

The Lehigh Register. ALLENTOWN, PA., JUNE 26, 1872. FOR PRESIDENT, Gen. ULYSSES S. GRANT, OF ILLINOIS.

REPUBLICAN STATE TICKET. FOR GOVERNOR, Major General JOHN F. HARTRAFF, OF MONTGOMERY COUNTY.

ANYTHING TO MEAT GRANT, is the motto of the organs of the Democracy. The old appeals to prejudice against the negro are not to be uttered, but Horace Greeley is to be nominated to catch Sambo's vote.

The Tribune is now the organ of the Democracy. Its statements of affairs within the party are worthy of some attention. In an article entitled "The Democratic Campaign," it shows forthly how the Democratic party is rapidly dissolving and going over to the Liberal Republicans.

Notwithstanding the efforts of Forney to carry the State for Harttraff and Allen and the Republican Principles which they represent, are the most cheering character, and not a shadow of doubt can be cast upon the result.

OUR view of this State's great end that Greeley is to be elected, and that the party is to be dissolved, and that the people are to be ruled by a few of its members.

M. J. GREELY AN ASSASSINATION. As early as November 9, 1869, Mr. Greeley demonstrated how unscrupulous and unprincipled he had been to have entrusted the guidance of these United States to his sagacity and wisdom.

THE Democratic papers complain that the National Government taxes the people upon everything from which revenues can be derived, - that the cost of maintaining the Government falls heavily upon the land owners of the country.

A RELIABLE report informs us that after the adjournment of the Indiana Democratic State Convention, Dan Voorhees, with feelings of the deepest regret, remarked that no ticket could ever be elected in Indiana in the face of such a profligate prostration of all principle and decency as had there been witnessed that day.

THE editor of the Mincers' Journal, Mr. Bancroft, is a gentleman whose every statement can be implicitly relied upon, and since he has made the assertion we believe that Horace Greeley gave him that assurance concerning the Democratic party.

THE REPUBLICAN PROSPECT IN Pennsylvania. Notwithstanding the efforts of Forney to carry the State for Harttraff and Allen and the Republican Principles which they represent, are the most cheering character, and not a shadow of doubt can be cast upon the result.

OUR view of this State's great end that Greeley is to be elected, and that the party is to be dissolved, and that the people are to be ruled by a few of its members.
