

Northern Tariff Convention.

As suspicions are afloat that an attempt will be made at the next Congress, to interfere with the Tariff of 1842, it appears to us that it would be policy for the Democratic party of the northern counties to hold a convention sometime in the month of November, in some central position to give an expression in regard to it, would not Wilkes barre, be the proper place? What do our Wilkesbarre friends say to it? Will they take it in hand? What do our friends in the several northern counties say to it? Will they step forward and aid in giving a strong expression in favor of sustaining a policy which has already produced so much good in developing the mineral resources of the North? We hope so, and we hope to see a convention make such a report of their doings as will be felt at Washington should any attempt be made to interfere with the interests of Pennsylvania, and clamp her future prosperity.

ROBBERY OF LIVINGSTON'S EX-

PRESS. On Thursday night, while the express-train of Livingston & Wells, Wall street, was stopping at Rochester, the person in charge of the various packages of money, received at different places along the route, placed the package he there received along with the others in his trunk, which he locked and put a buffalo skin over it. Shortly after he, went for a moment to the platform, and on returning to his seat found that the trunk was taken away. He immediately gave the alarm, but neither the trunk or those who had stolen it could be discovered. The trunk contained, as is supposed, a large amount of money, but how much has not as yet been ascertained. The money was principally on the Rochester and Buffalo banks. The trunk was constructed, externally, of black leather, lined inside with iron, and was about 22 inches long and 14 broad.

NEW SERIES OF THE CONGRESSIONAL GLOBE AND APPENDIX TO BE STEREOTYPED.

The undersigned originated the mode of journalizing the proceedings of Congress, which presented them entire. Their publication was the first and only one that gave each successive step in every measure in both branches of Congress; a brief of all debates, every important vote; and an Appendix including at full length all the revised speeches delivered during the session. The work thus conducted by them is a most perfect political history. The Senators from the States and the Representatives from every section of the Union bring with them into Congress a knowledge of the feelings, sentiments, and interests of their several constituents. Public opinion and the public information, as it exists among those they represent, are embodied by them, and in the crucible of Congress the wisdom of our times is brought to its test, and is there concentrated, in directing the political movements of the whole country. The impulses thus given through Congress from every quarter reach upon the nation as a whole, and all its component parts are made to move in co operation. The press cannot be more usefully employed than in condensing and again spreading abroad the intelligence of our free country, leading to such happy results through our almost miraculously adjusted State and National institutions.

Having identified ourselves with the plan of advancing the usefulness of Congress by publishing full and impartial reports, and having a large mass of the Congressional Globe and Appendix issued during the last year, which would be impaired in value to us and utility to the public if the work were discontinued, we have a double motive to prompt us to extend it through a new series. We are resolved if possible to give it permanence, and to hand it down to successors as a standard work, worthy of being maintained and improved. We shall enter upon our new undertaking without being distracted or burdened by any assessor's labors of the press; and, thus unincumbered, shall hope to make the new series a step in advance of the former in all points of execution. With a view to accomplish this we shall be (one or the other) always in attendance in Congress—we will compare the manuscript of our own reporters with the daily reports of the city papers—correct all our own observations and knowledge of the proceedings; and in important matters where that will not assure us of the fidelity of the reports we will procure the aid of the members themselves, to obtain the exact scope of their remarks. The work, thus authenticated, will be a ready copy, which is a guaranty that we will make as perfect as possible for us to make it, as we would not incur the expense of stereotyping it, if we did not feel confident of its superiority over all works of the kind which have been or are likely to be published. Stereotyping the work will enable us to supply lost or mutilated numbers, which we will do, without making any charge for them.

The Congressional Globe is made up of the daily proceedings of the two Houses of Congress. The speeches of the members are condensed, to bring them into a readable length. All the resolutions offered, or motions made, are given in the mover's own words and the yeas and nays on all the important questions. It is printed with small type—bevier and nonpareil—on a double royal sheet, in quarto form, each number containing sixteen royal quarto pages.

The Appendix is made up of the President's annual message, the reports of the principal officers of the Government the company it, and all the long speeches of members of Congress, written out or revised by themselves. It is printed in the same form as the Congressional Globe and usually makes about the same number of pages.

We print the numbers as fast as the proceedings of Congress furnish enough matter for a number of the Appendix a week; but during remainder of a session, there is usually sufficient matter for two or three numbers of each every week. The next session will be a long one, and it is supposed will be unusually interesting; therefore, we calculate that the Congressional Globe and Appendix will each make near one thousand large quarto pages, printed in small type—bevier and nonpareil. We furnish complete indexes to both at the end of a session.

We have on hand the Congressional Globe and Appendix for the last twelve sessions of Congress of which five were long and seven were short sessions. The Congressional Globe and Appendix for each session are bound together in excellent binding, with Russia backs and corners. Our prices for them, thus bound together, are $3 a volume for a short, and $5 a volume for a long session, making $46 for a full set. Those who want the back volumes should apply for them immediately, as they are in demand. The last Congress subscribed for two hundred and twenty six sets, and it is probable that the next will subscribe for at least as many more, as the proceedings of Congress for the last eight years cannot be procured from any other source. Gales & Seaton having stopped printing their Register of Debates in 1837 a few hundred copies of the first volume is all we have on hand.

The next session of Congress will be a long one, and, therefore, the Congressional Globe and Appendix should be $2 for the session, which is the price we charge for the unbound numbers of the past long sessions; but we have concluded to reduce the price, as follows, until the first day of next of Globe and Appendix will each be $2 for the session, and no deduction will be made in account of the number of copies taken—TERMS.

January, after which time the Congress

For one copy of the Congressional Globe $1 50
For one copy of the Appendix 1 50
For four copies of either, or part of both 5 00
For twenty five copies of either, or part of both 25 00
The money may be remitted by mail at our risk. It should be here by the 7th of December, at farthest, to procure all the numbers promptly.

Proprietors of newspapers who copy this Prospect, and send to us one copy of their paper containing it, shall have their name entered on our books for one copy of the Congressional Globe and Appendix during the session.

Our prices for these papers are so low that we cannot afford to credit them out, therefore no person need consume time in writing for them and not sending the money.
