THE FUTURE LIFE. BY BRYANT.

How shall I know thee in the sphere which The disembodied spirits of the dead, When all of thee that time could wither

And perishes among the dust we tread.

For I shall feel the string of ceaseless pain If there I meet thy gentle presence not; Nor hear the voice I love, nor read again

In thy serenest eyes the tender thought.

Will not thy own meek heart demand me there! That heart whose fondest throbs to me were given? My name on earth was ever in thy prayer, Shall it be banished from thy tongue in Heaven?

In meadows fanned by heaven's life-breathing wind, In the resplendence of that glorious sphere And larger movements of the unfetterred mind.

Wilt thou forget the love that join'd us herel

The love that lived through all the stormy

And meekly with my harsher nature bore, And deeper grew; and tenderer to the last, Shall it expire with life, and be no more?

A happier lot than mine, and larger light Await the there, for thou hast bow'd thy In cheerful homage to the rule of right, And lovest all, and renderest good for ill

For me, the sordid cartes in which I dwell, Shrink and consume the heart as heat the scroll; And wrath hath left its ear—that fire of hell Has left its frightful scar upon my soul.

Yet though thou wearest the glory of the

Wilt thou keep the same beloved name The same fair, thoughtful brow, and gentle Lovelier in heaven's sweet climate, yet the same?

Shalt thou not teach me, in that calmer home,

The wisdom that I learn'd so ill in this-The wisdom which is love—till I become Thy fit companion in that land of bliss?

THE FOP.

Who' with e bold, assuming mien,
Loves with the ladies to be seen,
Though from the country fresh and green? The Fop.

Who, when he speaks will give you pain, To see how little is in his brain— And yet so graceful with his cane?

Who loves to go to ball or fair. With curry locks and oily hair, To meet the pretty damsel there? The Fop.

Who is to his own weakness blind-Thinks it betrays a noble mind To have his kerchief float behind? The Fop.

Who goes to church on Sabbath day, His dress and figure to displa And nod to ladies gracefully?

The Fop. Who, when he is near is always known By fumes of musk or strong cologne— Their borrowed accents to hide his own! THE FOP.

And who through all his life will be The laughing stock for men to see-An empty puff of vanity?

The Fop.

FORGIVE AND FORGET.

BY CHARLES SWAIN. Forgive and forget! why the world would be lonely.

The garden a wilderness left to deform: If the flowers but remembered the chilling winds only,

And fields gave no averdure for fear of the storm! Oh, still in thy loveliness emblem the flower,

Give the fragrance of feeling to sweeten life's away; And prolong not again the brief clouds of an hour, With tears that but darken the rest of the day!

Forgive and Forget! there's no breast so unfeeling

But some gentle thoughts of affection there live;

And the best of all require something concealing, Some heart that with smiles can forget

and forgivet

Then sway with the clouds from those beautiful eyes, That brow was no home for such brows to have met, Oh, how could our spirit e'er hope for the
