

Quack Doctors.

The Koickerbocker gives the subjoined, which is a pretty good illustration of the general value of quack medicines. 'There are probably many people now living, who remember the celebrated Jew quack doctor, Reuben Nathans, who flourished some forty years since, and whose medicines the 'Chinese Balm of Life,' and the 'Celebrated Hair-Invigorating Lotion,' made so much noise at the time. But few, I presume, have heard of the anecdote I am about to relate concerning him. When the doctor's medicines were first announced to the world, a simple minded laboring man purchased one bottle of the Lotion and another of the Balm, for his wife, who had a consumptive cough of many years' standing, and was besides threatened with the total loss of her hair. The woman used both remedies according to directions, and as is usual with ignorant people in such cases, thought they were really doing her a vast deal of good. The cough seemed to her to be going away rapidly, she 'breathed freer,' while her hair appeared to be coming back again thicker than ever. As a natural consequence she felt very great confidence in the medicines; and when the first lot of Balm was all used she sent her husband to get the bottle filled again. The doctor asked the man how the medicine operated. 'Oh, grandly!' replied the husband; 'my wife's cough's e'en a most gone, and her hair's all coming back again as fiery as ever.' 'Ah,' said the doctor, 'that's the way my medicines always work. There's no mistake about them. They're just what I call them, the 'greatest wonders of the age,' I s'pose you've no objection to giving me your affidavit?' 'Oh, no, replied the man, 'that's just what my wife wants me to do.' The couple then repaired to the mayor's office, when an affidavit was drawn up, sworn to, and witnessed. On returning to the doctor's shop, the quack took up the empty bottle for the purpose of refilling it. Uncorking it, he put it to his nose and smelt of it. 'Why, what can this mean?' he exclaimed, in some astonishment; and then, after looking at the label, he smelt it again. 'Why, sir, this isn't balsam, though the label says so, but hair lotion!' 'Hair lotion or not,' replied the man, pointing to the bottle, 'that's what cured my wife's dreadful cough, and the stuff in the other bottle at home is what made her hair grow again!' 'Strange! strange!' repeated the doctor, with a puzzled countenance; 'I don't know what to make of it. Will you be kind enough, sir, just to step back and get the other bottle—the hair lotion, I mean?' The man did so, and soon returned with the lotion bottle. The doctor took it, and applied his nose to the mouth. 'And this,' said he, 'is just as surely the balsam as the other is the lotion. Don't you think there was some mistake on your part sir, are you sure that what was in this bottle made your wife's hair grow again?' 'Just as certain as I'm alive,' replied the man, 'for I always turned it out myself, while Betsy held the spoon.' The doctor sat down in a chair, and, laying a finger on his nose, seemed buried in profound thought. 'Ah! I see' he at length exclaimed, and jumping up he filled the empty bottle again. 'There, sir,' said he, giving it to the man, and hurrying him to the door, 'all's right sir, I was a little bothered, that's all. Call again when that's gone, and you shall have another for nothing.' As soon as he had shut the door on his customer, the doctor called in his confidential man from the laboratory, 'Mo-hes,' said he, 'we've made a great mistake in our guess work after all. I've been studying ver' hard, lately, and just discovered that our LOTION is the stuff to cure the coughs and the consumption, & the balsam is the best to make the hair grow. We must change the labels. 'That's unlucky,' replied the man, 'for we've got four thousand bottles, two thousand of each kind all ready to send away to-morrow.' 'Vel, vel!' said the doctor, 'you can change the labels, if you have time; if not send them off as they are. 'Is't nosh matter?' 'SPEAK IT BOLDLY. We do admire the truly bold man—not the impudent bold man. If you have truth to utter, which should have utterance, speak it boldly. We hear rather by half see a person thus speak the truth, though by so doing he may be knocked into a cocked hat. The next moment, than to see him blushing and tremble and shake, and run round when acre lot, before he can squeeze out what he knows to be truth and feels his duty to proclaim. Truth, fully spoken, will put to flight an army of notions and calumnies; and it is said will shoo the Devil, alias the 'father of lies.' Truth too spoken boldly and yet in a friendly manner, has checked the downward and ruinous course of many a young and thoughtless person, and been the cause of his happy restoration to the paths of uprightiness and happiness and honor.

