

A Yankee in Ireland.

The following story was told us by a friend who vouches for the truth of the statement. During the last summer, a gentleman who is a cotton planter in the State of Georgia, and somewhat of an eccentric genius, being fascinated with the description of Galway, as given by the facetious Charles O'Malley, determined to inspect personally the bread of the Micky Fee and Baby Blakes on their native hills. Having shipped his sea island for Liverpool, he jugged along to New York, and took passage in one of the packets. After making the necessary arrangements with his factors, he started for the Emerald Isle. Our peculiar nationalities soon made him known, and he became quite a lion; sure enough he found a perfect counterpart of Miss Baby, and fun he had to his heart's content; his letter of credit in the neighboring bank, together with his high finished education, established him in the heart of the family, which excited the irascibility of some of the conscripts who held Americans at no enviable discount. They tried in every way to provoke, or (to use the Irish term) 'coax' a fight out of him; but he showed no inclination to quarrel with anybody. A story was then circulated that he was a knight of the white feather; and they in their turn, (Miss Baby included) were determined to give the cowardly Yankee an insight into the manners and customs of the natives. So immediately after breakfast the sio distant Miss Baby, coaxing, enjoyed and provoked our hero into a demand for a kiss. He insisted—she demanded—and just at this moment in stepped a gent of the guards, the cousins, nothing would do short of a fight. The fair one laughed, the Yankee rubbed his hands and grinned, the soldier looked broadsword and grape shot.

The two gentlemen stepped into an adjoining room, where they found quite a little party of gentlemen from the neighborhood looking as innocent as babes.—"Well," said the Georgian, "so soon as the door was closed, I don't know much about fighting, but I reckon I want one of you gentlemen to act as my friend in a bit of a fight that's going to come off between me and this gentleman here," pointing to the guardsman. A dozen offered their services, saying, "I would afford them quite a pleasure." Selecting the one who stood nearest, the preliminaries were soon arranged. Pistols were selected, when our friend, the Georgian, remarked that he would like to shoot it off just to see how 'twould go." The apparent innocence with which the request was made raised a laugh at the greenness of our hero, and his wishes were complied with. The parties had by this time arrived near the ground that was selected for the duel. The whole troupe of friends had accompanied the belligerents. A pistol being loaded, was put in the hands of our countryman, who held it in a most awkward manner, and bracing himself firmly he levelled it at a tree near by, and shutting both eyes gave the trigger a desperate pull—the tree was not hit.

A titter passed through the whole company, they thought that they had sport enough on hand for one day, but they forgot the notoriety of Yankee cunning.—He had by this scheme got the hang of the pistol, and ascertained the charge and force of the powder. All being now ready, the word was given. Five paces, wheel and fire. Nothing seemed to disturb the matter of a fact manner of the Georgian, he took his paces, taking care to step short steps; he wheeled like a flash of lightning and fired at the instant.—The guardsman fell wounded in the groin. This drew all eyes for an instant from the Yankee, but when he appeared, the bystanders looked again, he was still standing in the same position, grasping his pistol in apparent convulsions, and both eyes shut fast. In a minute, he opened his eyes and seemed to notice, for the first time, that his adversary was down, and he exclaimed—"Waal! he is killed!" and throwing down his pistol, began feeling of, and examining himself, to learn if he could find a wound upon himself—seeing the whole time perfectly innocuous and unsophisticated.

The guardsman being wounded excited the ire of his companions, and one of them demanded the right of a shot at the Yankee—which proposition our countryman did not seem to disrelish; but thinking he should have to fight the whole crowd one at a time, he broke out in the following few words

"Look here now, I reckon that you are determined that I shall fight the whole of you one at a time, which I don't like pretty well; but I'll tell you what I will do, there are just sixteen of us—you shall get me a gun—about a four pounder or smaller. I and my friend shall take this side of the field, seven of you shall take pistols and stand along in a row, and the other seven shall be their friends. I will load my gun with seven grape shot, and you shall have each one ball in your pistols, this will make it just shot for shot, and we will fire at the word at fifteen paces." The cool business-like calculation was rather too much for the sons of Green Ireland; they declared our hero to be a 'broth of a boy,' and insisted upon his accepting of sumptuous dinner & offered invitations extending every several months, which he declined saying that the next he must start for Liverpool to see how his cotton was selling. A his was voluntarily tendered the next morning by the fair one, which the Georgian on his part ungraciously declined, and he took his departure much against the inclination of all present, who declared that 'those Yankees were the queerest devils they ever saw.' The Georgian was Col.———of Steuben county.—Boston Post.

