

THE GARLAND.

BE NOT OVER NICE.

Young gent, if you don't wish to be, For remnant of your years, The thing that Franklin need to call A half a pair of shoes, Pray let me whisper in your ear A word of good advice— Don't think to find recreation here, And be not over nice.

Take warning by my cousin Jack, No in his footsteps tread; Oh, how I've teased and talked to him, And tried to make him wed; But he is so PARTIAL, So shy of all the fair, He'll be a blue old bachelor In spite of all my care.

One is in height a mountain oak; A second like a tub; A third has got a mammoth foot; Another's nose is snub, One cannot brew, or bake, or sweep; Another cannot play, Another's always in the eads; Another quite too gay.

Miss A good dough-nuts cannot make; Miss B is said to pain; Miss C is wilder than the winds, Miss D too much a saint, Miss E is careless in her dress; Miss F is too precise, Miss G is prone to take Scotch snuff, Miss H is fond of dice.

Miss I is silent as a doll, Miss J a perfect parrot, Miss K has hazel colored locks, Miss L's are like a carrot, Miss M is always looking grim, Miss N forever giggling, Miss O is stiffer than a stake, Miss P is loose and wriggling.

Miss Q is cold as wintry ice, Miss R too fond of fawning, Miss S has got defective teeth, Miss T was caught a yawning, Miss U for eyes has got an owl's, Miss V a pair that squint, Miss W's temper's soft as wax, Miss X's steel and flint.

Miss Y is past a certain age, Miss Z a thoughtless miss, So with all some fault he finds, A fancy that or this, Aged so with all the girls, If they are all provoked, I am that no'er he'll be With any maiden yoked.

So gent, I pray you take good heed— Avoid Jack's grievous errors, And soon you'll find that pretty girl; Are clad no more in terraces, And when you meet a sparkling eye, With real and feeling lighted, Remember that it speaks a hint Which may not well be slighted.

THE TEAR OF GRATITUDE. There is a gem more purely bright, More dear to mercy's eye, Than love's sweet star, whose mellow light First cheers the evening sky; A liquid pearl that glitters where No sorrow now intrude, A richer gem than monarch's wear— The tear of gratitude.

But ye shall narrow love's width, Invite this tribute forth; Nor can the sordid slave of self Appreciate its worth, But ye who soothe the widow's woe, And give the orphan food, For you this liquid pearl shall flow— The tear of gratitude.

To who but slake an infant's thirst, In heavenly mercy's name, Or proffer penury a crust, The sweet reward may claim— Then, when you rove life's sunny banks, With sweetest flow'rets strowed, Still my you claim the widow's thanks, The orphan's gratitude.
