the gentlemen, and reading of compositions! of the ladies, interspersed with music by the choir attached to the Seminary took place on Wednesday afternoon, in the grove near by. The audience of ladies and gentiemen of the Valley, and beyond, was large and long as the time was, no one seemed tired. We heard there some orations of youth which would have been considered as masterly efforts if coming from some men whose fame as orators is well and just ly established .- Of this order was the oration on 'Ireland' full of good thoughts and 'points;' to creative Genius' although the speaker labored under the disadvantage o severe indisposition. 'My Country'slibough by quite a lad was by no means an effort to be ashamed of by the oldest there. That on 'Patrick Henry' was we think perhaps the best finished production pronounced and full of thoughts new and well expresss ed .- The gentleman's Valedictory on the 'Progress of Society' was very creditable to the head heart and manner of the gentleman who delivered it. We would like to select more-for more are deserving of par ticular mention-but must in the little space we have left express our great gradification at the finished and elegant style of the la dies' Essays which were read alternately with the orations of the gentlemen. We challenge any array of young misses, any where to succeed better in enchaining an audience and delighting them with thoughts Lockart, Joseph Low, Alexander Lockart and othfresher or better written. There are some heads there have brains in them and their bright eyes show it too. We expected to hear some things nice and pretty but were not prepared for such-coming from school girls-as was 'The First Sabbath' 'Dreaming 'The Lone Indian' Mutability' and all which is cleared land, adjoining lands of Stephen -every one of them. The First Sab- Ellis, James Johnson, Charles McKee and bath' had good thoughts enough to stock a 'year of Sundays' now days. So had appertenances.-Seized taken in execution and to 'Dreams' bright fancies enough for 'the sleep that knows no waking."

There were some very pretty poetical productions-among them, the 'Rose Bud' was quite good, and one, 'The Grasshopper,' evinces talent which if cultivated will give early to the young lady a place not easily reached among the weavers of sweet bia, in the State of Pennsylvania, on the and in the most workmanlike manner and style, thoughts. The freling and expisite Ladies Valedictory by the same writer showed she Livern, containing front 20 feet on the road Tweed sack frock & dress coats from $3 00 to 5 00 could write prose as well, and power was aforesaid, and in depth 25 feet, and the lot Summer and croton cloth do evident in the sobs and moistened eyes of the assembly.

No one could have been present, and witnessed the character of the display with out feeling satisfied that the Wyoming Seminary at Kingston 's in good hands and doing good and that parents who confide their children to Mr. Nelson and assistants callnot fail to be pleased and proud of their advar cement in aducation of the head as well as of the heart and attainment of that gentle manly and lady like ease of bearing without which mere knowledge is rusted iron.

In the evening the Matherian society listened to an excellent address from the Rev. Mr Coyler on the character of Lonis Phillippe-the man of peace-and afterwards the class in music exhibited their proficiency and skill in singing and on the piano doing much credit to themselves and instructor .- Wilkesbarre Transcript.
