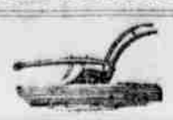
AGRICULTURAL.



SHADE TREES IN PASTURES.

I have read with much surprise the articles published in the Cultivator and Country Gentleman, advising farmers to destroy the shade trees in their pastures.

Now, as the merciful man is merciful to his beast, it is surprising that so celebrated a farmer as Hon. A. B. Dickinson should advocate such cruelty. One of my cows by-the-by, was sadly sun-burned last summer by being pastured in a field without sufficient shade.

I have but one field on my farm destitute of shade trees, and that I intend to supply as soon as they will grow. Mr. Dickinson says the lazy rascals will lie in the shade when they should be feeding. Now cattle if running in good pasture will eat what their appetites crave, and no more. If they lie in the shade in the heat of the day, they will feed with a keener appetite in the cool of the day. It is difficult forcing them to feed by exposing their backs to a burning sun. I know not how well Mr. Dickinson's cattle may be trained, but I do know that my cattle are just mean enough, when turned to a pasture without shade trees, to take advantage of the little shade which the fences afford, and there lie, vainly endeavoring to screen themselves from the sun's burning rays as long as they otherwise would lie in a comfortable shade.

It is argued that they make more flesh by being deprived of the benefit of shade trees, which I very much doubt; but, if so, what is the value of a few pounds of beef compared with the satisfaction of seeing them comfortably enjoying themselves in the shade of a beautiful tree?

Animals as well as men are killed by sun stroke, if we take the newspapers for authority.

Where is the man that will take his dinner and go out in the sun and eat, if he can find the shade? I say, "Woodman spare that tree." CHARLES PRINCE, Schuylkill Co., N. Y.—Country Gentleman.

HOW TO GET RID OF CHICKEN-LICE.

Two years ago my chickens were infested with vermin, and my hen-house (which is also my wood and coal-house,) so overrun with lice that no one could go into it without being covered with them. They were a great pest. To get rid of them I sifted air-slacked lime over the roosts, floor, wood, coal, and everything in the house, but to no purpose.

Just then, I saw the statement of a woman in one of my agricultural periodicals, saying that she did not know that sassafras roots would prevent chickens from having lice, but she did know that when she had such roosts her chickens were never troubled with vermin.

Upon this hint I acted. I got some sassafras poles for roosts, and scattered the bark of sassafras roost among the nests. The results was that the lice soon disappeared.

My neighbor S. was in the same predicament with his hens and hen house three weeks ago—the nest of one sitting-hen being so full of lice that she deserted her eggs. I informed him how I got rid of them, and he immediately procured sassafras poles for roosts, and scattered sassafras bark about the hen-house and in the nests, with the same result that followed my experiment. His hens are now free from lice.

To try the effect of sassafras upon lice, he dropped some of them upon pieces of the bark; the consequence was, that almost in tantly upon touching it they died, He also dropped pieces of the bark among the deserted eggs, which were covered with lice, and noticed that when a piece fell among them, there was an immediate scampering to get away from it. From these experiments, I confer that sassafras is fatal to smoken-lice.—Genesee Farmer.

WORMS IN PEARS.—A horticulturist writes that having some fine pears stung by worms, he saved them by inserting in the worm hole the stem of a pear leaf, flexible enough to follow its sinuosities and crush the intruder in his retreat.—The pears would have been good for nothing otherwise, but after this experiment they obtained admirably their maturity, presenting no other trace of the operation than a slightly hardened scar, and an imperceptible depression of contour. Like a true gardener, he was too fond of his pears to eat them, and cannot say whether the flesh in growing together had or had not expelled the remains of the enemy. He hopes others will give the process a further test.

SEED WHEAT.—W. E. Antry, of Campbell County, Ky., says he selected from his growing wheat the earliest and largest heads, sowed this seep separately, and the produce the next harvest was "three weeks earlier than any other wheat of the same kind sown at the same time." He thinks by continuing this process he shall be able to get a very early variety. He is of opinion that seed wheat should be brought have had the surest demonstration in the following certificate that their manufacture of Salamander Safes has at length fully warranted the reputation it has long been making of it—that of rendering an undoubted security against the terrific element.