Truth spoken faintly and tremblingly, falls upon the ear like a 'milk and water' assertion and has no more effect upon the listener, than he report of a green elder pop-gun would have upon patriotism on the glorious Fourth of July. A way with this foolish, weak, tenacious manner of telling the truth! Be not of the number, who thus deliver themselves, but rather, 'Be thou like the first Apostle— Be thou the heroic Paul, If a free thought seeks expression, Speak it boldly! speak it all! Face thine enemies—accusers, Scorn the prison, rack, or rod! And if thou hast TRUTH to utter, SPEAK! and leave the rest to God. A QUIET WATCHMAN. The watchman stationed in the cupola of the City Hall, at Albany, was asleep when a fierce fire recently broke out; and while the bells were ringing, and the fire men shouting, the clock struck four, which roused him from his slumbers; and he mechanically bawled, 'Past four o'clock, and so-all 's a-bill!' By this time he had got his eyes fairly open and he joined in the chorus of 'Fire!'

NEW SERIES OF THE CONGRESSIONAL GLOBE AND APPENDIX TO BE STEROTYPED.

The undersigned originated the mode of journalizing the proceedings of Congress, which presented them entire. Their publication was the first and only one that gave each successive step in every measure in both branches of Congress; a brief of all de-bates, every important vote; and an Appen-dix including at full length all the revised speeches delivered during the session. The work thus conducted by them is a most per-fect political history. The Senators from the States and the Representatives from every section of the Union bring with them into Congress a knowledge of the feelings, sentiments, and interests of their several constituencies. Public opinion and the public information, as it exists among those they represent, are embodied by them, and in the crucible of Congress the wisdom of our times is brought to its test, and is there concentrated, in directing the political movements of the whole country. The impulses thus given through Congress from every quarter react upon the nation as a whole, and all its component parts are made to move in co-operation. The press cannot be more usefully employed than in condensing and again spreading abroad the intelligence of our free country, tending to such happy results through our almost miraculously adjusted State and National institutions. Having identified ourselves with the plan of advancing the usefulness of Congress by publishing full and impartial reports, and having a large mass of the Congressional Globe and Appendix issued during the last ten years, which would be impaired in value to us and utility to the public if the work were discontinued, we have a double mo-tive to prompt us to extend it through a new series. We are resolved if possible to give it permanence, and to hand it down to suc-cessors as a standard work, worthy of being maintained and improved. We shall enter upon our new undertaking without being distracted or burdened by any associate la-bors of the press; and, thus unencumbered, shall hope to make the new series a step in advance of the former in all points of execution. With a view to accomplish this, we shall be (one or the other) always in at-tendance in Congress—will compare the manuscript of our own reporters with the daily reports of the city papers—correct all by our own observation and knowledge of the proceedings; and in important matters, where that will not assure us of the fidelity of the reports we will procure the aid of the members themselves, to obtain the ex-act scope of their remarks. The work thus authenticated, will be stereotyped, which is a guaranty that we will make as perfect as it is possible for us to make it, we would not incur the expense of stereotyping it, if we did not feel confident of its superiority over all works of the kind which have been or are likely to be published. Stereotyping the work will enable us to supply lost or mutilated numbers, which we will do, with-out making any charge for them. The Congressional Globe is made up of the daily proceedings of the two Houses of Congress. The speeches of the members are condensed, to bring them into a read-able length. All the resolutions offered, or motions made, are given in the mover's own words and the yeas and nays on all the important questions. It is printed with small type—brevier and nonpareil—on a double royal sheet, in quarto form, each number containing sixteen royal quarto pages. The Appendix is made up of the Presi-dent's annual message, the reports of the principal officers of the Government that accompany it, and all the long speeches of members of Congress, written out or re-vised by themselves. It is printed in the same form as the Congressional Globe, and usually makes about the same number of pages. We print the numbers as fast as the pro-ceedings of Congress furnish enough matter for a number of the Appendix a week; but during remainder of a session there is usually sufficient matter for two or three num-bers of each every week. The next session will be a long one, and it is supposed will be unusually interesting; therefore, we calculate that the Congressional Globe and Appendix will each make near one thousand large quarto pages, printed in small type—brevier and nonpareil. We furnish com-plete indexes to both at the end of a ses-sion. We have on hand the Congressional Globe and Appendix for the last twelve sessions of Congress of which five were long and seven were short sessions. The Congressional Globe and Appendix for each session are bound together in excellent binding, with Russia backs and corners. Our prices for them, thus bound together are $3 a volume for a short, and $5 a vol-ume for a long session, making $16 for a full set. Those who want the back vol-umes should apply for them immediately, as they are in demand. The last Congress subscribed for two hundred and twenty six sets, and it is probable that the next will subscribe for at least as many more, as the proceedings of Congress for the last eight years cannot be procured from any other source, Gales & Seaton having stopped printing their Register of Debates in 1837. A few hundred copies of the first volume is all we have on hand. The next session of Congress will be a long one, and, therefore, the Congressional Globe and Appendix should be $2 for the session, which is the price we charge for the unbound numbers of the past long ses-sions; but we have concluded to reduce the price, as follows, until the first day of next

