

The Union—Is there no Danger of its Dissolution?

Almost from the foundation of the government, and certainly within the last twenty-five years, the dissolution of the Union has been much discussed, and sometimes openly menaced.

But, is there now really no danger of disunion—no causes in existence which may ripen into a dissolution of the Union? We fear that this question cannot be answered in the negative.

Communities, like individuals, are governed by their interests. Their decisions and actions are controlled ultimately by their transcendent material interests.

It is divided into two great sections, differing in climate, soil, products, and institutions. The predominant interests of the North, which is one of the great divisions to which we allude, are agricultural and manufacturing.

But it is different at the South. In that section of the Union, and especially in the great planting States, negro slave labor is absolutely essential to the development of their resources.

It seems to us, that slavery is a necessity to our brethren of the planting States,—primarily to them, and consequently, we may add, to the whole civilized world.

Here, then, we may observe one cause which is, and will be, constantly working for a dissolution of the Union.

Slave labor is becoming, in proportion to the demand, scarcer and consequently dearer. The world demands more cotton, sugar, and other staples of the warm climates.

What will be the effect of the operation of these two causes, to say nothing of the dangers resulting from the ambition of aspiring and restless men with which our country abounds?

its true interests, wealth and power; and also, proximately, the true interests of the North; and the North, impelled by the spirit of fanaticism and demagogism, and not from interest, will oppose it.

The North will persist in this mistaken war upon the interests of the South, relying upon the assurance of the pestiferous demagogues which it cherishes in its bosom, that there is no danger, the South dare not proceed to the extremity of dissolution.

What then? Is the South destroyed? Are her great interests destroyed? Is she at the mercy of the North? or, is the North at the mercy of the South? Is not cotton as essential to the manufacturers of England as ever?

What will be the ultimate destiny of the South? Below her, towards the Equator, lie boundless realms adapted to the growth of all the great tropical staples, whose mountains and valleys glitter with mineral wealth.

Do the people of the North imagine that thoughts like these, do not run through the busy brains of the restless and ambitious men of the South—nay, the adventurous of all sections of the Union?

It is the paltry squabble about Kansas, or the Compromise Measures, or are those the mere pretexts? Are they not the product—the children born of the causes of discontent between the two great sections of the Union, of the ambitious thoughts, and of the possible destiny of the South, to which we have above alluded?

Here, then, we may observe one cause which is, and will be, constantly working for a dissolution of the Union.

Slave labor is becoming, in proportion to the demand, scarcer and consequently dearer. The world demands more cotton, sugar, and other staples of the warm climates.

What will be the effect of the operation of these two causes, to say nothing of the dangers resulting from the ambition of aspiring and restless men with which our country abounds?

What will be the effect of the operation of these two causes, to say nothing of the dangers resulting from the ambition of aspiring and restless men with which our country abounds?

derm civilization? And if he were set free, would he not be the reverse, and would he not relapse into his awful state of barbarism? And, is not the labor of the negro, guided and directed by the intellect of the white man, absolutely necessary for the settlement, cultivation and civilization of the warm regions of the earth?

But let us be understood. We are no advocate for the introduction of slavery into the northern agricultural and manufacturing States. It is not adapted to their soil, climate, nor interests.

Each section flourishes best under its own system. The free system is not a failure here at the North, as many at the South suppose. Nor is the slave system a failure at the South, as many at the North believe.

We left home on last Monday in a torrent of rain, with a jolly boat crew and two horses, destined for Plymouth, in pursuit of a lead of coal for our winter's comfort.

During that night, owing to the dashing waves, piercing winds and the open condition of the Boat Cabin, we got but precious little sleep.

On leaving Shawney, we were appropriately impressed with the triteness of that couplet of the Boatman's Song—which reads—

Send our team home from Nanticoke, we took passage,—with Capt. JOHN HICKS, and his party, who were part of the time our companions in misfortune—in the Cars on the Lackawanna and Bloomsburg Railroad, where we rode pleasantly as far as the Track is laid, which is some half mile below Esquire Cartright's, at Beach Grove.

