She has no postal system, and her only means now of communicating information is by couriers on land, and by steamers The Western World knows that China is a very large country, in the main densely peo-pled; but few yet realize that she contains more than a third of the human race. The latest returns made to her central authorities for taxing purposes by the local magistrates make her population Four Hundred and Four-teen Millions, and this is more likely to be under than over the actual aggregate. Near ly all of these, who are over ten years old, not only can but do read and write. Her civilization is peculiar, but her literature is as ex-tensive as that of Europe. China is a land of teachers and traders; and the latter are exceedingly quick to avail themselves of every proffered facility for procuring early informa-tion. It is observed in California that the Chinese make great use of the telegraph, though it there transmits messages in English
