Instrumental music is suspended, the altars are stripped of their ornaments and the statues are hidden from sight. Everything denotes the greatest penitential vigor and sorrow. On the evenings of Wednesday and Thursday and Friday, the "Tenebrae" is celebrated. During this service a large candlestick, a triangle, denoting Christ and the prophets who tredleted his coming, stands in the sanctuary. The lights are severally extinguished, until only the upper one remains, which is then placed under the altar and brought out at the close of the office. RESUMPTION IN THE COAL REGIONS .- The Wilkesbarre correspondent of the Scranton Republican gives us consolation in the following:-J. H. Swover's works-Enterprise and Port Bowkley on the Plankroad and Pleasant Valley-were all unning to-day, and we are informed that one andred and eleven cars of his coal were shipped from Penobscot to-day, by the Lehigh and Sus quehama Railroad. This is a fair start, but the number will be somewhat augmented as things get running smoothly. It seems to be believed, and in fact Mr. Swoyer himself says that he expects to pay the increased toll—the four cents per ton per mile, and there is no little speculation as o how he will manage to make the business pay. Probably he chooses to run this risk as it will giv him some advantage in the market. What effect this beginning will have upon the other works bereabouts has not developed to-day. but it is the conviction of gentlemen who certainly ought to know, that not a few of the operators will make a speedy attempt to follow the exampl set. And if they do, and thus gradually the whole Luzerne region resumes work, we may look for a better order of things-breathe a more healthy business atmosphere—at a not distant day.

BEAUTIFUL AQUARIUM .- Mr. Wm. Siege has, in the bar-room of the Eagle Hotel an aquarium of his own handiwork which is one of the most beautiful affairs of the kind we have yet seen. It is octagonal in shape and in the centre is a globe containing a lively bullfinch, which has the appearance of fraternizing with the gold fish. It is a very pretty contrivance and reflects credit upon Mr. Sieger's mechanical genius. Cincus Coming. - The agent of J. E. War

THE RAFTING SEASON. - Up to this date the number of rafts that have been floated down the susquehanna from the pineries of the north and west, have been much smaller than in forme ears. From a reliable lumberman from the town of Clearfield, we learn that there are yet million of feet of timber laying on the bills in that region which cannot be got out to the water course fo want of snow, as the season for dragging or driv-ing them around with no snow to facilitate the gration. Unless another freshet should take place this spring, a large amount of timber will emain out of the market .- State Journal. SUPPOSED MURDER AT SCHANTON-THE

AUTHORITIES VIGOROUSLY INVESTIGATING THE Case, -Early Monday a story was circulated upon the streets that a murder had been com mitted sometime during Sunday night, in the Sixth ward. On going to the scene of the supposed aurder, in company with the officers, we found note of blood upon the old Dodgetown bridge and vidences of a flerce struggle, also blood marks upon the snow and ground from the bridge to use situated about one hundred and fifty feet distant. On entering this house we found blood upon the stairway and also upon the garments and articles of furniture in the upper rooms which the woman, keeper of the place, a Mrs Veideman, could give no satisfactory account of. An old lady living near the bridge says, that at a late hour of the night she heard a noise and a cry of murder, which taken in connection with the vidences of foul work already mentioned, has led the authorities to suspect that a foul crime has een committed. Men were at once set to work dragging the river, while policemen were busily engaged in searching about the premises of adjacent property in quest of the body or bodies of the supposed victims. Up to this writing no bodies have been found. A guard has been placed over the house of Mrs. Weideman, and persons who are said to have left he premises for Wilkesbarre, have been followed to that place. The streets are full of exaggerated stories, and the most intense excitement prevails ; poses a trick which it may be well to post our rea-In the Sixth ward. Thus the dead-lock falls to pieces from its own weight, or causes not at first anticipated. The prospects are flattering for a good spring business after all. There is much depression among business men, but that will soon wear off as coal goes more freely to the market. Allentown as Seen by an Outsider.

Star writes to that paper as follows:—
MAUCH CHUNK, March 29.—I promised, while at Allentown, to tell you something of that cityto do which, it may be well to start about 1760, when James Allen laid out the town of Northampton, by which name the place was known until 1800, when it was christened after its founder. Its population increased slowly until the rallroads were constructed, and in 1867 it became a city, he present population of which is between 14,000 and 15,000. The town lies at the confluence of the Lehigh and Little Lehigh rivers. Along the river are numerous iron working establishments. Most of the stores and dwellings are on the high ground "on the other side of Jordan." Mark Twalu's Innocents need not to have gone abroad to have shivered on the stormy banks of that little creek in Palestine, for one of the same name and probably as large, flows through the city of Allen-Several fine churches and school liouses. a good substantial court house and a beautiful Jail are among the prominent ornaments of the place. Like most of our interior towns, Allentown has a market square or large open plaza at the crossing of the two principal streets. Of course we visited the opera house, o very neat and comodious building, well adapted for the purposes intended as long as there is no panic, but the means of exit are execrable. One of the most interesting localities in Allentown is the "Crystal Spring" on the Little Lehigh. Here is an immense spring, which supplies the city with water, and then sends fully as much to waste. The water is clear and limpid, and is confined in a circular pond, with bright stones, flowers, etc., at the bottom, the beauty of which is intensified by looking which dealers replenish their stocks and the ladies through about six feet of water. Your reader may think that I posted myself very thoroughly about the founding of the place in one day's visit so I will own up and tell you that portion of my information was obtained from a map, the fines I have ever seen. Some twelve years ago it was commenced by a German, named Ashbach, and

On our journey along this beautiful river, from Allentown to Mauch Chunk, we passed Catasaugua, Hokendaugua, and Coplay, and found only one furnace going at each place those celebrated fire and burglar-proof safes of -three out of fourteen. The stores a c doing but which M. S. Young & Co. are the agents, and the little, and business is really at a stand still. As general adoption of these indispensable articles for | we passed along the road, every spare siding was preserving valuable accounts, etc., which are full of empty coal cars. Yet it does not end here; hundreds of men, engaged in working iron, are thrown out of employment, and the savings of cars must be drawn upon to pay for the necessaries of life. Surely the people have some rights,
