RYMOND'S PATENT SEWING MACHINE!
PATENTED MARCH 9, 1856.

PRICE $75 EACH.

MESSRS ZUPPINGER & BOHNS, of Bloomsburg, having purchased the exclusive right of the above valuable Improved Linear Pattern Sewing Machine, for the county of Columbia, will be happy to supply their friends with the article for the accommodation of those who desire to purchase. The following are some of the superior advantages this important possession ever yet offered to the public:

- It saves from one to three per minute, thus saving both time and labor in the operation.
- It is constructed of plain cast-iron, with nothing like for use; it is easy kept in order and will give entire satisfaction.
- One of the most valuable features of this Machine is the easiness and compactness of its mechanism.
- Double-thread Machines are always difficult to manage, and very unsteady in stitching, but this Machine easily threads than even a common needle.
- It can be attached to a hand, table or treadle, in operating order, and does not take less than half a minute.
- It greatly economizes the thread, and yet produces a fine, sufficiently strong for any work for which it is designed, a qualification not known to other sewing Machines.
- No human hand is capable of producing a seam so regular and symmetrical.
- Among the many Patent Sewing Machines, there are none so cheap and durable as RYMOND'S PATENT, but no Machine is adapted to all kinds of work as extensively as this.
- The operator can shape his work, just as he pleases, in curves, angles and flares, etc., can be represented or imitated.
- It is particularly adapted to all kinds of stitching—such as gentlemen's shirts, breeches, collars, neckties, etc.—and all kinds of Ladies' sewing, including silks, muslins, delaines, calicoes, &c., excepting for men's heavy work. It is also adapted for stitching on leather.
- But all the foregoing advantages, though rare in themselves, do not constitute the chief merit of this Machine, the preservation of health, being a saving of both labor and expense, and leaving the operator without stopping, and in a more perfect manner, than any other Sewing Machine.
- It is made by the undersigned, at their respective residences, in Bloomsburg, who will put the Machine in operation and give all necessary instruction.

A HYMN FOR THE NEW YEAR.
Quickly sped another year,
Its eternal day is cast,
Trifles fly wasted here,
Now no more the days appear,
But their worth is seen at last,
In the solemn, changeless past.

Can I count its mercies o'er?
Let me all my thoughts recall,
Gone from me for evermore,
Passed into the eternal store;
Count the autumn leaves that fall
On the earth, a funeral pall.

I will mourn not pleasures gone,
I will grieve occasions lost,
Time to serve the God I love,
Rites to save that never flow;
Grieve that mine my heart engrossed,
Grieve that doubts my spirit toss.

Brightly beams the dawning day,
Quickly speeds another year,
Truth shall glow with clearer ray,
Christ shall in my heart appear,
When my soul shall see His near,
Then shall he be signed New Year!

know, for a lady to make her beau wait as long as possible, on such an occasion. I sat over a heap of warm ashes in the widow Bean's parlor, listening to Patty stammering about in her stocking feet, in the chamber overhead, for one good hour. Then I stood up to the looking glass and frizzled up my hair, changed my breast pin to a new place, thought over some speeches to make under the buffalo skin, and finally laid a plot to lag in the awful question in a sort of slanting circular fashion.

At last Patty appeared in all her glory; I was just crooking my elbow to lead her out, when in came Mrs. Bean.

"Where are you going to, Patty?"

"Over to Shaw's, sleighing."

"What, and leave your cousin Dolly all alone, to suck her fingers? A pretty how'd ye do that, after coming all the way from Syc just to see you!"

Here was a knock down argument. All my plans of courting and comfort melted down and ran off in a moment. I saw directly that the widow was resolved to push big Dolly Fisher into my sleigh, whether or no; and there was no remedy, for the widow Bean is a stump that is neither to be got around or moved out of the way. I said something about the small size of the sleigh, but it would not do—she shut my mouth instantly.