A FACT WORTH KNOWING FOR BEE-FANCIERS—Many owners of glass bee-hives have complained of never being able to see the bees working. Mr. Huiß explains the circumstance as follows.—The real truth is, that the bees will only work in complete darkness. The admission of light into the hive is the signal for the immediate cessation of all labour, and when the flap door of a glass hive is opened, the bees are seen hurrying and skurrying about in a state of alarm and confusion, while the exhibitor explains to the spectator that the bees are at work. If I could be shown a bee making a cell, I would travel barefooted from Harsham to Windsor to behold the spectacle. It would at once lead to a solution of one of the most important problems in the natural history of the bees, which is the origin of wax; about which we are almost as ignorant in the nineteenth century as in the time of Virgil or Columella. The actions of the aspidarian monarch are enshrined in an almost impenetrable mystery. It is my sincere wish, however; to disabuse the minds of all keepers of bees, that the internal economy of a hive is to be entertained by looking through a pane of glass; for so tenacious are these wonderful insects of that economy being explored by the eye of man, that, supposing the flap of the hive to be left open, the bees will immediately cover the interior side of the glass with a coating of wax, so that no eye can penetrate to their works.

THE FATE OF THE APOSTLES.

The following brief history of the fate of the Apostles, we have never seen in a popular print till a day or two ago. It may be new to those whose reading has not been evangelical, to know that.

St. Matthew is supposed to have suffered martyrdom, or was slain with a sword at the city of Ethiopia.

St. Mark was dragged through the streets at Alexandria in Egypt till he expired.

St. Luke was hanged upon an olive tree in Greece.

St. John was put in a cauldron of boiling oil at Rome, and escaped death! He afterwards died a natural death at Ephesus, in Asia.

St. James the Great was beheaded at Jerusalem.

St. James the Less was thrown from a pinnacle, or wing of the temple, and then beaten to death with a fuller's club.

St. Philip was hanged up against a pillar at Hierapolis, a city of Phrygia.

St. Bartholomew was flayed alive, by the command of a barbarous king.

St. Andrew was bound to a cross, whence he preached unto the people until he expired.

St. Thomas was run through the body with a lance, at Caromandel, in the East Indies.

St. Jude was shot to death with arrows.

St. Simon Zealot was crucified in Persia.

St. Matthias was first stoned and then beheaded.

St. Barabas was stoned to death by the Jews at Salima.

St. Paul was beheaded at Rome, by the tyrant Nero.

PRECOCIOUS.

A youth in a back country town had arrived at the age of nine years when his father sent him to school for the first time. He stood beside the teacher to repeat the letters of the alphabet.

"What's that?" inquired the master.

"Harre!" vociferated the urchin.

"No, that's A."

"Well, what's the next?"

"Ox-yoke."

"No, that's B."

"Taint, B neither, it's ox-yoke; crotch all the black, think I don't know?"

Brag's a good dog,
But Holdfast is better.

THE undersigned would return his sincere and humble thanks to the citizens of Bloomsburg and vicinity, for the favors thus far bestowed upon him, and would still further ask a continuance of the same, so long only as satisfaction is rendered. He would not say, Comme une came, but come as many as conveniently can. Neither would he promise, (as others have,) to do his work better than can be done in any other shop in the place—but in short, he would neither brag nor banter, but defy any one who does brag to do work nearer than he does, in all cases. In fact, whatever offer is made, by any other Family Journal, at all approaching in worth, beauty or pretensions, to the Saturday Courier, will be furnished by us.

The Courier has become so well and favorably known through a triumphantly popular course of fourteen years, that it would be superfluous to say much on that subject here. We may remark, however, that to the industry, talent and enterprise, which have for years kept this paper a bright exemplar for all its imitators, will constantly be added the productions of every available writer, and continued judicious and liberal expenditures will continually be made, as well in the Literary as the Typographical departments. Our means will always enable us to be in advance of all others, and we shall be so.

Histories of Modern Republics.—A new and important announcement for the coming year, in addition to our already numerous popular features, will be a series of Condensed Histories of Modern Republics, by a fresh and vigorous writer who will impart a world of important instruction to the rising generation, in this new and entertaining Romance of History.

Biographies and notices of Distinguished Literary and Scientific Men.—Among the interesting essays and sketches of value, which we shall continue to present in the Courier, will be a full and interesting account of the rise, progress, and present elevated standing of all distinguished men, of the Past and Present, (at home or abroad,) in all departments of Art, Science, Literature, Statesmanship, Poetry, Mechanics, Planting, Agriculture, Printing, Merchandize, etc.

This will be a very interesting feature for the Young. It will be a department of the Courier, which has never been our aim to render of inestimable value to those for whom we feel so deep an interest as we do for the Young Men of our great and growing Country. The Lives of Distinguished Men are of such value to those who are yet forming their own characters; for the purpose of enacting their parts, correctly, on the Great Stage of Human Life.

Indeed, we hope that this Department of the Courier will be worth more (each year) to every family who have sons and daughters to be reared, than five times the amount we ask for a year's subscription to the Saturday Courier.

Incidents, Histories, Scenes, Battle Grounds, &c. of the American and all other Revolutions.

