THE END DRAWS NEAR. The armistice for three weeks which has been signed by the German and French leaders at Paris marks the near approach of the end of and of Louis Napoleon at Sedan, and what a world of suffering and loss of life would have been escaped had France been able and willing to see in that surrender a sure indication what must inevitably follow the continuance of the war. The loss of men upon both sides since the war commenced will amount to fully half a million, and neither France nor Germany will recover from the effects of carrying on a struggle which has strained every nerve to the utmost until after the lapse of several and when two great nations concentrate their another all the employments and arts of peace suffer, and debts are piled up whose payment will tax the productive energies of generations. and lov, not because it marks the complete liumiliation of so brave and determined a neobe within the past few months, but rather because it is the forerunner of peace. We can imagine something of the delight with which Emperor William's brief and concise dispatch to the Empress of Germany was received at Berlin on Sunday, and Emperor in his wish that peace may soon fol-Says the dispatch: "Last night and Regulars and Mobiles are to be kept in Paris prisoners of war. All the armies in "the field will retain their respective positions, the ground between opposing lines to be neutral. This is the reward of patriotism, heroism, and great sacrifices. MINORITY REPRESENTATION. The State Senate has passed Mr. Buckalew's bill for allowing cumulative voting, or minorlty representation, in the election of school directors. The bill provides that whenever two or more directors are to be chosen in a district for the same term of service each voter may give all his votes to any one of the candidates, or distribute them among the different candidates as he pleases. In case three directors are to be chosen for one, two or three to one candidate, give two to one and one to another, or one to each of the three. Mr. Buckalew's idea in introducing this measure is to familiarize the people with the practical workings of the minority representation principle, and it argues well for the confidence the friends of the system have in it that they are so active in endeavoring to have it practically tried. There is no so good test for any theory as actual practice, and we hope that the House will concur with the Senate in the passage of this bill. The vote on the final passage of the bill in the Senate was twenty-three yeas to four nays. Of those voting in the affirmative twelve were Republicans and eleven were Democrats, and the four negative votes were all from the Democratic side, one of them being thrown by Mr. Albright of this city.

This district is properly a Republican one, but the Democrats carried it last fall through the apathy and divisions of the Republicans and Griffith, a man of good repute as a soldier in the late war, a lawyer and a citizen, and on years each, each voter is entitled to three votes Wednesday they took the trouble to go to the f course, and he may give those three votes polls in sufficient numbers to elect him. There is nothing specially meritorious in voting for one's party candidate under ordinary circumstances, because that is a part of the duty owed to the party which represents one's political convictions; but our Philadelphia friends have been so much in the habit recent y of accounting for the success of Democratic candidates by the negligence of Republican voters that we desire to give them full credit Wednesday.

All hope, at first, gave way, and he was about to let himself drop into the water below and end at once his miserable feelings. But, feeling above, he found the clay easily crumbled, and hope revived. The pole ladder, it seems, was still standing, and getting hold of it with one hand, he with the other, scratched away for dear life, the dirt falling into the water below as he dragged his body slowly upwards. It seems he did not suffer much in breathing, as fresh air came down the pole, around which the dirt was loosely packed. In the incredible short time of seven hours he scratched a hole some forty feet long, through which he made his escape. The moral has a direct bearing, and and is as good as a sermon on the text,
