POLITICAL.—The Norrisstown Herald says: "The Democratic Party are strong in force at our Norrisstown Saturday night. The only trouble was the Acker and Boyer men, who were 'short, sharp, and decisive.' Acker, however, coming off first, beating Boyer in all the three rounds, and then, at the next meeting, being elected, and heavy bets on Acker were lost, the Acker delegates having been elected by 63 majority. In the Upper Ward there were 516 votes polled, 312 in 11 majority for Acker delegates, from the county at large, while in the nomination of Acker."

The Democrats of Montgomery have nominated A. J. Anderson, Esq., for Senator, and John J. C. Harvey and Oliver G. Morris, of Hatfield, for Assembly.

The Dauphin County (Pa.) Republican Convention yesterday unanimously instructed for the re-nomination of John B. Facker for Congress, and unanimously elected E. Parsons and A. Smith for the Legislature.

NOW-A-DAYS you can hardly pick up a newspaper without reading such headlines as "A Sad Suicide," "A Mysterious Suicide," and so forth. There is one thing which is almost as sad as the suicide—and that is that the reporter of the nineteenth century should have such a knowledge of the privileges and limitations of knowledge. Where is the suicide that is "not sad"? Did you ever hear of a cheerful suicide, or a happy martyr? Upon a level with such expressions as "dear old father" and "alliance outrage," who ever saw a villain that was not heartless, or an outrage that was polite and gentlemanly?

Write on this point what you mention in the "moments of the past," which are so frequent in the themes of novelists, poets and dramatists.

My fond heart throbs with memories of the past, exclaims Alton to Imogene. Did Imogene suspect that the heart was throbbing with memories of the future? What memories are there but memories of the past? The age may be one in which the schoolmaster is abroad, but he has certainly not left his rhetoric to his successors in such a measure as to write and speak in language representing sense more correctly than the expressions quoted above.
