

Democratic Celebration.

4th OF JULY 1840

The 64th Anniversary of American Independence was celebrated in this place by the usual demonstrations of feeling of gratitude to the fathers of their country.

REGULAR TOASTS.

- 1. The day we celebrate.
2. The memory of the signers of the Declaration of Independence.
3. The President of the United States.
4. The Governor of Pennsylvania.
5. The Army and Navy.
6. The memory of George Washington.
7. Andrew Jackson - A Democrat of '98, in whose steps we delight to tread.
8. Martin Van Buren - An apt pupil of the "greatest and best" of teachers.
9. Richard M. Johnson - The Warrior and Statesman. He carries the "certificates" of his bravery on his body, and requires no other testimonials of his statesmanship than the records of his country.
10. The Principles of Democracy - The safeguard to the rights and liberties of man.
11. The Sub-Treasury - The people are determined to have agents who are responsible to themselves, only.
12. The Volunteers and Militia - They are of the people - and of course the people's best protectors against foreign or domestic foes.
13. The Fair - The truest and best of Democrats - lovers of all mankind.
14. Isaac Kline, President of the day. Martin Van Buren - a democrat who has been tried, and not found wanting.
15. Sebastian Hower - Martin Van Buren, Richard M. Johnson and the Sub-Treasurer.
16. By M. McDowell. The last Legislature. Their proceedings indicate a love of self more than their constituents.
17. Owen D. Leib. The real, or iron interest of Columbia county - Too important to be left sight of in the struggle between water and steam.
18. By H. Webb. Governor Porter. Pennsylvania has found in him a son who is worthy of her high place in the confederacy.
19. By L. B. Rupert. The Revolutionary worthys on the ground. May they long be remembered as true soldiers.
20. By James Cameron, of Lancaster. David R. Porter - A democrat who has been tried. He has met the crisis and raised the credit, and protected the interests of the State.
21. By Geo. W. Woodward. The ballot box. It is but a little box, but it will prove to be large enough next fall to coffin all the hopes of all the whigs.
22. E. G. Rickets. Our Eagle. May it never wave over any but our fathers, and the home of the brave.
23. By Nicholas Kindt. The Vice President of the United States. The dauntless soldier, the experienced and honest statesman. The firing of the British and Indians having failed to kill him, the federalists tried it also in vain, and have with drawn their artillery in despair.
24. By Daniel Gross. May the sons of liberty teach a lesson to British whigs at the next fall election that will last them for twenty years to come.
25. By Jacob D. Meyer. The Farmers and Mechanics. The chief stay of community, and the substantial support of our wealth, strength and independence.
26. By David Rishel. Lafayette, the distinguished champion of American liberty. His memory will be gratefully recollected in the land where he aided to plant the "Star Spangled Banner."
27. By Wm. Snyder. Agriculture. The apt of safety in the flood of speculation.
28. By John Rynyon. Whiggery of '40 full of patriotism. Whiggery of '40 full of whiggery and despotism.
29. By John Deutsch. Columbia County. May her prosperity be as unbounded as her mineral resources.
30. E. K. Rhodes' Corporations - a curse to a republican government. Let every democrat aid in sweeping them from our land.

By Francis Rupert. The married Ladies of these United States. May they never forget that they will best promote their own individual happiness, by contributing all in their power for the happiness of their much beloved husbands. May the rule work both ways.

By Jram Derr. The day we celebrate sacred to the memory of every freeman. - May the Star of the North be the brightest in the Pennsylvania luminary at the approaching election.

By Henry Rissel. The signers of the Declaration of Independence. While they rest in the silent tomb, millions have this day met to commemorate their glorious deeds.

By Wm. J. Ikeler. May the present system of education, of this commonwealth, be one of the principle arms of light and liberty of the Keystone State.

By V. Best. The Democrats of Columbia. Good and intelligent, patriotic and independent to obtain their approbation for political integrity, is glory enough for any man.

Charles Connor. Our worthy Governor, David R. Porter. Democracy is proud of her choice. Long may he be called the second Snyder of Pennsylvania.

Jesse Coleman. Let Harrison and Tyler, the hard cider candidates share the same fate that Ritter did in 1838.

John Achenbach, Harrison and Tyler. May they be drinking hard cider whilst Martin Van Buren and R. M. Johnson are governing the United States.

Thomas Vanderslice. Let Harrison men drink hard cider and raise log cabins, whilst the democrats will elect Martin Van Buren and Richard M. Johnson.

H. Webb. Ovid F. Johnson, Attorney General of Pennsylvania. Like all great men, he has met the bitter opposition of the federal party. With his talents and virtues, he is beyond the reach of envy.

