He held that mental arith-metic was a neccessary branch in the school-room, since it cultivates the greatest number of faculties of the public mind. He gave as secondary advantages that the pupils, by stu-dying it, will better understand the principles underlying mathematics, and that pupils will be more able to express the ideas in their own language. As chief advantages he claimed that it gives the pupils mental discipline and draws out their power of abstraction. Mr. Kresge opened the discussion and explained how primary classes should be tanght, and held that it was better to take a slow and sur-held that it was cussion was closed. should be used as an incentive in the spelling classes. The President, Mr. Bernd, gave a plan by which cheating in spelling classes could be avoided, provided there is cound blackboard surface. He recommended that all the members of the class write the exercises on the blackboard. Mr. Ithouls did not so much approve of the so-called trapping system, for the reason that it was only an incentive to the best spellers in the class. He approved of the plan, to have all scholars repeat every syllable in oral spelling. LOCOMOTIVE ON THE CAMDEN AND AMBOY RAILROAD GOING INTO A STATION WITH A COMPSE IN FRONT-THE MYSTERY NOT FAT-ISFACTORILY EXPLAINED.

From the New York World of Tuesday. The train which arrived from New York, at Lawrence, on the Camden and Amboy Rail-road, at 2.41 on Sunday morning, carried with it up on the "cow catcher" of the locomotive the body of a man whose name and the man-ner of whose death are as yet unknown. When the train stopped at the station the station-master found the mangled remains lying across the iron bars of the "cow-catcher," with arms a...d legs broken and stripped of both clothing and flesh.
