearts of those who, having some loved one among the missing, are clinging to the hope, does there remain any doubt of her fate. It seems almost a certainty that she is gone forever, and that until the "sea gives up its dead" her crew and passengers will never more be seen.

STRIKES.

Capital and labor combined are mighty for good, separated they cannot achieve much. Machinery has not yet been brought to such perfection, that manual labor can altogether be dispensed with and therefore the man who holds the pen, employs his fellow who needs the tool. It is a necessity of existence to the majority of our race.

ADULTERATION.

Purity is a quality admired, respected, talked about, made much of. It is like the diamond, valuable on account of its scarcity, and when found is not always made much of and admired, but is hidden secretly, a prize to none but its possessor.

MURDER WILL OUT.

The history of crime plainly shows that though in a few isolated cases, the evil-doer may escape "murder will out" and the shedder of blood be brought to account. It would seem that a special Providence frustrates all the deep laid plans of the guilty one and makes him leave a track behind him that will not all his ingenuity can efface.

MAJOR GENERAL GEORGE H. THOMAS.

General George H. Thomas died in the city of San Francisco on Monday week. He was born in Southampton county, Virginia, on the 15th of July, 1816, and was frequently named as fifty-four years of age.

When quite a youth, George H. Thomas commenced the study of the law, but when he reached his twentieth year he received, through the influence of his friends, an appointment to a cadetship in the United States Military Academy at West Point. He entered that institution and four years afterwards (June 1840) graduated twenty in a class which numbered forty-two members.

Assigned to a second lieutenant in the 3rd Artillery, he served in Florida and on Nov. 6th, 1841, was promoted first lieutenant for "gallant conduct." Early in 1842 he was at New Orleans, later at Fort Monroe, Charleston Harbor. December, 1843, in Maryland, promoted first lieutenant April 30th, 1844. July, 1845, reported to General Zachary Taylor at Corpus Christi. Participated in successful defence of Fort Brown against the Mexicans, from the 21st to the 26th of May, 1846. Fought at Resaca de la Palma under Taylor, and at the battle of Monterrey. September 30, 1846, was breveted Captain. At Buena Vista gained the encomiums of his chief and the brevet rank of major.

THE ROYAL EXILE.

Prince Don Carlos is to leave France. The necessities of Imperial Statesmanship demand of him that he should be obedient to the appointment of his father, Gen. Sherman, as his superior officer, and showed the "moral courage" that puts self in subordination to "country." Gen. Thomas' army formed the centre on Sherman's march to Atlanta, and captured the city on the 22nd of October, 1864, after a brilliant campaign.

GOOD ADVICE.

There is nothing so easily obtainable as good advice, because it is cheap and very easy to give. This is the reason why so many men are like finger posts by the roadside and continually point the road they never go themselves. "My boy," says the drunkard, never get drunk. "Is'er (it) had built." Very good advice, and not at all out of the way if preaching and practice were of a similar nature.

OLD SAYS WITH NEW HANDLES.

When the cat's away—the servants have some difficulty in accounting for broken crockery and damaged china. The cat is the law, the law through the commission of another crime and since his capture, Detectives Taggart and Smith have confirmed their previous suspicion that he is the monster who murdered this poor child.

PREACHERS AND BERNIZERS.

Noah Webster defines a sermon as "a discourse delivered in public for the purpose of religious instruction and grounded on some text or passage of Scripture." His definition of the intransitive verb "to preach" is "to utter earnest advice on moral or religious grounds."

Accepting these two definitions it seems obvious, that for the busy hard-worked man of business it is better to hear a minister preach than to hear him deliver a sermon. There are good reasons for this. In the first place, the sermon is a long and tedious affair, and is often a mere repetition of what has been said before. The statistics of crime in the city of London show this same spirit of imitation. Certain places there have grown to be the "fashion" for suicides. Waterloo Bridge was immortalized by Hood as the "bridge of the dead" because of the number of suicides that were committed there.

INCENDIARISM AS A DISEASE.

Where murder forms the topic of conversation and occupies the prominent place in the public mind, the chief cause of the disease is to induce a horrible fascination for the "horror," which grows into a morbid, unreasoning desire to imitate. This is the same kind of feeling which makes men, standing upon some elevated place, speculate upon the act of suicide with a shuddering desire to jump.

A REVOLT AGAINST "REVOLUTION."

While the ladies of the platform and the press, who demand the right of voting for their sex, are industriously preaching "reform," we are glad to find that the "majority" are also represented. Miss Beecher's admirable address on Monday evening, March 28th, was an appeal for the advancement of her sex by a surer and a more perfect way than any ballot rights can give them. It might be read and pondered over by every woman.
