Brandreth's Pills.

PICTURE OF HEALTH.

HEALTH is characterized in an individual by the absence of all pain, swelling, or affection in any part of his body by the free and regular exercise of his functions without any exception. They consist in having a good appetite at meal times, an easy digestion, free evacuations, without looseness or costiveness at least once in every twenty-four hours, and without heatiness, or burning at the passage, and the free issue of the water without serenity or burning, and without a reddish sediment which is always a sign of a present or an approaching pain; quiet sleep without agitation or troublesome dreams; no taste of bile or other bad taste in the mouth upon rising in the morning; no sourness or disagreeable rising of the stomach; a clean tongue; a sweet breath; no itching, pimples or spots on the skin; no piles; no burning heat upon any part of the body; no excessive thirst when unopposed to labor or other known cause; no interruption to any natural evacuation, nor pain at their periodical return.

When the state of the system does not harmonize with the above picture of health, it is of the greatest importance that no time be lost in sending for a doctor, or in the use of foolish remedies, the often the result of speculation, instead of this course let a dose of BRANDRETH'S PILLS be taken, which will not deceive, but will at once restore health to the organ or part that requires it. All who wish to preserve their health, all who are determined to defend their life against the encroachments of disease which might send them prematurely to the grave, will, without hesitation, have recourse to the Brandreth Pills, when the state of the system does not harmonize with the above picture of health.

Those who live in a country where contagious or other diseases prevail, should often think of this true picture of health, and observe himself with particular attention, in order to act accordingly. The wise and rightly directed will follow this advice—the unwise are left to their own destruction. AGENTS. Washington—Robert M'Kay. Jerseyville—E. & A. T. Hoel. Danville—B. Reynolds & Co. THE SATURDAY MUSEUM.

New and Improved Series.

To the Subscribers of the Philadelphia Saturday Museum. It is with unfeigned satisfaction on the part of the Proprietors, Editors and Regular contributors of the Saturday Museum that their paper is now offered to its numerous subscribers, under such arrangements as will place it beyond all rivalry among American Weekly Newspapers. Certain features in the typography having heretofore been adopted in the Museum, which it is now considered expedient, and more consistent with good taste to abandon. The sections into which the paper was divided, a stippled much valuable space, which the present amended arrangement of the matter, increases the amount of reading in ever number nearly four columns, equal in the course of a year to two duodecimo volumes of three hundred pages each.

With this change in the museum we have the pleasure of announcing also, a general improvement on all its departments, with additional advantages exclusively presented in the following:— They are briefly calculated under the following heads.

ORIGINAL ARTICLES.

The Museum is sustained in its editorial columns by the talent and experience of gentleman competent for every species of periodical writing. The influence of political partyism and the prejudices of religious sectarianism will be equally excluded.

ORIGINAL FICTION.

ORIGINAL SKETCHES, ESSAYS, &c.

Under these titles the museum will contain the contributions of the ablest writers of our country.

FOREIGN LITERATURE.

This general head embraces an endless variety of selections from the Reviews and magazines and other periodical publications of Europe. This advantage the museum boasts as peculiar, and of itself sufficient to secure its universal popularity.

NEWS.

This head will include every species of matter properly belonging to a Newspaper, COMMERCIAL AND OTHER MATTERS.

AGRICULTURE.

As the most important of all arts, a portion of the museum will be regularly devoted to the subject of Agriculture.

MISCELLANY.

POLITICAL PANICS.

Mr. Benton's indignant rebuke of those publicans who would get up a tariff panic or presidential effect, deserves universal heed. We all recollect the similar game which was played in connection with the bank—a game that resulted in the most disastrous consequences, both to that institution and the country. Is it not much to be deplored, that such important and political interests should be delivered up to political managers, to be sported with in subordination to the ephemeral party contests of the day? To such an extent does delusion prevail, that many of the blind partisans of Mr. Clay have been made to believe he is the actual father of American manufactures; that domestic industry was not known until hatched into existence by the 'hot incubation and mercurious embraces' of his so called 'American system.'—Mr. Benton proves that our manufactures are of ancient and spontaneous growth, and that they, as well as agriculture and commerce, were in a most flourishing state before the war, when 'tariff' was never invoked, or even heard of, as the means of encouraging or protecting manufactures.

Mr. Benton was done with this part of the subject; but there was another part of it which claimed his attention. He has listened to nothing with more pleasure than to the indignant manner in which the senator from South Carolina [Mr. McDuffie] in his first speech on the tariff, had denounced political legislation.—He poured a stream of hot and burning eloquence upon the legislation which looked to presidential elections, and proscribed the halls of legislation and the law making power, to the execrable business of putting up or putting down a presidential candidate. He (Mr. B.) concurred with him in the lofty and indignant feelings which he expressed, and had hoped that the senate chamber would be freed from the presence of that plague, which, like the frogs of Egypt, spread itself everywhere. The Senate had been free from it until this day; but the Senator from Rhode Island had introduced the presidential candidates—one for approbation—one for condemnation. He (Mr. B.) would not imitate him; nor follow him, but considered all that he had said on that subject, with the lamentations over the destruction of manufactures and ruin of laborers to be the commencement of a panic—a cold blooded, studied commencement of a panic—to be taken up out of doors, and run through the land. This was mortifying and humiliating, and he profoundly regretted to see it. We had panics enough in the time of the old Bank of the United States and the high tariff champions all served their apprenticeship to panic making then. Destruction! loss of wages! loss of property! the bank the only saviour of the people! such was the cry in the bank panic! and, from the givings out of this day, all this is to be repeated by the high tariff party! and tariff now, like bank then, is to be the only means of saving the people from everlasting perdition!

