HOPE

If Hope is dead, why seek to live? For what besides has life to give? Love, Life and Youth, and beauty too, If Hope be dead, say! what are you!

Love without Hope! it cannot be; There is a vessel on yon sea, Be calm and sailless as Despair, And know—"in hopeless Love floats there.

Life without Hope! O that is not To live; but day by day to rot, With feelings cold and passions dead: To wander o'er the world, and tread Upon its beauties; and to gaze, Quite vacant, o'er its flowery maze. Oh! think if this be Life! then say, "Who lives when Hope hath fled away?"

Youth with Hope! An endless night, Trees which have felt the cold spring's blight, The lightning's flash, and the thunder's strife, Yet pine away a weary life, Which older would have sunk and died Beneath the strokes their youth defied. But cured with length of days are left To rail at youth of Hope bereft.

And beauty, too, when Hope is gone, Has lost the ray in which it shone; And seen without this borrowed light, Has lost the beam that made it bright. Now what avail the silken hair, The gentle smile, the gentle air, The beaming eye, and glance refined— Faint semblance of the purer mind— As gold dust sparkling in the sun, Points where the richer strata run, Alas! they now just seem to be Bestowed to mock at Misery;

They speak of days long, long gone by, Then point to cold reality, And with a death-like smile they say: "Oh! what are we when Hope's away!" Thus Love, Life and Beauty too, When seen without Hope's brightening hue, All sigh in Misery's sudden tone, "Why seek to live if Hope be gone?"

SONGS OF TOIL

Up and at them!—Wellington! Toiler, see the day is breaking, Man from chains and bondage waking Off the badge of slavery shaking, Will be free—

Look and see your flag unfurled Give the watchword to the world Despots to the ground be hurld On for liberty— Up and at them! ever onward, Keep your heart and purpose onward.

Ask for nothing but the right, Yield ye not to haughty might, Firm and constant in the fight Ever be— Progress, progress be the word, Let that magic sound be heard, Till the world's deep heart is stir'd Answeringly—

Up and at them! ever onward, Keep your heart and purpose onward. Man with sunburnt hand and brow, Men from anvil, forge and plough, See the day-star rising now Clear and bright—

From its beams old customs flying, Chains and whips and tortures dying, Man with brother man is vying In the right— Up and at them! ever onward, Keep your heart and purpose onward.

Stoop not from your high career, Bend ye not to coward fear, Turn to every coming year Earnestly— Broader flows the stream of life, Clearer seen above the strife Is that low with promise rife To the free—

Up and at them! ever onward, Keep your heart and purpose onward. Leave the past nor look behind, Trust the majesty of mind, Work ye for thy fellow kind Look ahead—

See the smiling, hear the singing, Toil its recompense is bringing, Labor-craft to life is springing From the dead— Up and at them! ever onward, Keep your heart and purpose onward.

Brother toilers, round us ever Beats the tide of life's deep river Onward, onward ceasing never In its flow— Work we then with will as strong FAITH and PATIENCE pure and long LOVE and TRUTH to which belong Life's rich glow—

Up and at them! ever onward, Keep your heart and purpose onward. Hall we all from every clime Brothers in this march of time, Kindred voices in the chime To glad our way— No depending at our lot, Toil has many a rosy spot, By the wealthy ones forgot, To cheer our day—

Up and at them! ever onward, Keep your heart and purpose onward. S. D. A.