Under this head, (which is, by the way, not at all new in the Courier,) we shall hereafter give graphic and interesting accounts (occasionally beautifully illustrated) of the thrilling incidents, so profusely studied through the deeply important history of the American Revolution, and of all other revolutions that we may regard of the least interest to the value the readers of the Philadelphia Saturday Courier. This will be of deep consequence, also, to every member of any family of the American Republic, who may choose to do themselves and us the favor of securing, regularly, the visits of the Courier at their Family Fireside.

POPULAR TOPOGRAPHY.—To gratify the growing appetite for a better knowledge of the important features of our great and glorious country, our past exertions shall be redoubled in future to present vivid pictures of American cities, towns, mountains, lakes, rivers, caves, scenery, etc.

Our original domestic Tales, Essays, Poems, &c. will continue regularly to be furnished by the minds and pens in the country. These chaste productions are acknowledged to be the best, for useful instruction at the family fireside, that appear in any periodical.

Our ENGRAVINGS comprise subjects in all branches of Art and Nature, suitable for the family circle, and appear in rapid succession.

OUR TRAVELLER is constantly traversing the world, in search of the wonderful and instructive.

Our AGRICULTURIST occupies weekly an important space, with all matters of interest for the noble tillers of the soil.

Our EUROPEAN CORRESPONDENTS, in Liverpool, London, Ireland, the East, &c. keep us regularly advised of all subjects of special interest.

Our Markets and Prices Current embrace all the earliest advice in reference to the prices of all kinds of Grain, Produce, &c. the state of Stock, Banks, Money, and Land; and our extensive arrangement will hereafter render our Prices Current of inestimable value to the Traveller, Farmer, and all Business Classes whatever.

CHARLES KAHLER
Tailor.

EMBRACING the present opportunity of expressing his thankfulness to his friends, and the public generally, for the liberal patronage he has heretofore received, he has still continued to carry on the above business at his old established stand, on the corner of Main and East streets, where he hopes, by strict attention to business, to receive and merit a share of public patronage as heretofore. He deems it unnecessary to go into the name of brag, or to use any soft sadder about his SKILL in the PROFESSION OF GARMENT CUTTING, as his shop is of long standing, and his work he thinks will speak for itself, and far more loudly than words. But he would merely say that, he warrants his work done with neatness, durability, and in the latest fashionable manner, and will ensure a good fit in all cases.

THE DEMOCRATIC UNION,
Semi-Weekly during the Session of the Legislature at TWO DOLLARS!

The Democratic Union will, as usual, be published twice a week, during the coming session of the Legislature, and we embrace an early occasion to commend it to the favor of the reading public.—Neither pains or expense shall be spared to impart to its columns additional zest and vigor. Ample and correct reports of the proceedings of the two branches, together with sketches of the debates on all public and important questions, will be furnished, competent stenographers having been engaged for that purpose. The installation of new administrations, State and National, and the development of the measures they may propose to the country, will render the coming winter out of unusual public interest. Persons desirous of obtaining true and early intelligence will always find in the Democratic Union a true and honest chronicle.

—To Attorneys, Judges, Justices of the Peace, and public officers generally, it will be invaluable, as the Union executes all the STATE PRINTING, and the LAWS of a public and general nature are published in it immediately after their passage, and fully three months before promulgated in pamphlet form.

To increase our facilities for the most prompt execution of all the public printing, we are now propelling our presses by the aid of STEAM a most important matter to the legislative body.

Brandroeth's Pills.
PICTURE OF HEALTH.

HEALTH is characterized in the individual by the absence of all pain, suffering, or affliction in any part of his body; by the free and regular exercise of his functions without any exertion. They consist in having a good appetite at meal times, an easy digestion, free evacuations, without looseness or costiveness at least once in every twenty-four hours, and without heat, dryness or burning at the passage, the free issue of the water, without acrimony or burning, and without a reddish sediment which is always a sign of a present or an approaching pain; quiet sleep without agitation or troublesome dream; no taste of bile or other bad taste in the mouth upon rising in the morning; no sourness or disagreeable rising of the stomach; a clean tongue a sweet breath; no itching, pimples or spots on the skin; no piles; no burning heat upon any part of the body; no excessive thirst when unexposed to labor or other known cause; no interruption to any natural evacuation, nor pain at their periodical return.

Where the state of the system does not harmonize with the above picture of health, it is of the greatest importance that no time be lost in sending for a doctor, or in the use of foolish remedies too often the result of speculation; instead of this course to a dose of BRANDROETH'S PILLS be taken, which will not deceive, but will at once restore health to the organ or part that requires it.

All who wish to preserve their health, all who are determined to defend their life against the encroachments of disease which might send them prematurely to the grave, will, without hesitation, have recourse to the Brandroeth Pills, when the state of the system does not harmonize with the above picture of health.

Those who live in a country where contagious or other diseases prevail, should often think of this true picture of health, and observe himself with particular attention, in order to act accordingly. The wise and rightly directed will follow this advice the unwise are left to their own destruction.
