very rapidly, their growth in liberality culture and refinement has been quite as marked. The Common School system here has attained a prefection and completeness that few comnunities can boast of and is an honor to the intelligent and tiberalminded citizens who have been the prime movers and projectors in the noble work. The grand edifices sacred to the cause of education in our city, are monuments to the enterprise and intelligence of the peoplc of Allentown.

The situation of Allentown, the numerous lines of Railroad radiating to every part of the country, our mineral and agricultural wealth, our gigantic iron and steel works and the energy and business aptindte of our people which incites them to fresh improvement day by day-all point unmistakably to the fact, that under a broiling sum to witness it, and paid in the not remote future, here will be situated fifty cents for the privilege.
