as was described in connection with the Lehigh Crane Works. In the matter of blowing engines however, there is a difference as compared with the works at Catasauqua. There are four large blowing engines at the Crane Works to produce the blast for the six furnaces, and at the Allen own there is a blowing engine connected with each furnace. The Allentown Works were among the first in the country to apply an engine to each furnace, and this plan affords some manifest practical advantages in the regulation of the blast The blowing engines used are forty-eight inch steam cylinder, eighty-four inch blowing cylinder, and seven and one-half feet stroke. Connected with the works are a machine shop, a blacksmith's shop and a foundry. The foundry, Closky arrested a man, partially intextented, in the act of taking a horse and buggyin front of the pany's own work, but some work is done there for pany's own work, but some work is done there for United Brethren church. He was locked up until outside parties, in cases where the same patterns used in the Company's work are desl ed. The original forty inch steam cylinders of the blowing engines were enlarged in this foundry to fortyeight, and most of the locomotives used by the Company are built there. The Magnetic iron ore is obtained from the Dickerson and Barker mines in Morris county, N. J. The Hematite ore is obtained in Lehigh and Berke countles, principally in Lebigh. The limestone is procured in part from lands owned by the Com (riumph in the buddical art!) Theoreands offer their constraintions to Dr. Brizge for the action heling success, and the superdy relief and endored the pany, and in part from other quarries in the near vicinity of the Works. The coal is obtained from the Hazleton region. The aggregate annual consumption of raw material when the furnaces are all in blast is about 175,000 tone, and the product from this is about 35,000 tons of foundry iron. When the enlargements of the furnaces now in progress and contemplation have been completed. e annual consumption and Froduct will be respec tively 200,000 and 40,000 tons. About four hundred mon are employed at the furnace and mines. The iron made is sold in Philadelphia, New York'and CATARREN, HEADACHE, NEURALDIA, &C.-HOW Boston. The Company owns clighty-two acres of land in the vicinity of the Works and fifty-five there are who have not suffered with at least one of the above distracting dispaces.
