CRIME AND REMORSE.

The daily record of life in New York and indeed in most of our large cities shows that the highest crime known to the law is of almost daily occurrence. At this time there seems to be a terrible epidemic raging amongst the victous, inciting them to deeds of blood and violence. With fiendish cruetty they plan the death of an enemy and with deadly certainty their plans are executed. Inflamed with drink they give the loose rein to their hellish propensities and revel in the excitement of violence and lawlessness. Entering by night the dwelling of a victim for the purposes of robbery, they "silence" the unfortunate who interferes with them, and the morn- the men who take an interest in local politics ing sun looks down on the mangled corpse of a loving father, a true friend, a good and

When a man, who is not given over to vice and wickedness but leading a blameless life, suddenly is placed in a situation of great temptation and in an unguarded moment commits an awful crime, then the whole course of his to rule, and majorities will rule. When this "tiger" is caught and convicted of his crime, the law says that he must die Then step in certain weak minded, largehearted, humanitarians and surround the culprit, whose check is blanched and whose nerves are shaken in the presence of death, and cry "Mercy! Mercy! behold his remorse!" They tell how this man, so vile and wicked, was once innocent and good. They show how step by step, he was led into crime, and point to the completed, perfected, brutalized wretch he has become and say

" have pity upon this man." And the criminal, what of him? Why this of him. At every fresh step in his downward career he has wilfully and deliberately stopped his cars and shut his eyes to the way of escape. He has steeled his heart against the sufferings of his victims whom he has preyed upon like a wolf, and of his own self has been that he might escape detection and with all its dread mystery stares him in the that he denied his victim. It is next door to an impossibility to discover a murderer who leaves nothing but the marks of a struggle to establish an identity. A republic without elections is a fraud and If, therefore, the murderer of Mr. Nathan should never be discovered, it will only be an experience that has been common in the annals of crime. The Joyce, Burdell, and Rogers murderers are still buried in mystery and though the whole country was in a state of horror and excitement over the murder of Bartholomew Burke in 1856, and the murder of Dr. Lutener in 1854, in a crowded part of Broadway, as he sat at his office window in broad daylight, the murderers have never been

Statistics show that in at least one fourth of all the murders committed in New York during thirteen years the murderers have remained undiscovered, disproving the proverb that murder will out, and showing clearnot, the precautions of criminals or the accidents of time and place may be such, that all uman sagacity is at fault. One of the most laughable and yet deplorable things in connection with the war, is the nonchalence with which newspaper writers sit down at the editorial table and breathe out fir and slaughter. They destroy with a stroke of the pen a magnificent navy, and in a paragraph of three lines, hold up to the gaze of thousands of readers a mighty and powerful nation, painted to represent a ruin and a wreck. With the most profound air, they cooly ignore ability, patriotism or common honesty on the part of the nation they may oppose, and with their feeble quills will invenand embellish for their friends, to such an ex

THE NEW YORK TRIBUNE.

As the time approaches for the active work of the campaign of 1870, it is a gratifying consideration for the Republican party that they have on their side the most able and universally respected journal in the United States. The representative men who conduct the New York Tribune have carned for that paper a reputation for truth, candor and sincerity that have caused enemics that openly revile it to secretly respect it. Its enterprise in paying &c. of the victim, we are brought to a dead liberally for and obtaining news, political and otherwise, places it far ahead of other newspapers, while its immense resources, combined with the wisdom and skill of its "chiefs," enable it to be equal to any sudden exigency which may arise from internal or foreign disaster or commotion.

The Democratic papers declare that the majorities of New York "thunder through the States." It is true they thunder, but such a "thundering lie" was never thundered before. Last Friday John Real was choked to death New York for the crime of Wilful Murder, in that he did wilfully and deliberately shoot Officer Smedick of the New York police force. The crime was committed between two and three years ago and Real has been remanded ime and again. Appeals were made to different Courts but all was of no avail. The condemned man declared in his "last appeal," that the Rogers murder, which took place at the time of his trial, and the Nathan murder, which has lately taken place, caused in the first place his conviction and in the last destroyed his chance of mercy.

He went to the scaffold tranquilly, bearing himself with fortitude and calmness, and apparently only anxious that his soul might be prepared for the dread presence in which it was shortly to stand.

SOLLIDAY'S IMPROVED STOVE GRATE, NOW READY!

LESS THAN HALF THE PRICE of a whole grate. Besides, it offers a great convenience in the usually disagreeable matter of removing ashes and cinders. By his improved grate the entire accumulation of a day may be lifted out in a mass by slupply withdrawing the side and depositing contents in such recopracies as may be at hand, without the usual annoyance of scattering dirt and dust over fours, and without necessitating the use of puker, showel and fingers, as at precent. As may readily be seen, the

IMPROVED GRATE IS SIMPLE and a great convenience, filling a want that has long been felt. It is not only a contribute for labor and time saving but desirable to the housewife in various ways, once in clearing the accountry, this grain stands alone as the as a matter fection, for the side may be drawnout and in created at will. In the entire it of patents on Stove Grains so far issued from the U.S. Patent Office, numbering 113, there is nothing that Approaches this in either Design, Shape or

This grate is all that is claimed for it, having passed through the severest practical tests of ever kind.

These slide grates are now on sale at the Younder, of the undersigned inventor, corner of Ninit and state to fit say. Atlentown, where only market. Partice contemplating to introduce them, will please take memorandum of No. and name of Stoye to which they intend to apply them.
