

FOR PRESIDENT,

JAMES BUCHANAN.

Subject to the decision of the National Convention.

The length of the proceedings of the Orangeville celebration excludes much of other matter prepared for to days paper.

ORANGEVILLE CELEBRATION, JULY 4, 1842.

The 66th Anniversary of American Independence was celebrated at Orangeville, in a very appropriate and pleasant manner. The morning was ushered in by several discharges of a field piece placed upon an eminence in the neighborhood, the report of which, echoing and re-echoing through the surrounding country, gave notice to the citizens that the anniversary of our natal day was at hand. At an early hour, a large number of citizens assembled in the village to participate in the festivities of the day. At half-past 10, a procession was formed under the direction of Doct. G. W. Lett, Chief Marshal, in the following order: The Bloomsburg Artillery, headed by their splendid Band, and Martial Music, on the right, next came the excellent and well disciplined Orangeville and Rhoersburg Rifle company, under the command of Capt. Staley; next citizens two by two, the procession closing with the committee of arrangements, the orator and clergy of the day, and Revolutionary Soldiers present. After passing the length of Main street, the procession returned to Union Church, which though a large and spacious house, was filled to overflowing, graced by the presence of a large number of the beautiful ladies of Orangeville and vicinity. As soon as the house had become seated, the Band struck up a patriotic air, which was followed by the singing a hymn and by a prayer. The Declaration of Independence was read by Col. H. Webb, followed by an eloquent and patriotic address from the Rev. William J. Eyer, which was listened to by an attentive audience with the greatest pleasure and satisfaction. The services having been closed by another patriotic air by the Band, the procession was again formed, and proceeded to a beautiful grove on the banks of Fishing Creek, where about one hundred and fifty sat down to a sumptuous table, furnished with all the luxuries of the season, by Mr George Seiple. After the cloth was removed, the company was organized by the appointment of Michael Fornwald, Esq., President; Col. Henry Webb and Iram Derr Esq., Vice Presidents, and E. G. Ricketts, Esq., Secretary. The following toasts were then read by the Secretary and drank amid the cheers of the company and the roar of cannon.

REGULAR TOASTS.

- 1—The day we celebrate.
- 2—The memory of the signers of the Declaration of Independence.
- 3—The President of the United States.
- 4—The Governor of Pennsylvania.
- 5—The Army and Navy.
- 6—The memory of George Washington.
- 7—The Volunteers and Militia. They are of the People—and of course the people's best protectors against foreign or domestic foes.
- 8—The Fair.—The truest, patriots, and pride of our country. Lovers of all mankind.
- 9—The Revolutionary Worthies on the ground.—may they long be remembered as true soldiers.
- 10—Our Eagle—may it never wave over any but our fathers and the home of the brave.
- 11—The United States of America.—The Land of our nativity, her constitution is based on moderation and justice; may we duly appreciate its value.
- 12—The young and rising generation—may they never forget the services of their fathers of 76.
- 13—The memory Lafayette—may the sons of Columbia never forget his worth.

VOLUNTEER TOASTS.

- M. Fornwald—The departed heroes of the Revolution—though "gone to that borne from which no traveller returns," yet their worth and service will not be forgotten.
- H. Webb—Surviving soldiers of the Revolution—May their country never forget that to them and their associate patriots they owe a debt of gratitude beyond their ability to cancel
- Iram Derr—The 4th of July, 1776—This day 66 years ago our fore-father pledged their lives, their fortunes, and their sacred honours, in the cause of human liberty, we this day celebrate their achievements; let us duly appreciate them and act to day as becomes the sons of such noble sires.
- E. G. Ricketts—Liberty thou glorious name—It strikes terror to the despot's heart.
- Dr. G. W. Lett—Lafayette, the distinguished champion of American liberty. His memory will be gratefully recollected in the land where he aided to plant the Star Spangled Banner.
- Henry Auten.—Orangeville and Rhoersburg Rifle Company—may their display ever be as splendid in field of battle as on the celebration of this day.
- Charles Conner—B. A. Bidlack, our able and respected representative in Congress.
- John McHenry—Our Representative in the Legislature D. Snyder, Esq.—Ever faithful to the interest of his county and constituents, although he may be denounced by a few interested individuals, yet he will receive the thanks and gratitude of the many for the noble stand he has taken in favour of the rights of the people.
- Alfred Howell.—Jefferson and Adams, parallels of greatness in the fount case of American nobles. On the 4th July 76 they pledged their lives for their country's good, on 4th July, 1828 they resigned them to their author—may peace be unto their ashes.
- J. E. Auten—R. M. Johnson, the people's candidate for the next President, he is honest and capable Tho's Jefferson said that was all that was necessary.