Send our team home from Nanticoke, we took passage,—with Capt. JOHN HICKS, and his party, who were part of the time our companions in misfortune—in the Cars on the Lackawanna and Bloomsburg Railroad, where we rode pleasantly as far as the Track is laid, which is some half mile below Esquire Cartright's, at Beach Grove.

Send our team home from Nanticoke, we took passage,—with Capt. JOHN HICKS, and his party, who were part of the time our companions in misfortune—in the Cars on the Lackawanna and Bloomsburg Railroad, where we rode pleasantly as far as the Track is laid, which is some half mile below Esquire Cartright's, at Beach Grove.

Send our team home from Nanticoke, we took passage,—with Capt. JOHN HICKS, and his party, who were part of the time our companions in misfortune—in the Cars on the Lackawanna and Bloomsburg Railroad, where we rode pleasantly as far as the Track is laid, which is some half mile below Esquire Cartright's, at Beach Grove.

Send our team home from Nanticoke, we took passage,—with Capt. JOHN HICKS, and his party, who were part of the time our companions in misfortune—in the Cars on the Lackawanna and Bloomsburg Railroad, where we rode pleasantly as far as the Track is laid, which is some half mile below Esquire Cartright's, at Beach Grove.

The special Washington correspondent of Col. Forney's Press says, it is rumored that Mr. Buchanan, in his first annual message to Congress, will take hold ground on the currency question; that he will reaffirm the principles laid down so clearly in his celebrated speech on the Independent Treasury Bill.

The issue will be made in the next Congress whether State banks have the constitutional power to issue circulating "promises to pay." There will be a large party to take the negative of the argument, who will not, it is said, yield until a decision has been given on the question by the Supreme Court of the United States.

The N. Y. Times' Nebraska correspondent announces the arrival in that territory of divers Mormon deserters, who left Salt Lake City in October. They bring two weeks later intelligence which, if true, is of high importance.

Alfred Young, a negro, who was convicted of the murder of his wife some time ago, at Sandwich, Ill., escaped from the jail at that place on the night of the 16th inst., by digging under the wall.

Brown and Carroll, two Five Point rowdy robbers, were convicted in New York Friday of garroting and robbing a French sailor. Judge Russell sentenced them to fourteen years and six months each in the state prison.

At Columbia, S. C., a terrible fight occurred one night between a fine-blooded stallion and a jack, which tore one of the horse cars out by the roots, and then seizing him by the throat made a finish of him.

At Columbia, S. C., a terrible fight occurred one night between a fine-blooded stallion and a jack, which tore one of the horse cars out by the roots, and then seizing him by the throat made a finish of him.

At Columbia, S. C., a terrible fight occurred one night between a fine-blooded stallion and a jack, which tore one of the horse cars out by the roots, and then seizing him by the throat made a finish of him.

At Columbia, S. C., a terrible fight occurred one night between a fine-blooded stallion and a jack, which tore one of the horse cars out by the roots, and then seizing him by the throat made a finish of him.

At Columbia, S. C., a terrible fight occurred one night between a fine-blooded stallion and a jack, which tore one of the horse cars out by the roots, and then seizing him by the throat made a finish of him.

At Columbia, S. C., a terrible fight occurred one night between a fine-blooded stallion and a jack, which tore one of the horse cars out by the roots, and then seizing him by the throat made a finish of him.

At the meeting of the Board of Directors, on last Tuesday, Edw. H. Baldy, Esq., was unanimously re-elected as President. A Dividend of 3 per cent. for the last six months was declared on the 3d inst.

The daughters of Van R. Taylor and James Fitch, in West Lafayette, Coshocton county, Ohio, got into a quarrel at the doorway of Fitch. Mr. F., who was chopping wood, ran to separate them with his axe in his hand.

A man from Minnesota, stopping at Little's Hotel, Indianapolis, Ind., the other evening, related a curious case of bereavement. He said he had been married twice, and that by his first wife he had a son, now full grown.

