

POETRY

MINISTERING
Mother, has the dove that hovered
Loitering in the sky
Folded up its wings
And in dark resting and to rest

Nay, the grave is dark and dreary,
But the lost one is not there,
Hear'st thou not its gentle whisper,
Floating on the ambient air?

It is near thee, gentle mother,
Near thee at the evening hour,
Its soft kiss is in the zephyr,
It looks up from every flower.

And when Night's dark shadows fleeing
Low thro' the forest in prayer,
And the angel babe is there,
Then thy angel babe is there.

Maiden, has thy noble brother,
On whose mantle form thine eye,
Lov'd full of pride to linger,
On whose heart thou could'st rely?

Though all other hearts deceived thee,
All proved hollow, earth grew dear,
Whose protection, ever o'er thee,
Hid thee from the cold world's sneer.

Has he left thee here to struggle,
All unaided on thy way?
Nay, he still can guide and guard thee,
Still thy faltering steps can stay.

Still when danger hovers o'er thee,
He than danger is more near,
When in grief thou'st none to pity,
He the sainted, marks each tear.

Lover, is the light extinguished
Of the gem that in thy heart
Hidden deeply, to thy being
All its sunshine could impart?

Look above! his burning brighter
Than the very stars in heaven,
And to light thy dangerous pathway,
All its new-found glory given.

With the sons of earth combining,
Thou the lov'd one mayst forget,
Bright eyes flashing, tresses waving,
May have power to win thee yet.

Dull'st thou then that guardian spirit
Of will, whisper in thine ear,
And in silence and at midnight,
Thou wilt know she hovers near.

Orphan, thou most sorely stricken
Of the mourners thronging earth,
Clouds half veil thy brightest sunshine,
Sadness mingles with thy mirth.

Yet, altho' that gentle bosom,
Which has pillowed on thy head,
Now is cold, thy mother's spirit
Cannot rest among the dead.

THE TAILOR AND DEAN SWIFT

A Tailor in Dublin, near the residence of the Dean, took it into the head, part of his head, to be specially and divinely inspired to interpret the prophecies and especially the book of Revelation. Quitting the shop board, he turned out a preacher, or rather a prophet, until his customers had left his shop, and his family was likely to famish. His monomania was well known to Dean Swift, who benevolently watched some convenient opportunity to turn the current of his thoughts. One night the Tailor, as he fancied, got especial revelation to go and convert Dean Swift, and next morning took up the line of march to the Dean's. The Dean, whose study was furnished with a glass door, saw the Tailor approach, and instantly surmised the nature of his visit. Throwing himself into an attitude of solemnity and thoughtfulness, with the Bible open before him, and his eyes fixed on the 10th chapter of revelation, he awaited his approach. The door opened, and the Tailor announced in an unearthly voice, the message, 'Dean Swift, I am sent by the Almighty to announce to you—come in my friend!' said the Dean. 'I am in great trouble, and no doubt the good Lord has sent you to help me find out of my difficulty.' This unexpected welcome inspired the Tailor, and strengthened greatly his assurance in his own prophetic character, and disposed him to listen to the disclosure. 'I have just been reading in the 10th chapter of Revelation, and am greatly distressed at a difficulty I have met with, and you are the very man sent to help me out of it. Here is an account of an angel that came down from Heaven, who was so large that he placed one foot on the sea, and the other on the earth, and lifted his hand to heaven. Now my knowledge of mathematics' continued Dean, 'has enabled me to calculate exactly the size and form of this angel, but I'm in great difficulty, for I wish to ascertain how much cloth it will take to make him a pair of breeches, and as that is exactly in your line of business, I have no doubt the Lord has sent you to show me.' The exposition came like an electric shock upon the poor Tailor—he rushed from the house, ran to his shop, and a sudden revulsion of tho't and feeling came over him. Making breeches was his line of business. He returned to his occupation thoroughly cured of his prophetic revelations by the wit of Dean. What a pity such a method cannot be hit upon to cure some of the Millerites.

A boy who had been brought up in a log house in Ohio, was one day sent on an errand to one of the neighbor's house where several articles of furniture had just been received from the eastward, and among other things a looking glass. The boy had never before seen his own face, and when, on entering the house, the first thing that presented itself was a dirty face, surrounded by long and shaggy hair and he was so affrighted that he ran home as fast as his legs would carry him, exclaiming, 'daddy, daddy, I've seen the Devil.'

Rules of Conduct.—Adhere most scrupulously to truth, and labor to preserve the strictest integrity, simplicity and sincerity.

Strive to be as kind, forbearing, and forgiving as you can, both to friends and foes.

Never speak evil of any one, on any pretence whatever.

Strive to recommend religion by the courtesy, civility, and good descending character of your conduct.

Watch against irritation, positiveness, unkind speaking and anger, study and promote love.

Mortify lusts, sensuality and sloth. Shut out evil imaginations and saggy thoughts.

Hudibras Beat.—A maker of doggerel having laid a wager he could make a rhyme on any thing, 'Sennacherib and Jehoshaphat' were suggested as a theme. He immediately said—
There was a King Sennacherib,
Who said that he could crack a rib;
Of any but Jehoshaphat—
He couldn't hit, he was so fat!

SESSION REPORTER.

The Pennsylvania Reporter, is published at Harrisburg Penn'a. on every Tuesday and Friday during the session of the Legislature, and once a week during the remainder of the year.

The terms are—For one year THREE DOLLARS, For the session TWO DOLLARS.

Arrangements for a full and impartial report of the proceedings of both Houses of Assembly, have been made. The character of the paper as a faithful chronicle of the doings of the legislature, shall not suffer deterioration while in our charge. We do not consider it necessary to enter into a detail of the political doctrines we advocate. All the energies of the paper since its establishment in 1837, have been directed to the advancement of the pure principles of DEMOCRACY, and to their permanent ascendancy in every department of the government. The paper has been sustained by the liberal patronage of kind friends, and we trust it will not lose their countenance and support or that of the democracy of the state, in our course—the future of which shall be a reflection of the past.

JOHN H. DIMOCK & Co. Any person who will procure us five session subscribers, and forward us ten dollars, shall receive the Reporter gratis for one year. Harrisburg, Dec. 10, 1842.

Legislative Keystone.

TWO DOLLARS FOR THE SESSION. The KEYSTONE will, as usual, be published twice a week during the session of the Legislature; and as we shall spare neither pains nor expense in giving full and accurate reports of the proceedings of the two Houses, together with sketches of the debates on all public and important questions, we hope to receive a liberal support from the reading public. The coming session of our Legislature will be one of more than common interest, and persons desirous of obtaining early and correct information from the seat of government, will find it to their advantage to take the 'Keystone.' To lawyers, judges, justices of the Peace, and public officers generally, it will be invaluable, so all the laws of a public and general nature are published in it immediately after their passage, and fully three months before they will be promulgated in any other manner. We shall also have an able correspondent at Washington city, who will keep the readers of our paper apprised of all that is doing at the seat of the National Government.

TERMS: For the whole year, $3 00
For the session only, (twice a week) 2 00

Any person sending us five subscribers for the session, accompanied by ten dollars, shall receive a copy gratis for his trouble. All payments may be transmitted by mail, and all Post-masters are permitted to frank letters containing money for newspaper subscriptions.
