☞ Count Cavour the Sardinian Statesman died on the 6th of this month, June, aged nearly fifty two years; having been born, July 14, 1809 in the City of Turin Except the Emperor Napoleon III, Count Cavour was the ablest Statesman of Europe, if not of the world. Victor Emanuel can never supply the place of his faithful minister.

☞ We have the report of the Secretary of the American Dramatic fund Association, incorporated April 10, 1848. We have looked through it with great interest. It is undoubtedly an Association greatly to be encouraged. Its present invested capital is $20 000 and it has able and honored names among its members; and is destined we doubt not, to smooth the path of those Actors, who, having started their brief hour upon the stage, have not been sufficiently fortunate to have secured an independence.

☞ We were, one day this week, over a considerable portion of three Townships of this County, and we are sure we have never seen the winter crops look as flourishing and promise so abundant a yield.—A visit up the creek some three or four weeks ago convinced us that there could be no good reason to complain of the indications of the turn out of the coming crop; and our information from those parts of the county over which we have not traveled, confirm our hopes. In the course of a few days the winter crops will be out of danger from evet or weevil, and their attention can be fully turned to the corn, oats, buckwheat, potatoes &c:

The apple crop will be light—although in some parts of the county the trees are full and scarce able to hold the fruit. In most however the fruit and stem fell together. The cherries are all gone—so also are the peaches. Berries of all kinds seem to be abundant, and we should advise those residing in their neighborhoods to gather freely of them. They will be ready sale to supply the place of other fruits which have failed.

—:o:—

☞ The New Orleans Picayune, furnishes the following account of Mrs Warfield, author of the Housekold of Bouverie:

"Mrs. Warfield is the daughter of the late Major Ware, of Natchez, formerly Secretary of the Mississippi Territory. Her grandfather was Capt. Percy, of the British Navy, and her husband, to whom she was married very young, is Elisha Warfield, of Lexington, Ky. Major Ware had but two children, both daughters, whose mother died in giving birth to the younger. They were early removed to Philadelphia, where the father, assisted by private teachers, devoted himself to their education. In 1843, Mrs. Lee, published a volume entitled, The Wife of Leon and other Poems, by Two Sisters of the West; and in 1846, another, under the title of The Indian Chamber, and other Poems. The only additional event I can give in the life of Mrs. Warfield, is the loss of her sister. One would judge, in reading Bouverie, that the author had borne children and lost them, and that every chord of her heart had been tried to its utmost tension.

Important Additions & Improvements.

Autumn Term to Commence August 12, 1861.

THIS institution which has been in successful operation for the past ten years, is about undergoing a very important enlargement in order to place it on a more extensive basis than ever, and present facilities which are not surpassed by ordinary Academies in Northern Pennsylvania. Among the improvements will be a large three-storied building which will give much additional room and greater convenience for boarders, a commodious hall for a future room and public exercises, containing cabinets of minerals and curiosities, bath rooms, &c. An experienced and thoroughly qualified classical teacher will be at the head of the Board of Instruction, but the Principal will have the general superintendence of the institution and assume a share of the duty of teaching. Regular lectures will be delivered upon various scientific subjects, as well as upon the theory and practice of teaching, and a Normal Class of young men and women who wish to qualify themselves for teachers' profession, will receive especial attention and assistance.

The course of instruction in the school will be thorough and systematic, calculated to embrace the various branches of a practical education. Ample provision will be made for the study of the higher mathematics, the elucidation of Physics, and the Natural Sciences, by means of suitable apparatus, and for the study of the Latin, Greek, and German languages, to enable students to qualify themselves for commercial and a scientic pursuit, or to enter any College or University.

The country location of this Seminary in a pleasant village, in a healthy and flourishing neighborhood, well known for the elevated tone of its moral sentiment, and where the pupils are not surrounded by those demoralizing influences, and temptations found in our cities, larger towns and many other localities, with no outside influences to divert their attention from its nature and the work it merits and demands, presents attractions and inducements to conscientious parents, employing students, seldom found surrounding large schools and academies.

The Literary Society also, one of the oldest and best conducted in this section of country, presents an attractive feature and useful auxilliary, to a practical education.

The improvements will be under the immediate charge of an efficient Board of Trustees, appointed by the Seminary Company, and will be completed in time for the Autumn Term, to commence the 12th of August next.

While thankful for past patronage we wish to merit a continuance of similar favors, as we intend to include a higher grade and wider range of instruction we respectfully solicit a careful examination into our facilities and claims.