Alfred Young, a negro, who was convicted of the murder of his wife some time ago, at Sandwich, Ill., escaped from the jail at that place on the night of the 16th inst., by digging under the wall.

Brown and Carroll, two Five Point rowdy robbers, were convicted in New York Friday of garroting and robbing a French sailor. Judge Russell sentenced them to fourteen years and six months each in the state prison.

At Columbia, S. C., a terrible fight occurred one night between a fine-blooded stallion and a jack, which tore one of the horse cars out by the roots, and then seizing him by the throat made a finish of him.

At Columbia, S. C., a terrible fight occurred one night between a fine-blooded stallion and a jack, which tore one of the horse cars out by the roots, and then seizing him by the throat made a finish of him.

At Columbia, S. C., a terrible fight occurred one night between a fine-blooded stallion and a jack, which tore one of the horse cars out by the roots, and then seizing him by the throat made a finish of him.

At Columbia, S. C., a terrible fight occurred one night between a fine-blooded stallion and a jack, which tore one of the horse cars out by the roots, and then seizing him by the throat made a finish of him.

At Columbia, S. C., a terrible fight occurred one night between a fine-blooded stallion and a jack, which tore one of the horse cars out by the roots, and then seizing him by the throat made a finish of him.

At Columbia, S. C., a terrible fight occurred one night between a fine-blooded stallion and a jack, which tore one of the horse cars out by the roots, and then seizing him by the throat made a finish of him.

SELECT SCHOOL. A QUARTER HAS JUST COMMENCED Apply for admission at the School Room on Third street, at the residence of Mrs. J. Eaton.

ELSE & WILSON'S WHOLESALE & RETAIL BAKERY. CONFECTIONARY & FRUIT STORE. Oyster and Eating Saloons.

SAVING FUND NATIONAL SAFETY TRUST CO. OFFICE, WALNUT ST., S. W. CORNER OF THIRD.

LIST OF LETTERS, REMAINING IN THE Post Office at Bloomsburg, Pa., quarter ending November 16th 1857.

LIVING AND LOVING. BY MISS VIRGINIA F. TOWNSEND.

MADISON HOUSE, NOS. 37 AND 39 NORTH SECOND STREET.

NOTICE TO MERCHANTS. BAKER'S BAKERY!

LETTERS of Administration on the Estate of Benjamin Platt.

ADMINISTRATOR'S NOTICE. Estate of David Smith, dec'd.

HEAR THE MILLER. CUSTOMERS TO THE AQUEDUCT MILL.

BOOK-BINDING. CHARLES STAHL would respectfully inform the citizens of Bloomsburg and vicinity, that he has lately established in this place a Book Bindery.

NOTICE. In the matter of the Will of James Reformed Clerk in Bloomsburg.

COLUMBIA COUNTY, SS. In an Opinion rendered by the Hon. Judge of the Court of Common Pleas in and for said County, on the 19th day of October, 1857.

LIFE INSURANCE. THE GREAT LIFE INSURANCE ANNUITY AND TRUST COMPANY OF PHILADELPHIA.

CONTINUE to make INSURANCES ON LIVES on the most reasonable terms.

A PHYSICIAN'S LEGACY TO YOUNG MEN.

A BOOK FOR EVERY MAN'S LIBRARY. Rare Inducements to Agents.

NOTICE. The Trustees of this Institution have unanimously elected H. D. Walker, A. M. of Lewistown, Principal of said Academy, in place of Prof. Anderson.

PATENT SPRING BED BOTTOMS. All you that want to rest and sleep cool on your beds.

WHEATLEY'S ARCH ST. THEATRE, ARCH STREET, ABOVE SIXTH.

NOTICE. THE President and Managers of the Catawissa Bridge Company have this day declared a dividend of 25 cents on the shares of said Company for the last six months.

SHARP NOTICE. A statement of Cashier's Office, Jewell, Performer of the Office every Saturday.