

ROMANCE IN REAL LIFE—A FATHER MURDERED—RELATIVES WANTED.

Elizabeth T. Rudolph, of Syracuse, N. Y., advertises for friends or relatives in this country, or in Poland. Her history is as romantic as the most devoted novel-club could desire. Her father was a Polish nobleman, Count Felice Venus Rudolph, who brought her to this country in 1824, in charge of a nurse, who who soon after died. She was placed in the family of Daniel Magee, tailor, who resided in Albany, and who poisoned her father to obtain his wealth. She was then adopted as Magee's daughter. Magee and his wife died, the former in 1826, and the latter in 1829 or 1830. A man calling himself John Cleaveland recently called on her, and narrated these facts; adding that he was privy to the murder of her father, and had compelled Magee, under threats of exposure soon after the murder, to deliver to him Rudolph's fortune, and that as soon as he could restore her father's property without exposure, he would do so. This statement has been partly corroborated by the following found in an old Bible belonging to Magee: Eliza was born in Poland, May 19, 1822; her name is Elizabeth Teresa, named after her mother, her father was Count T. Venus Rudolph, and I desire— O forgive me, I can't write D. MAGEE'S. The wife of the said Rudolph died just before she came to this country, and according to information obtained from Mr. Cleaveland, was an English lady of rank. She believes that she has relatives in this country or in Poland, and requests that editors, in America and Europe will publish the facts stated. Cleaveland would not disclose his real name, and acknowledge that 'John Cleaveland' was assumed for the occasion. Direct to Elizabeth T. Rudolph, Syracuse, Onondaga county, N. York.

'THE VOICE OF THE PEOPLE' has always been in favor of Sherman's Medicated Lozenges. They have now been before the public for more than 5 years, during which time they have been used by ministers and laymen, lawyers, doctors, old and young, rich and poor, from Maine to Georgia, and from the shores of the Atlantic to the Rocky Mountains. Nor have they been used in vain. Were all the testimony published which the good effects of his Lozenges, it would form many ponderous books. Cases of consumption, spitting of blood, and long continued coughs have easily been subdued and overcome by their curative properties; and worms have been driven away from the suffering in a way that is almost beyond belief. Dyspepsia, fever and ague, the diseases incident to fever, rheumatism, weakness, &c., all have yielded to their power; and the voice of praise is as fully expressed as it is possible for it to be, wherever they have become acquainted with their wonderful powers. This is no fancy sketch—we have experienced their good effects, and can refer to hundreds and thousands who have been raised up from beds of sickness and suffering by these agreeable preparations. And besides, who would not prefer taking medicine in this form? He who has ever languished upon a sick bed, and been sickened at the very sight of a spoon with molasses and nauseous medicine he has been obliged to swallow, when he once becomes acquainted with Sherman's Lozenges, will always give them the preference over every other medicine ever offered to the public.