"Let me alone," says she, "I went a sleighing afore you was born, youngster. If I don't know how to pack a sleigh, who does? Patty Bean stow yourself away, here, and shrink yourself up small. If there ain't room, we must make room, as the fellows used to say. Now, Dolly, hoist yourself in there."

She tumbled into the sleigh, like a shot from a shovel, or a cart load of pumpkins into a gondola. It was chuck full of her.

"O, she's a whopper, I tell ye."

"Why, Johnny Beedle," says Mrs. Bean, "in my days they use to pack us in, layer on layer."

At this hint I sneaked round to Patty, to begin the second layer on her lap. But the widow was wide awake. She clenched me by the collar, and putting upon Dolly's knees, "Here's the driver's seat," says she. "Plant your feet flat and firm, nice; jump up Johnny; and now, away with her my lad."

By this time I got so raving mad that I could hold in no longer. I fell afool of the old mare, and if I didn't give it to her about right, then there's none of me, that's all. The deacon counted the wells on her right side a week afterwards, when he called on me for a reckoning, which was made with chalk upon the upper flap of his every-day hat. Sukey not understanding such jokes, took the bit in her teeth and shot off, right on end, like a streak of new Connecticut lightning! Jimmie! how we skinned over it! And the houses and barns, and fences, and the pig-styes, flew by us like clouds by the moon. "Yonder is Hank's corner—whoorah!" and "whoorah!" answered all the ladies and gentlemen with one voice. Sukey, scared with the noise, turned the corner with a flit, and the sleigh was bottom up in—

"Whoorah, whoah?"

The first thing that I knew, I was in the bottom of a snow bank, jammed down under half a ton of Dolly Fisher! I tho't I never should see daylight again, and when they hauled me out, I left a print in the snow very much like a cocked up hat knocked into the middle of next week, as the sailors say.

Howsoever no bones were broken. We shook our feathers, and crept into our nest again, laughing as loud as the best of them. The sleighs were formed into a string, the fiddler following, and away we started on the road to Shaw's bells jingling, fiddle sounding, and everybody hallooing and screaming for joy.

Peter Shaw heard the racket two miles off, for he was always on the look out of a moonshiny night. He fell to kicking up a dust in the best room, to put it to rights, and when we arrived the floor was swept, the best Japan candlesticks paraded, and little Ben was anchored close under the jam, to tug at the broken winded bellows. No fire appeared but there were strange symptoms of it, for there was no lack of smoke, and part of it, missing the chimney, strayed about the room, which gave me a chance to hit off another compliment on Patty's beauty, as being the cause of drawing the smoke. As soon as we had taken a swig of hot stuff all around, we sat the fiddler down by the jamb, took the floor and went to work, might and main, the fiddler keeping time with the bellows, prolix, we kept it up, frolicking and drinking hot stuff, till midnight, and while it lasted, the fun was real genuine, I tell ye. But as I cast a sleep's eye at Patty, took a notion that she and Siah Golding were rather thick, considerin'. Thinks I, she wants to make me jealous, to spur me on; so seeing them in close confab, I poked my head between them and cried boo! But the cat was soon out of the bag. We paid the reckoning, four and sixpence a piece. Think of that. Everybody grumbled, but Peter Shaw didn't care. Then followed the crowding of sleighs, taking in the ladies at the door. Such a hubbub and confusion! But when my turn came, lo and behold! Patty Bean was missing, and so was Siah Golding! Here is the end of my story; and whoever wants to know the particulars that happened on the road home, must ask Dolly Fisher. The deacon will tell you what a pickle Sukey came home in, and "how much I paid for the whistle." Finally, whoever wants to our meeting house the next Sunday morning, knows very well how Patty Bean and Josiah Golding are to square accounts.

BEAUTIFUL AND USEFUL THOUGHT.
A little daughter, ten years old, lay on her death bed. It is hard to part with the pet of the family; the golden hair, the loving blue eyes, the bird like voice, the truthful, affectionate child! Between this child and her father there had always existed, not a relationship merely, but the love of congenial natures. He fell on his knees by his darling's bedside and wept bitter tears. He strove to say but could not, "Thy will be done!" It was a conflict between grace and nature, such as he never before experienced. His sobbing disturbed the child, who had been lying apparently unconscious. She opened her eyes and looked very much distressed.