January, after which time the Congression-al Globe and Appendix will each be $2 for the session, and no deduction will be made on account of the number of copies taken. TERMS. For one copy of the Congression-al Globe $1 50 For one copy of the Appendix 1 50 For four copies of either, or part of both 5 00 For twenty five copies of either, or part of both 25 00 The money may be remitted by mail at our risk. It should be here by the 7th of December, at farthest, to procure all the numbers promptly. Proprietors of newspapers who copy this Prospectus, and send us one copy of their paper containing it, shall have their names entered on our books for one copy of the Congressional Globe and Appendix during the session. Our prices for these papers are so low that we cannot afford to credit them out, therefore no person need consume his time in writing for them and not send-ing the money. BLAIR & RIVES. Washington City, October 4, 1845.

Brandreth's Pills.

READ and understand! The time will come when the medicine, Brandreth's Pills, will be appreciated as they ought and deserve; it will be understood that Dr. Brandreth has the strongest claims upon his trial. It is true that every individual who makes a trial of the Brandreth Pills concede them to be the best medicine they ever used. They are indeed a medicine about which there is no mistake. Their value in a climate so changeable as ours cannot be sufficiently appreciated. A free preparation is at once restored, thus they cure colds, and consumption of bile find them of the most essential service, and should there be a deficiency of that important fluid the Brandreth Pills have an equally beneficial effect. Often has this important medicine saved valuable lives in those regions where the dreadful yellow fever was prevail-ing. A few doses taken immediately upon the in-festation being received into the system, will be al-most certain to prevent any material inconsequence. And at no stage of this dreadful epidemic is there so proper a medicine as the Brandreth Pills. This medicine is universally used in this disease, and no loss of blood allowed, and few, very few, would be its victims. So it is with other diseases. Assist nature with all this important medicine to remove morbid humors from the blood, and do not resort to bleeding or mercury, and we shall have a very great scarcity of persons afflicted with chronic maladies. The feathered tribes—the animal kingdom—over which we are the lords, are not afflicted with chronic maladies; neither should we be if they were not for our price which occasions them. Follow nature. Use the medicine which harmonizes with her, which mildly but surely re-moves all the impurities of the blood, which strength-ens the feeble, and yet reduces those of too full habit to a healthy standard. Let me again say that every department of the manufacture of Brandreth Pills is personally superintended by me, and that every box with my three labels upon it may be relied upon to have the beneficial effect described if used according to the directions accompanying it. LEGAL NOTICE.

All persons interested will take notice, that an application was made to the judges of the court of common pleas, sitting at 'Danville' in and for Columbia County at the term of August, A. D. 1845, by the members of the first Presbyterian Church of Bloomsburg; in the county of Columbia and State of Pennsylvania, by a committee duly elected by them for that purpose, to acquire and enjoy the powers and immunities of a corporation, by the name 'Style & Title of the first Presbyterian Church of Bloomsburg' and if no sufficient reason should be shown to the contrary at the next term of the court to be held at Danville aforesaid, the third Monday of November next, the said court will then make a decree and declare; that the persons so associated shall by the name 'Style & Title of the first Presbyterian Church of Bloomsburg' in the county of Columbia aforesaid, become a corporation or body politic, agreeably to the Act of Assembly in such case made and provided. JACOB EYERLY, Prot. Danville Aug. 23d, 1845

TO TAX COLLECTORS AND TAXPAYERS.

In consequence of a Circular, lately issued by the State Treasurer, directing that the State Tax still remaining unpaid, for the present and former years, must be paid into the State Treasury, on or before the second Tuesday in January next, and that every county, falling to pay its portion of State Taxes, shall be, after that time charged an interest of five per cent, on such amount as shall remain unpaid, and payments from the State Treasury, for school or other purposes withheld, until such balance with it interest is fully paid; we are under the necessity of requiring the several Tax Collectors of Columbia County to collect and pay over into the county Treasury, on or before the third Monday of November next, ALL the State Taxes for former years which still remain unpaid. The promptness with which our former Circular was responded to, both by Tax Collectors and Tax Payers, by which the county Treasurer was enabled to pay into the State Treasury at that time required the whole amount of State Tax due from this county; for the present year, I believe as to believe that Columbia county will not on the second Tuesday of January next, be found among the defaulters. By order of the Commissioners, E. MENDENHALL, Clerk. Commissioners Office Danville, September 13, 1845.