Philadelphia April 12, 1856.

Messrs. Evans & Watson: Gentlemen—It affords us the highest satisfaction to state to you, that owing to the very protective qualities of two of the Salamander Safes which you furnished us previous to the fourth instant, we saved a large portion of jewelry, and all our books, &c., exposed to the calamitous fire in Rumstead place on the morning of the 11th inst.

When we recollect that these safes were located in the fourth story of the building we occupied and that they fell subsequently into a heap of burning ruins, where the vast concentration of the heat caused the brass plates to melt, we cannot but regard the preservation of their valuable contents as most convincing proof of the great security afforded by your safes.

We shall take great pleasure in recommending them to pieces of business as a sure defence against fire.

RAYMOND'S PATENT

SEWING MACHINE!

PRICE $25 EACH.

MESSRS. ZUPPINGER & ROBBINS of Bloomsburg having purchased the exclusive right of the above valuable Improved Cheap Patent Sewing Machine, for the county of Columbia, will be happy to supply them at its terms with the article, for the accommodation of those who want such machines. The following are some of the superior advantages this simple machine possesses over any every other now in use, viz:

1. It will sew from 600 to 1200 stitches per minute, thus saving both time and labor in the operation.

2. Its construction is so plain and simple, with only being one line motion, so it may be kept in order and will give entire satisfaction.

3. Its stitches are more durable than by hand, being sewed very uniformly in the seam, so that this Machine is the best for tailoring, shoe making, &c.

4. One of the most valuable features of this Machine is the simpleness and the cheapness of its manufacture.

5. It can be attached to a hand, table or stand, so operating can also attach it to a foot less than a minute.

6. It greatly economizes the thread, and yet presents a seam sufficiently strong for any work for which it is designed, a qualification not known to other sewing Machines.

7. No human hair is capable in producing a seam so regular and even as this.

8. Among the array of Patent Sewing Machines, there are none so cheap and durable as Raymond's Patent, but one Machine is required to all kinds of work except rubber has been made.

9. The operator can shape his seam just as he pleases, waves, leaves and flowers, etc., can be represented or imitated.

10. It is particularly adapted to all kinds of stitching—such as gentlemen's shirts, bosoms, gathers, collars, &c.—and all kinds of Ladies' sewing, including silks, laces, delaines, and all kinds of sewing for men's heavy wear. This Machine is rather too light for coarse cotton.

11. But all the foregoing advantages, though real in themselves, dwindle into insignificance, when compared with the preservation of health, being a saving of both labor and expense, and leaves the operator without stooping, and is enabled to perform his work, occupying a natural position.

For sale by the undersigned, at their respective residences, in Bloomsburg, who will put the machine in operation and give all necessary instruction.

INPECTINE,

The Persian Fever Charm.

FOR the prevention and cure of Fever and Ague and Bilious Fevers. This wonderful remedy was brought to the knowledge of the present proprietors by a friend who has been a great traveler in Persia and the Holy Land.

While going down the river Euphrates, he experienced a severe attack of Fever and Ague. On discovering his condition, one of the Bashaws took from his person an Amulet, saying, "Wear this and no Fever will touch you." Although incredulous as to its virtues, he complied, and experienced immediate relief, and has since always found it an effectual protection from all malarious complaints.

On further investigation he found that the boatmen attribut d it to miraculous powers, and state that it could only be obtained from the Priests of the Sun. Sometime afterwards, the gentleman in conversing with a Priest obtained from him the secret of its preparation, and succeeded with it, in curing all the members of his family who had been unsuccessfully attacked with Fever and Ague and Bilious Fevers—is now offered to the American people.

It will be sent by mail prepaid, with full directions for use, on receipt of one dollar.

HOSTETTER'S

STOMACH BITTERS.

IT is a fact that, at some period, every member of the human family is subject to disease or disturbance of the bodily functions; but, with the aid of a good tonic and the exercise of plain common sense, they may be able so to regulate the system as to secure permanent health. In order to accomplish this desired object, the true course to pursue is certainly that which will produce a natural state of things at the least hazard of vital strength and life. For this purpose, Dr. Hostetter has introduced to this country a preparation bearing his name, which is not a new medicine, but one that has been tried for years, giving satisfaction to all who have