- Geo. Seiple—The county of Columbia, the whole county and nothing but the county.
- H. Auten—Gen. Nathaniel Green, his name will descend to posterity as a copartner, in the cause of the revolution with our beloved Washington.
- Matthew White—The three best presidents of the United States, peace, plenty and Independence.
- W. J. Ikler.—The gallant Johnson, let the people remember him for his services.
- Jease Coleman—George Washington—the father of our Liberty and chief of Patriots. May his name be echoed from every true hearted American and not be forgotten.
- Moses Everett—Col. Johnson the working man's candidate for president.
- Daniel Stucker—The principles of Democracy the greatest good of the greatest number, and the delegation of all power to its legitimate source the People.
- Iram Derr—The Bloomsburg Band, and Artillerists. Without their sweet melody our celebration would be no go.
- Silas Stackhouse—Col R. M. Johnson, the brave and faithful soldier.
- By the Company—Our host and hostess may their table be always as bountifully supplied as the one this day furnished the company.
- E. G. Ricketts—Col. R. M. Johnson—may his sores be healed by the thanks of a grateful people.
- By a Guest—James Buchanan—An honored son of Pennsylvania, well has he fulfilled the duties of the highest station his state alone could confer, and may her sons never be satisfied until he is placed in the presidential chair.
- H. Delong—The brave and gallant Johnson—He is not forgotten.
- A. B. Stewart—Washington and Lafayette, may they never be forgotten by the American people.
- John Staley—Gen. Scott and R. M. Johnson—When candidates before the people may the press take an honorable course, and not traduce their characters.
- E. G. Ricketts—Gen. W. Scott—May his services on the plains of Chippewa long be remembered.
- Alfred Howell. The American Navy—May it sail on a sea of glory, and wafted by the gales of prosperity, always enter the port of Victory.

M. S. Mears—The Fair Sex—And to the garden was a wild man the hermit sighed till woman smiled.

Iram Derr—The constitution—Under its protection we live, for its protection the patriot is prepared to die.

J. H. Furman—Our County—Rich in mineral and agriculture, her prosperity retarded only by a distracting local question—may the Legislature, in their wisdom give the people an opportunity of settling it among themselves.

Charles Conner—The citizens of Orangeville, deservedly noble for their enterprise and hospitality.

John McGorrigill—Hon. James Buchanan the worthy son of Pennsylvania may he be elevated to the highest gift of the nation.

Isaiah Conner—Henry Clay, the patriot and statesman—His services in the councils of the nation will be remembered by the American people.

John B. Edgar—Daniel Snyder, Esq. our present member of the Legislature—Ever true to his constituents, a sound mind and true heart; he seeks no occasion to juke or dodge; nor visit his sick family.

Andrew Crawford—May our old Patriots and Revolutioners give thanks for this glorious day.

Daniel Fornwald—The Revolutionary worthies on the ground. May they long be remembered as true soldiers.

Andrew Crawford—May this day be remembered by the sons of freedom for ever. Wishing that we may all be true sons of liberty, and all have the heart of Washington so brave, so as to stand in front of all tyrant invaders; and this the Star of the North shine brilliant to the world for ever.

William Thornton—The signers of the Declaration of Independence—May we imitate their noble example; our country first, ourselves afterwards.

John Covanhovan—May Henry Clay, the greatest statesman in the world, be promoted to the highest office in the gift of the American people.

John B. Edgar—General Andrew Jackson, the hero and statesman, one of Columbia's noble sons, second to no man living—May he ever be held in remembrance by all true hearted and patriotic Americans, and may his gray hairs go down with honor and peace to the grave.

