

ing for Houlton, where head quarters would be established for the present.

Detachments of British troops continue to be sent from Frederickton to the scene of invasion. Among them a company of Royal Artillery, with a field piece for Woodstock.

The Crocodile, from Halifax, with the 69th Regiment, which was expected at St. Johns, N. B. had not arrived there the 22d.

A body of 1000 militia, were reviewed in Augusta on Tuesday.

A part of the detachment of the Augusta division of Maine troops left here Wednesday for the scene of the difficulties. They had been reviewed the day before by the Governor, who addressed them in a brief animated speech, which was received by the troops with much enthusiasm.

The men are moved by one impulse, which is a fixed determination to uphold the rights of the State.

Gen. Harvey is making drafts on the militia of New Brunswick, and has at present only 500 British regulars in the province.

Gov. Fairfield, in his speech to the Kennebec troops at Augusta, said, according to the Boston Atlas: "go and drive back the British myrmidons, go and defend at the point of the bayonet the honor of our State."

Many say Sir John Harvey will not back out, in which case blood will be shed.

The line of videttes are already in full operation. On the 26th, the day after they were formed they communicated important intelligence from Lincoln to Bangor, 48 miles in four hours.

Mr. Jarvis is clearing out the road from the point, 30 miles further down the Aroostook, where is established, at Houlton, the American head quarters.

It is feared, if the troops and ammunition do not arrive there before the frost is out of the ground, that the roads will be converted by the mild weather into impassable morasses.

THE TROUBLES IN MAINE.

The Message of the President which we publish below, (says the Washington Globe) was received by both branches of Congress without the utterance of a dissenting opinion from the views it contains: In the Senate, Mr. Buchanan, Mr. Webster, Mr. Davis, Mr. Clay, Mr. Walker, Mr. Norvell and Mr. Williams, successively, commented upon the message and documents. There was great unanimity of feeling, and scarce a shade of difference in opinion as it regards the policy on either side of the house. Mr. Clay threw up the idea that the President ought to have taken the matter directly in hand, as the national authority, without addressing himself to the local authorities of Maine. It seems to us that the mode adopted was the only one practicable, for the head of the National Government. He could only interpose by appealing to the state government or that of Great Britain, and the latter is too far off to be reached in time.

Some regrets were expressed by several senators on both sides of the chamber, that the Governor of Maine had not notified his intention to remove the trespassers to the Governor of New Brunswick. Mr. Walker threw out a suggestion, which seemed to us a sufficient answer to the objection. Mr. Walker said, that a right to exclusive jurisdiction had never been set up before by the British Government. The order to arrest it, he said, was a secret in Maine. The exercise of a concurrent jurisdiction by a party entitled to it, required no notice.

THE WEATHER.

The weather for the last two weeks has been very moderate for the season, interspersed with rain and snow, which has rendered the roads almost impassable. The Susquehanna river is now nearly clear of ice, it having broken up about a week since. Some damage has been done to bridges on the river, and to the canal. The piers of the Danville bridge have been seriously injured, but we understand they have received such temporary repairs that the crossing will not be interrupted. The portion of the Northumberland bridge, between that village and the island, has been entirely swept away.

There is one thing, says an exchange paper, that puzzles us surpassingly, and that is, how a man can ever expect to escape ague and fever, who neglects to pay the Printer—Every body out west that takes a paper and don't pay for it, is sure to have that or the night mare—and there's no such thing as curing them till they pay up.

The Next United States Senate.

From present appearances, says the Lancaster Intelligencer, we are led to believe that the next Senate of the United States will be represented only in part by several States. Pennsylvania will be without one, New York, Virginia, Delaware and Michigan. The Federalists in the Senate of Pennsylvania, they having a majority in that body, and in their usual style, in express opposition to the will of the people, declared they would not go into an election. But if we hazard an opinion, and from the elections that have taken place; they will fare rather worse, the longer it is delayed. The people have become alarmed at their late outrageous and high handed measures, that we feel satisfied, when an opportunity is offered them through the ballot box, they will speak in such a manner as will give them leave to retire to the shades of private life.

The Democrats of Connecticut have nominated the Hon. John M. Niles, of the U. S. S. Senate; as their candidate for Governor.

A bill has passed the House of Representatives of Ohio, by a vote of 37 to 32, to prohibit the establishment, in that State, of any branch or agency of the United States Bank of Pennsylvania or any other foreign bank.

CONGRESS.

Adjourned 2 o'clock, on the morning of Tuesday last.

Messrs. Blair and Rives, of the Globe; have been elected printers to the Senate.

