

Agricultural.

How blest the Farmer's simple life! How pure the joy it yields! Far from the world's tempestuous strife, Free, 'mid the scented fields—Ereest.

Agricultural Fairs.

The Weekly North American Farmer, says—We are pleased to notice the establishment of Agricultural Societies and Associations in various parts of our great Union. There is nothing more conducive to the advancement of our first and great interest, than a friendly harmony and union of the farmers in every locality. While every interest has its societies, protective associations, &c., the farmers, planters and producers, constituting and representing the foundation of all other avocations, have been too long neglected, or rather have neglected themselves. Let associations be at once formed in every township and county in the United States, and let the world know, that without a successful agricultural community, no country can thrive. Long live the honest tiller of the soil!

FARMING IN THE VIRGINIA VALLEY.

The Rockingham Register states that Mr. Reuben Moore, of that county, last year made on his farm and hauled to market over nine hundred barrels of flour! besides what he used in his own family.—With six hands and one wagon and team, he did the work on the farm, as well as the hauling to market! The crop was ground in his own mill, so that everything was done by himself and upon his premises. In addition for the large quantity of flour made and sold from his farm, Mr. M. also had 150 fat cattle to sell.

Hoove in Cattle.

B. M. Ellis, of Muncy, Pa., gives in the Albany Cultivator, the following cure for an animal hooved on clover: "Take a straw band with a knot in the middle as a man's fist, put plenty of tar upon it, and put it in the mouth of the animal, and tie it on the top of the head; not too tight—so that he can chew it, and then put two or three spoonfuls of tar in the mouth. This will relieve the animal almost instantly. I have cured at least twenty cattle in this way, and can cure any one in fifteen minutes at most. If the animal is hooved upon corn or rye chop, (corn or rye coarsely ground and mixed with cut straw or hay) I take a pint of Glauber salts, and drench the bowels with it. I have known several cattle to be cured in this way; I never had but one of my own founded,—it was a cow fresh in milk. I gave her lard—she soon got better, but lost her milk, and for a week or two gave but little. She lost all her hair, it came off in great bunches."

SWELLINGS.—The following article is recommended for scattering swellings on horses, cows, oxen and other domestic animals. "Take two quarts of proof whiskey, or other proof spirits, and warm them over the fire; but not to boiling—dissolve in a pint of soft soap—when cool, put it in a pint bottle or other close vessel, and add one ounce of camphor." This forms, when dissolved a liquid ointment, and is then ready for application. It is a cheap and valuable remedy, and should be kept constantly on hand by every person.

THE OCEAN.—The great Pacific Ocean has a larger area than all the dry land on the globe. It covers 59,000,000 of square miles, and 70,000,000 including the Indian Ocean. From Peru to Africa it is 15,000 miles wide. It is generally unmatchable between the tropics, where its depth is so great, that a line five miles long has in many places not reached the bottom. The Atlantic Ocean apparently stretching from pole to pole is 5000 miles wide, and covers 25,000,000 square miles.

FARMERS, A CHALLENGE!

Mr. Selim Doolittle, of this town, has deposited in our sanctum a peck of potatoes, consisting of 53 in number, and weighing 13 pounds, the product of a single hill, and from a single potato. The potato is of the pinkeye genus, and a finer article never grew. When any grower can beat this he will haul down the flag—until then, Mr. Doolittle stands excelsior!

The above product of a single potato is by no means "small potatoes."

A Generous Fellow.

The following is a literal copy of an advertisement, which appeared in a Connecticut paper, the Farmer's Journal, some time ago: "Messes Printers—Please to put into the public prints, that I have by mutual consent, parted with my wife, on generous conditions; and that no person shall trust her on my account hereafter. I expect there is evil minded folks that would edge her to mischief if possible, therefore, pray advise according to the best of your knowledge, oblige yours to serve, James Brown."

LOOKING YELLOW.—A landlord recently called out to a temperance man at Blackburn: "Why, you are looking yellow with your abstinence." "Yes," said the man, putting his hand into his pocket and pulling out some eagles, "and my pocket is looking yellow, too."