"Papa, dear papa," she said at length.

"What, my darling?" answered her father, striving for composure.

"Papa," she asked, in faint, broken tones, "how much do I cost you every year?"

"Hush, dear, do be quiet," he replied, in great agitation, for he feared delirium was coming on.

"But please—papa—how much do I cost you?"

To soothe her, he replied, though with a shaking voice, "Well, dearest, perhaps two hundred dollars. What then darling?"

"Because, papa, I thought—may be—you would lay it out this year—in Bibles—for poor children—to remember me by."

A beam of heavenly joy glanced in the father's heart; the joy of one noble, loving spirit mingled with his like. Self was forgotten—the sorrow of parting, the lonely future. Naught remained but the mission of love, and a thrill of gratitude that in it he and his beloved were co-workers.

"I will, my precious child," he replied, kissing her brow with solemn tenderness.

"Yes," he added, after a pause, "I will do it every year, as long as I live, and thus my Lillian shall yet speak, and draw hundreds and thousands after her to heaven."

"MARANATHA"—THE LORD COMETH.
BY J. S. HANCOCK, AUTHOR OF "THE FAITHFUL PROMISE."

Christ is coming! let creation
Bid her groans and travail cease.
Let the glorious proclamation
Hope restore and faith increase—
Maranatha!

Come thou blessed Prince of peace,
Faith can now that tell the story
Of thy bitter cross and pain;
The shafts thy bloodstained glory
When thou comest back to reign—
Maranatha!

Let each heart repeat the strain,
Though once enrolled in a manger,
Oh no pillow but the sod;
Here an alien, and a stranger,
Mocked of men, disowned of God—
All creation
Yet shall know that kindly rod.

Long thy exile have been pining,
Far from rest, and home, and thee;
But in heavenly vestures shining,
Soon they shall thy glory see—
Maranatha!

Haste the joyous jubilee,
With that "blessed hope" before us,
Lark no help remains to us;
Let the mighty advent choose
Onward roll from tongue to tongue—
Maranatha!

Come, Lord Jesus, quickly come!

Cure for Diphtheria.
This scourge of the family continues to ravage many sections of our Commonwealth and counts its victims by hundreds. We subjoin an extract of a letter from a gentleman in Maryland, relative to the cure of this alarming disease. The remedy recommended was successful in his own family, and may bring relief to others. The simplest remedies are often the most effective.

Patrid Sore Throat or Diphtheria and its Cures.

The distinguishing mark of this malady from other diseases of the throat is the formation of a membrane, which increases gradually until the patient is strangled to death. To prevent the formation of this membrane is to arrest and cure the disease. In the early stages of the complaint, which is accompanied by a soreness and swelling of the throat, let the patient use a simple solution of salt and water, as hot as the patient can bear, as a gargle, every fifteen minutes, at the same time moisten a piece of flannel with a solution of the same kind made as warm as the patient can bear it (as before), and bind it around the throat, renewing it as often as the gargle is administered, and in the mean time sprinkle fine salt between the flannel and the neck; use inwardly some tonic or stimulant, either separately, or if prostration be great use both together. The treatment as may be seen, is extremely simple, and if used in the earlier stages of the disease, will effect a complete cure. I know this to be a certain cure, as my Mother and Sister-in-law both had it and cured themselves with this simple remedy. By inserting this in your paper you will oblige.

Cure for Diphtheria.

A lady of Port Byron, Cayuga county, N. Y., has cured six children (five of them her own) of diphtheria, by the following remedy. "When the symptoms are first discovered, take Spanish flies, pound and mix them with Venice turpentine, spread it on a piece of soft cloth and bind it on the throat, which will raise a blister, and soon remove the disease from the throat."