Barnard Rupert. Amos Kendal, the late Post Master General. Talented and efficient in office, and in the capacity of Editor of the Extra Globe, foremost in the field in vindication and defence of the people's rights. In due season he will receive his reward.

John Knorr. Every freeman ought to consider well what came to pass in the year 1776.

Stewart Pearce. The Star Spangled Banner. May she be seen waving in her splendor wherever an advantage commerce prevails.

G. F. Mann. Log cabins, and hard cider. Whig political capital - No go.

J. M'Fadden. Martin Van Buren, Richard M. Johnson, and David R. Porter true disciples of ancient democracy. Poor men, with them at the head of government, can enjoy peace, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, without the fear of Alien and Sedition laws, or being sold into slavery, or of a Buck-shot war. May the true principles of Republicanism be perpetuated as long as grass grows or water runs.

W. Harder. His excellency David R. Porter, the champion of democracy, and the favorite son of Pennsylvania. Higher honors await him.

Joseph Biedeman. Martin Van Buren and Richard M. Johnson, will be triumphantly elected next November over Harrison and Tyler, the British whig and tory candidates.

Peter Snyder. Log cabins. The whigs will require something more than these gull traps to induce the poor to support Harrison who voted to sell white men to slavery to pay costs.

Wm. H. Petrikin. Washington's farewell address. May its precepts ever be remembered and adhered to by the people of the United States.

G. W. Morris. The democracy of Pennsylvania will vote for no man who will not let them know his principles. They want no abolitionist for President.

G. W. Mason. Andrew Jackson, the pride of the American people. Long may he live to enjoy the benefit arising to the United States, by the adoption of those principles for which he contended, both in the field and in the cabinet.

D. N. Kewover. The Canal Commissioners, and Canal officers of the North Branch Canal will not be caught napping in the dog days by pulled up British whigs.

Stephen Baldy. General Simon Cameron, a self-made man, and a correct impression from Jeffersonian Democracy. May he be called by the democratic party, to the highest station in the gift of the people of the Keystone State.

Andrew McClure, a Revolutionary soldier. The young and rising generation of Columbia county. May they never forget the services of their fathers of '76.

H. Webb - The rising generation. - When they can forget the services of the soldiers of the revolution, they will no longer deserve the happiness of breathing the air of freedom.

Jacob Rishel. The Army and Navy. - Their fame having been built on the humiliation of Great Britain, it rests on a solid foundation.

C. D. Butz. Harrison - may he be washed up Salt River next fall amidst the expiring groans of the federal faction.

Peter Heighman. Federal motto - Log cabins, nigger songs and plenty hard cider. - May no democrat ever be galled by the pedars of such stuffing.

Col. Neal McCoy. R. M. Johnson - One of the noblest sons of Kentucky. - The services he has rendered in the field and in the cabinet, will not be forgotten by the democracy of Columbia county.

Jacob Eyer. Our freedom's cause will be sustained By freeman's sons, who ne'r forget. What they through providence have gain'd By Washington and La Fayette.

M. Farnwald. Martin Van Buren. - Non-committal in every thing but that which advances the cause of democracy.

John McReynolds. Governor Porter. - His special message was just the kind of paper the times required.

Iram Derr. Van Buren and Johnson - America's talented sons. May the unbought democracy of the United States replace them, where they ought to be, at the head of the republic. With such materials we have a sure guarantee of the continuance of our free institutions.

Margerum Mears. David R. Porter, Governor of Pennsylvania - His firmness, honesty, and talents have endeared him to the people. They require his services for a second term.

Peter Kline. R. M. Johnson and Maj. Croghan, who fought the battles of the Thames and Fort Stephenson against General Harrison's orders and wish.

Lewis Measel. Van Buren and Liberty, Harrison and Slavery.

Jonathan Farnsworth. This day - Patriots rejoice in its glory - Tories, like bats, are blinded by its brilliancy.

Col. Matthew McDowell. The Volunteers and Militia of the United States - Our country's sure defence in time of danger.

Jacob Eyer. Bloomsburg, the centre of the Iron Ore Region of Columbia county, and with the superior water powers surrounding it, must ere long, become the centre of attraction.

Isaac C. Johnson. The best material ever selected, Was the brave Major Croghan, Who Post Sandusky protected In spite of his General's cowardly soul He stood to the chalk And defended the whole.

M. McDowell. David R. Porter, the bold, talented, honest man, and able executive. Like old Jackson, the people will insist on his serving them a second term.

