And yet our people know John W. Forney; and many are not surprised at his present course. The reason for this is an itter want of helief in his integrity since his gross exposure of himself in 1863. Many can recall a very significant possage in his personal history which it is but just the general public should now have. On the eve of the 18th of November, 1863, there were gathered at Gettysburg a greater number of emement persons than have ever since, or before graced it. On that evening the citizens with a band, went to the houses containing these distinguished guests and serenaded them. A number of them reand screnaded them. A number of them reand serended them. A number of them he sponded to the popular call. The occasion was a purely patriotic one, and not political. Mr. Lincoln merely acknowledged the compliment; for it was on the next day that he gave utterance to those grandest words in the annals of time. Mr. Seward responded at some length, and with the accustomed sagacity which distinguished him. Pennsylvanians stranger, and gentlemen whom he met here, Democrats as well as Republicans, were won to his sile by his gentlemanly conduct. At Catasauqua his speech was conspicuous for its fairness and freedom from abuse—a speech which the most ardent Democrat could not take exception to. It was an impartial, unbrought about, and his agency in the affair.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

A Perilous Season .- Glorious and delightful a the Summer weather is, its tropical heatis a severe tria to the vital powers. Even the strongest are sometime prostrated by its effects. The common phrase applied t this condition of the body is "general debil all cents. The liver is more or less affected, the bowels are either constipated or too much relaxed, the stomach but half performs the work of digestion, the appetite is poor, and the splitts depreased. This is what is called general debility. It is a general disarrangement of all the physical functions, and requires as a reasedy a medicine that will regulate them all. Hustatter's Stomach Bitters is specially adapted to his perpose. Its general operation is not confined to a single organ. If the liver is affected, it regions its tone. If the stomach is torpid, it recements it. If the nerves are transitions and weak it braces and reinforces them. If the find which ever it braces and reinforces them. If the mind, which eve it braces and reinforces them. If the inlind, which ever sympathies with the body, is gloomy and despandent, it relieves the d. fliculty and soon brings the whole mechan-ism of the body that harmony with the laws of health. There is no civilized nation in the Western Hemisphere in which the utility of Hosterter's Stomaco Bitters as a confe, corrective, and anti-billious use icleu. Is not known and appreciated. Throughs it the Propics it is considered, both by the people and the profession, the specific. While it is a medicine for all seaclimates, it is especially suited to the complaints genclimates, it is especially smided to the complaints generated by the weather, being the pure t and best vegetable stimulant in the world.

Beware of the Bitters made of serid and dangerous material, which unscrupulous pattles are endoavoring to folst upon the poppie. Their name is legion, and the public has no guarantee that they are not poisonous. Adhere to the tried roadely, Hostetter's Bitters, sold only in glass, and never in kegs or barrels.
