THE LATE JOHN COVODE.

The death of Hon. John Covode at Harrisburg on Wednesday morning was very sud-den, and occurred after an illness of only a few hours duration. Mr. Covode and his wife had been to Philadelphia to place some of their children at school, and they stopped at Harrisburg over night on their return west.

Shortly after tea Tuesday evening Mr. Covode

The probable duration of the suspension and the condition of the coal market for the present year are matters of great interest to the business public, and there is a variety of theories in regard to these ques tions. Some anticipate only a suspension of two or three weeks while others predict that Accounts.--Messrs. Knight, Finduly, Gha-ham, Rutan, Henzey. Estates and Escheats.--Messrs. reaching market, the expense of getting out coal,&c., and the final result will be that each region will have to stand upon its own footing. It seems a little absurd that men who are at work at comfortable wages in Carbon and Schuylkill counties should drop their mining tools and sit in idleness for an indefinite numher of weeks or months just because the mi ners in Luzerne county could not command the wages which they thought they ought to have. The same principle applied to any other industrial pursuit would seem unreasonable enough, and we see no reason why common sense should not be exercised in coal mining as well as anything else. The men who are engaged in mining must either take the wages for their work which the state of the market will allow or devote themselves to something else. They have free option as to what they will do, but it is doubtful if they can very long sustain themselves in the position which they have taken in effect, viz : that every person who uses a ton of coal must pay a certain price for it. The practical difficulty will be that while they are thus striving to control the market the market will gradually slip away from them. The anthracite coal rade is an important source of wealth to Pennsylvania, so important that we are anxious that it should be fully retained, and there is no denial that these periodical stoppages are detrimental and prejudicial to the trade in the estimation of the purchasing public. We hope, therefore, that the present suspension will h brief one, and that mining operations will soon be resumed in the anthracite regions.