Jacob Seidle—The army and Navy—The pride of friends, the terror of enemies.

Abraham A. Kline—The surviving soldiers of the Revolution present—may their days be long, & their exit from this world be as peaceful and happy as the nation now is whose liberty they assisted in achieving.

M. S. Mears—Col. Johnson. The hero, statesman & philanthropist—Well does he deserve the gratitude of the American people for his noble conduct both in the cabinet & field, he is entitled to receive, the highest office in the gift of the American people.

Alfred Howel—The three greatest and best Generals—General Peace, General Plenty and General Satisfaction.

George Wolf—Samuel F. Headley—The Representative who betrays the confidence of his constituents for personal benefit, should be discarded by all honorable men.

H. Webb, Colonel Hendrick B. Wright, the talented and distinguished Representative from Luzerne. His services in the Legislature entitle him the confidence of the people. Higher honors await him.

B. Diesterick—The fair sex of Orange—May they ever be as useful in the domestic circle as they are beautiful at a celebration.

Samuel Rhinhard. May the Star Spangled Banner of our navy be seen floating in ever sea where commerce is advantageous.

Samuel Conner. Gen. W. Scott the hero of Chippewa and Ludy Lane. May he be the next President.

Jacob Sloyer—A. Jackson, the hero of New Orleans. He will ever be remembered.

W. M. Covanhovan. Gen. Lafayette—May his disinterested services long be remembered by a grateful people.

W. A. Kline. R. M. Johnson, the people's choice.

Geo. W. Beats. The Ladies of Orangeville. Amiable and accomplished.

L. B. Rupert. The signers of the declaration of Independence. May their names be handed down not only to the rising generation but to may generations to come.

John Kline. Col. Johnson, like Gen. Jackson, he is the favorite of the people.

W. R. Evans. Gen. Washington. He will never be forgotten.

Capt. John Staley. Our American Independence, has secured to the oppressed of all nations a home, and raised up 17 millions of worshippers at the shrine of Liberty.

Jacob Labour. Col. Johnson, may he be elected President of the United States.

E. G. Ricketts. Our Farmers. The pride and glory of our country.

Isaac Kline, Esq. The United States of America, 'the land of the free and the home of the brave.' May she never loose this characteristic as long as vegetation covers the earth, or the sun shines in the firmament.

A. Dildine. Colonel Johnson, the hero of the Thames.

C. W. Fortner. Our Sires gained our political independence, may we show our selves worthy sons by freeing ourselves from the dominion of King Alkahol.

At the closing of the toasts, the following Resolution was adopted.

Resolved—That all the papers in the county be requested to publish the proceedings.

About 4 o'clock, the procession again formed and returned to the village, highly pleased with the whole proceedings of the day, not an incident occurring to mar the festivities of the occasion.

The discount on country Bank Notes, has diminished materially in Philadelphia, within the last few days.

Rhode Island. Governor Dorr, has fled again, and his army at Chepachet, his last headquarters, has dispersed. Some accounts state that one or two men have been killed.

A carrier of one of the weekly newspapers in Philadelphia counted 950 houses to let, on his route through the principal streets of that city.

the two most celebrated and popular novelists of the age, and also a NEW NOVEL by Mrs. G. These novels, when printed by the booksellers, probably sell for from two to three dollars. A large number of splendid Tales, Romances, Stories, & graphical sketches, Memoirs of distinguished characters, Poetry, Anecdotes and fun enough for year, &c. &c. will fill up its columns.

Though the promises we have made above may appear to the readers of the prospectus, too liberal to be fulfilled, we can assure them in perfect sincerity, that we are not only able to accomplish all we have proposed, but that we have in view additional striking features and novelties, which will materially enhance the value of our sheet. The public I pronounced a favorable verdict on our former Leviathan Notions, but we have taken measures for rendering the forthcoming "Leviathan" a still greater prodigy than any of its predecessors. We have engaged the assistance of several of our most distinguished literary men, both by making selections and furnishing original articles, and such a rigid censorship will be exercised in making the sheet that nothing unworthy of being cherished and preserved, will find a place in its columns. It will emphatically be

INTELLECTUAL GIANT!
