

CORRECTION.

Having seen, in various papers a statement that our neighbor, Mr. Gaylord, of Plymouth, had become a convert to the doctrine of the Second Advent, as taught by Miller and others, and opened his store and given away his goods, we take the liberty, without consulting Mr. G., to say, that, whatever may be his opinions as to religious matters, in his business, he is, as he always has been, a careful and prudent man, and has not been guilty of any such tom-foolery as is imputed to him by the malicious or ignorant. And, moreover, we deem this using of a man's name, to his evident detriment, mixing up his supposed religious belief with his secular business, peculiarly reprehensible, and add, with pleasure, that any one who wishes to transact ordinary business with Mr. Henderson Gaylord, will find him as clear minded, as correct and as cool as a bargain, as he was before Millerism had made some men, mad, and others malicious.—Hilkesbarre Advocate.

Convention in South Carolina.—A convention of the democrats in the sixth of Charleston district of South Carolina, was held on the 11th inst., to consider the nomination of a candidate for the Presidency. An able report was made and several resolutions in accordance with it, were adopted. They insist that a convention should be held as recommended by Kentucky, Maryland, and Michigan, in May, 1844; also that the delegates in such convention should consist of the same number and be entitled to vote per capita for their respective candidates, as is prescribed by the Constitution of the United States, for the choice of a President. The meeting also nominated to the Convention, Mr. Calhoun as the candidate of their first choice.

Professor Silliman is reported to have stated, during a recent lecture in Boston that in the course of a few years "it would be as common a thing to see persons one hundred years of age, as it is now to see those of seventy five years; and this probable result in favor of long life, he attributed to the temperance movements of the present day.

JACOB ERERY, Clerk,

Danville March 16th, 1843;

Bloomsburg Academy

THE undersigned tenders his thanks for the patronage he has received, and hopes to meet a continuance, by a diligent attention to his duties as an instructor of youth. He would inform parents and guardians, that the next term will commence on the first Monday in April; and as an entire new arrangement will be made with the classes, it would be very desirable, that all who propose sending their children to school, should open in one of the apartments, if a sufficient number should offer, competent teachers will be provided for each department of the school; in order that all who apply for admission may be accommodated.

The various branches of an English education together with the Greek and Roman classics will be taught, and the moral department of the pupils particularly attended to. The government of the school will be strict, but mild and parental. To avoid misunderstanding, the prices of tuition will be from one to five dollars per quarter of twelve weeks. From the experience of many years as teacher, the undersigned is well convinced, that improvement is more rapid, when the pupils are graded according to their proficiency, and the number in each department limited.

Triumphant Success

And a new discovery in the Newspaper Business.

A most important and invaluable discovery has been made by a gentleman of this city, by which newspapers may be printed in their present form and at the same time, capable of being converted at pleasure, into a Magazine form, for preservation. This grand improvement, which is destined to form a new era in the business, effecting an entire revolution in the art of printing mammoth newspapers, will be introduced, by permission of the printer, into the Philadelphia Saturday Museum commencing in May next.

In announcing to the friends of the newspaper press throughout the country a discovery, which will add so immensely to the value of newspaper, the publishers of the Saturday Museum, have, at the proud satisfaction of announcing the complete and triumphant success of their new Family newspaper. The liberal patronage already secured to this new and popular enterprise, has not only surpassed the most sanguine expectations, but is entirely unprecedented.

IMPROVEMENTS IN "THE MUSEUM"

"The Museum" is now so fairly and firmly established, that we feel warranted in making some very extensive and important improvements. The first of May, we shall have completed all our arrangements. We shall have in the first place beautiful, clear and bold type—in the second superb smooth and white paper—in the third place we shall make an ingenious and novel change in the arrangement of the matter—in the fourth place we shall increase our corps of contributors in all various departments of a Family Newspaper—the fifth place, we have secured, at a high rate the services of EDGAR A. POE, Esq., a gentleman whose high and versatile abilities have always spoken emphatically for themselves, and who, after first of May, will aid us in the editorial conduct of the journal.

The "Narrative of Townsend's Journey over Rocky Mountains," one of the most interesting valuable ever published; is sent to all new subscribers. At its conclusion, our readers will find themselves in possession of a work which alone will worth double the subscription to the paper. We shall continue, also, of course, the "Biograph Sketches and Portraits," which are now exciting unexampled an interest. With these and other features continued, and with the improvements in contemplation, it remains to be seen whether we do amply fulfil our determination of making the best newspaper in America.

Persons wishing to secure six thousand large two pages of useful, interesting, and unexceptionable reading for the select family circle, for the sum of Two Dollars per year—being at the astonishingly low rate of thirty pages for one cent, equivalent to one hundred and twenty pages—should hand their names in to the publishers.

TERMS.—Two Dollars per annum, in advance for Five Dollars, or Six Dollars. The Dollars, is the extra large edition of the paper, for clubbing.