"Let there be no panics—no alarms.—the high tariff candidates for the presidency and the vice presidency were defeated in 1832; the bills then introduced in the House of Representatives showed that manufactures had nothing to fear from the issue of that election; that discrimination and incidental protection was the basis of democratic policy; and that every interest of the country would be duly sustained. The same now. The success of the democracy in 1844 will be suspicious to every interest and as much so to manufactures as to any other."

Hon. John M. Niles and his seat in the U S Senate.—The credentials of the Hon. John M. Niles, who was elected by the Legislature of Connecticut a Senator from that State for six years from and after the 4th day of March last, were presented in the U S Senate on Tuesday. Mr. Niles was present, and a motion made that he be qualified. Mr. Jarnagin, in consequence of the rumors abroad that the Senator elect was suffering under some malady, submitted a resolution for the appointment, by the Chair, of a committee of five, to inquire into his qualifications and capacity, before permitting him to take his seat. This course being acceptable to the gentleman whom it peculiarly concerned, was acquiesced in by all sides, without, however, admitting the constitutional right of that body to institute any inquiry into the capacity of Senators, and Messrs. Jarnagin, Benton, Berrien, Wright and McDuffie were designated to constitute the committee.

Col. Wm. T. Blodget and Mr. Henterson, surrendered by the Governor of Rhode Island to the Massachusetts authorities, on the requisition of the Executive of Massachusetts, and indicted for breaking into the house of William Crooks, in Bellingham, Mass, in search of snuff men, have been tried at Dedham, and found guilty. The Judge directed the question of fact to be argued, whether it was necessary for Rhode Island to self defense to enter the territory of Massachusetts. The question of fact the Jury decided against defendants, and the defendants took the case by bill of exceptions to the ruling of the Judge, into the Supreme Court of the State of Massachusetts. If that Court decide against the defendants, it will then be carried into the Supreme Court of the United States.

NEW COUNTERFEIT.

Constantin Hughes, says the Lancaster Intelligencer, has just shown us a counterfeit of the denomination of $10. on the Chester County Bank. The plate is admirably executed, but has no resemblance whatever to the Chester County bank notes. It is said to be an old plate altered—probably of one of the Philadelphia Banks; but it may be easily detected by the fact that it contains a vignette of the Declaration of Independence, which is not to be found on the genuine note.

The Great Elm Tree on Boston Common is 175 years old. It was set about the year 1670, by Captain Daniel Henshman.— Forty five years ago the great elm had a large hollow in it, and was rapidly decaying but was saved in the mode recommended by Forsyth—by clearing the cavity of rotten wood and filling it with a composition composed principally of lime rubbish, from old buildings, an. slaty and tuffaceous, it is now apparently as flourishing as ever, and without any appearance of the hollow, which was once large enough for a boy to hid himself in.

EXECUTION OF ROSANNA KEEN

The correspondent of the Chronicle writing under date of April 25, from Bridgeton, (N. J.) says. Our little town has been disgraced to day by the execution of a fellow being—the poor girl, Rosanna Keen—being the day fixed by the Governor for her death. About half past 11 A. M. the three reverend clergy of this place went into her cell, to console and pray with her—in which devotions they were ardently engaged until 1 o'clock, P. M. when they had to leave to give place to the females who were in waiting to dress her for the gallows. All this time she seemed quite composed and reconciled to her fate. But when the Sheriff, Mr. Mattison, entered, her eyes rested upon him for a second, and then she burst into a flood of tears, and acted as if a frantic maniac, until the clergy re entered, when she again became reconciled. Rosanna was then conducted to the place of execution, the yard of the prison, where the gallows was erected. This was about 2 o'clock. Having arrived at the gallows she said to the Sheriff, 'How long before I am to die?' He answered, 'One half hour.' One of the reverend gentlemen then prayed with her. At the close, she again said to the Sheriff, 'How near is the time?' He replied, 'Fourteen minutes.' The rope was adjusted on her neck, and she was asked if she had any thing to say; to which she replied, 'Tell the Sunday school children that I bid to school with, to beware of 'Fairwell' and bid those present an affectionate 'Farewell.' The Sheriff then asked her if she was ready. She answered, 'I am,' and almost immediately exclaimed, 'May the Lord receive my spirit.' The cord was cut and the poor girl was launched into eternity at precisely 35 minutes past 2 o'clock.—After the body had hung for about 10 minutes, the doors were thrown open for the multitude to enter, and gaze on the horrid sight. The body was then cut down, placed in a coffin, and set in front of the prison for the inspection of the curious—and such a spectacle I never wish to behold again.—The hanging of this poor girl, gentleman was not the act of the intelligent and reflecting in our community. Had she lived until next month, May, she would have attained the age of sixteen years. Her offence will be recalled, was the poisoning of Mr. Seawley, last fall. She was shortly afterwards tried, and convicted on her own evidence, while the minds of the people were prejudiced against her.

A manufacturer in England has made a wire rope 128 miles in length. It is intended for electrical communication on some rail road.

Durr's Trial.—A correspondence of the Providence Chronicle, writing from Newport, says that on Saturday the court was occupied with discussions upon points of law, as to whether treason against a State is not treason against the United States. The arguments were very interesting. Mr. Durr himself took a very active part in them. His opinion seems to be that Mr. Durr will be convicted. The trial was probably ended on Thursday last.
