OUR NEXT GOVERNOR. We have already expressed our sentiment strongly in favor of the Hon. G. Dawson Coleman, of Lebanon county, as the most suitable man to fill the gubernatorial office at the next ensuing election. Our object in taking ground thus early was to prepare the public for a candidacy which we intend to press more carnestly hereafter. And we are the more moved to do this because we perceive that the wire workers have been busy for some time past in preparing the way for success of other candidates. Mr. Coleman has now been identified with the public affairs of the commonwealth so long that his name must be familiar to all who are in any degree conversant with our State politics. He has been repeatedly a member of both houses of the Legislature, where he has made for himself hosts of warm friends, without in the slightest degree defiling himself with the corrupt schemes and the low chicanery for which Harrisburg has earned so unenviable a reputation. Raised by birth and fortune far above all temptations to mix in mere corrupt moneygetting, Mr. Coleman has been in the Legislature of this commonwealth a high and honorable specimen of that better class of publicists for which popular sentiment yearns, and of which it sees so few. While others have been wholly absorbed in special legislation for base purposes, and while almost all about him have had axes to grind, Dawson Coleman has been a manly and noble specimen of a real Pennsylvania gentleman, never stooping to personalities, never countenancing any measures for the sake of gain, never turning away from public interests to serve private ones. The dignity of the statesman has, in his case, been admirably blended with the easy and pleasant manner that banishes distinctions of rank and wealth, and treats every man according to his merits. We do not mention Mr. Coleman's princely estate to induce any idea that wealth should be a passport to power and high position, or to incite the cupidity of the partizans who are always on the lookout for a rich candidate for peculiar reasons of their own. But we advocate his nomination because we know him well, and have learned to honor him for his strict integrity and his utter freedom from pretention of any kind. He has served in the ranks with other men, patiently and laboriously, and has gradually won his high place in public confidence by sheer merit, and without in any way buying position or purchas-

Mr. Coleman is a very extensive owner of iron mines and furnaces, and his business qualities are such as to entitle him to take rank with the most successful business-men in Philadelphia, where he is well-known, and with whose interests he is as much identified as he is with those of Lebanon county. Place him in the gubernatorial office, and we should then have an executive familiar with the interests of all parts of the State from his long service in the Legisleture, and whose signiture for any measuse could not be bought. We do not urge him as a man above the common politics of the State, for that sort of nonsense deceives no one. In our judgment the public affairs to be entrusted with high position. But we do urge Mr. Coleman as a man, will stoop to no low trickery, and will be concerned in no base bargains. We place our choice on record, and call upon our contemporaries of the Republican faith to help on the honest man-one who is, like Bayard of old, above suspicion and above reproach.-Germantown Telegraph.

THE RAILROAD LEASE. Although the lease of the railroad and cana lines of "The United Company" by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company is everywhere recognized as a very important event in the railroad history of the times, comparatively few persons appreciate the magnitude and scope of the transaction. The common idea is that the Pennsylvania Railroad has obtained control of the two lines of railroad between Philadelphia and Jersey City and be tween Camden and Amboy, and of the Delaware and Raritan Canal, and that that is the these roads constitude less than one-third of the whole amount of roads which passes into the hands of the lessees. These roads comprise one hundred and fifty-four miles of track while the whole amount of road transferred is four hundred and ninety-eight miles, beside sixty five miles of canal, two ferry companies and one bridge company.