Jacob Eyer. May our next Legislature consult the interest of their constituents, as well as their own - be more diligent in their duty than the present, and not extend that asked for lenity and indulgence to those who censure the administration of doing wrong, by granting them.

Henry Crawford. David R. Porter. - He has sustained the credit of the state - the people will sustain him.

H. Webb. Our democratic Mothers. - All will exclaim with the venerable Mother who was asked for yonder hickory pole - "you may have it for a democratic celebration, but we build no log cabins here."

Wm. J. Ikeler. The Presidential Mansion. May it never be polluted with the black flag of abolitionism, the blue flag of Hartford conventionism, or the red-polecat flag of hard ciderism.

By the Company. Our host and hostess. The beautiful table which we have this day partaken deserves our thanks and gratitude.

About six o'clock, the company separated, for their homes, without having a single incident occur to mar the pleasures of the day.

THE BLOOMSBURG BAND.

The Committee of arrangements of the democratic celebration owe this Band their thanks for their generous manner in which they volunteered the services for the day. It is now less than a year since this Band was organized, and we venture to say that few even elder associations can excel them in the skill and taste with which they play. Indeed, it was remarked by a distinguished gentleman present, that he had never heard "Yankee Doodle" played better. We sincerely hope that the citizens of this place will encourage them onward in their march of improvement, that they may continue to be what they now are, a credit to themselves and to the village in which they reside.

Log Cabin Fare. - Federal Whiggery, says the Pennsylvanian in its ludicrous attempts to assume a popular manner, and to descend and take the people by the hand, talks much about "log cabin fare." It will be seen however, from the subjoined, that their notions on this subject are about as enlightened as the ideas of the French princes, who on hearing that the people of Paris were starving for want of bread, asked why they did not eat cakes - she would, rather than starve. In a Boston paper of the 26th of June, we find an invitation to a great Harrison Jubilee, to be held in South Boston, on the 4th of July, at which a "morning collation" was to be served up, consisting of the following articles, which are designated as "log cabin fare."

"Cold ham and tongue; do. salt-petered beef; do. boenif a lamod; do. veal and lamb; sandwiches, bread and butter; crackers and cheese, Red Cross; iced lemon ade."

The New York Evening Post says that this brings to mind the story of a pampered son of royalty, who being told of the hardships of a military life, exclaimed, "Who cares for hardships? Give me a cold fowl and a bottle of claret, and I can get on any where."

"The People of the United States. - May they ever remember, that to preserve their liberties, they must do their own voting and their own fighting."

Wm. H. Harrison.

The People of the United States. They will ever remember, that to preserve their liberties, they must have a President, who can do his own thinking, and his own writing.

Berks County, in Pennsylvania, may be truly called the Nazareth of Loco-Focoism of the Union. What is the county good for any hew! - Log Cabin Adv.

Good for, do you ask? Why it is good for four thousand five hundred majority for Van Buren.

"You'll find no change in me," as the counterfeit dollar said to the soap-lock.

"The 'Straight-out Harrisonian' of the 5th June, published at Columbus, holds the following language, it being the concluding paragraph of a long editorial article in favor of a National Bank:

"But the banks, as they now stand, require an institution to keep them within proper bounds as to their issues of bank notes; so far as experience goes, nothing will do it but A NATIONAL BANK."

The Federal faction are becoming sensible that disgrace is fastening on them, from the secret and crooked policy which they have adopted. They have therefore, by way of assuming an appearance of bold frankness, established a print which they call the "STRAIGHT-OUT HARRISONIAN!" This organ proves its sense of the mischief of the non-committal policy, by coming straight-out for a National Bank. Concealment on this subject was indeed almost ludicrous, when the cashiered Bank and its partisans were pouring out hundreds of thousands of dollars in electioneering appliances, to gain, with the re-election of HARRISON, a new national charter.

$100 REWARD.

WHEREAS, VALENTINE BEST, Editor of the Danville Intelligencer, has recently attempted to injure my reputation by publishing in his paper the most slanderous falsehoods against my character. And whereas, he has in a recent number of his paper endeavored to stab me in the back, by insinuating that I had "misapplied funds collected to build houses for public worship!" And as his slander has made food for kindred spirits with his own, I therefore give notice that the above sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS will be paid to Valentine Best or any other person who will put the charge in a tangible form and establish it by credible testimony, either against myself or any of my family connections.

I will allow Mr. Best a reasonable length of time in which to attend to this matter; but should he fail to do so, he will stand before the public convicted of one of the basest of crimes, and I will then be prepared to dispose of him in a different manner. JOHN BOWMAN. Berwick, July 6, 1840.