The federal papers bawl most lustily that Governor Porter has within the last four weeks of his administration, says the Eastern Sentinel, increased the state debt to the amount of one million and eight hundred thousand dollars. Is there one word of truth in this? In order that Ritter's Cabinet might boast that they had not increased the state debt, they borrowed what money they wanted on temporary loans and promised repayment at short dates; they became partially due in the early part of this year and Ritter had not left one dollar in the Treasury to meet those demands. It required $600,000 on the first of this month to save the credit of the state—these were borrowed temporary, and $1,200,000 were authorized to be borrowed by a stock loan, out of which the 600,000 temporary loan will be refunded. Not one cent of this money is intended to be applied to any object originated under Gov. Porter's administration. The whole goes towards fulfilling engagements made by Ritter—and several millions more will be wanted in the course of this year for the same purposes. The federalists may continue to bawl as much as they please, but they may be assured that the people full well know to "put the saddle upon the right horse."

The Oswego Palladium of Wednesday says:—"We learn from Kingston that Col. Heustis, of Watertown, one of the Prescott prisoners, was executed on Friday last. Also, that one of the prisoners, a deserter from the British army, was shot on the same day."

A few days ago four men had been engaged till dark in felling a tree in the commune of Laplume, in the Lot et Garonne, but left their work before it was finished. One of them; however, went back for some tools he had left behind; but as he did not return; his comrades went to seek him, and found him lifeless on the ground by the side of the tree, which had been blown down by the wind. The surgeons who examined the body could not discover the slightest external contusion or internal injury and attributed his death either by pressure of the air, or to a sudden fright at the fall.

Galignani's Messenger.

Gen. Scott reached this city yesterday from Washington; and proceeded immediately by the afternoon boat to the Eastward—using all despatch to reach the Maine boundary.

If, as we deem probable, no blow shall have been struck before the General's arrival, his efforts, backed by the recommendation of this Government, and of the British Minister, for the mutual withdrawal of troops, will tranquilize all parties.

How enviable, how honorable, the civil triumphs which this military chief has been recently winning in every part of our extended territory, and in every emergency of our country.

These efforts will not be forgotten nor undervalued by a just and grateful people.

Absence of mind.—A friend related to us the other day and extraordinary ease of absence of mind. A merchant in emptying some liquor from one barrel into the other, clapped the funnel into his mouth, and did not discover the mistake until he found himself running over.

A new idea.—At the inns in the little country towns upon the Ohio, it is usual, as in many other places, to have girls who wait upon the table. Their common way of ascertaining whether a man will have his coffee with or without milk, is to enquire whether he will take it clear or cloudy.

Major Noah says.—"Brother Jonathan, a great ox weighing 4000 lbs, has arrived in this city on his way to England for exhibition. Brother Jonathan was raised in New Hampshire is six years old and a noble looking animal. He is to be seen at 122 Fulton street."

A Happy Change.—The village Record says: "A woman near Dilworthtown, five or six miles from this borough, and who has been blind near twelve years, received her sight a few days since. She had long since abandoned all hope of a restoration, and the event was wholly unexpected to her. She was quite astonished herself and at the first glimpse of light, she exclaimed with joy and surprise, 'Oh! I see!' After a night so long how bright the moon appears."

A Sad Accident.—A few days since Mr. Benjamin McAllister of Lincolnville, Maine, got caught in the cog-wheel of a mill, in that town, and was so shockingly mangled that he lived but a few hours. After the mill was stopped to release him, he begged those around him not to take him out, but to set the mill going and put him out of his misery, as it was impossible for him to recover; and after he was released, he calmly desired that a vein might be opened and terminate his sufferings. He gave orders concerning the settlement of his worldly affairs, funeral, &c.—Aged 40.

FOREIGN EXTRACTS.

The Paris dates are to Wednesday, January 23d. On Tuesday M. Mole and all his colleagues in the ministry tendered their resignation after having fought the amendments to the address to the king through, inch by inch. What they obtained was done by so small majorities as to be equivalent to a defeat. The new ministry had not of course been formed, nor had the resignation of the old been formally accepted. Gossip is busy as to the formation of the new cabinet, but the only thing certain is that Marshall Soult was sent for by the king.

The report of the advance of a large body of French troops to the Belgian frontier is confirmed by the Journal des Debats.—This movement is probably made in concert with the ratification of its award by the London Conference.

The war in Spain continued its horribly sanguine character. Espartero, the Queen's general, had issued a manifesto that for every Christian prisoner shot, he should shoot two Carlists.

Pavaer, who was to have been tried by a court martial, on Espartero's complaint, had run away, and justified his flight by saying he was condemned beforehand by Espartero. Of the movement of the Spanish armies or of the cabinet we can form no clear idea. Every thing seems as undecided as usual.

There was an eruption of Venus on New Year's day, and a dense cloud of ashes covered the city of Naples. Apprehensions were entertained for the city, but the wind changed and carried the clouds towards the shore at Portici. On the 3d all was quiet.
