Prayer for the Union. BY H. CLAY PRECISE.

A land of law and Gospel prace, Of richest fruits and flowers -God's Eden of the Western World, What land so blest as ours ? How shall we prove our grateful thanks To Thee, O housteous Giver ! Whose own right hand bath made us one, By lake, and Guif, and river !

Lord ! write this law on every heart : " Our Union, now and ever?" For their bust taught as through the Bon. That these when then hast joined in one No human hand should sever ! The hero souls, whose prophet dreams Shine out in classic story, Find here, at last, the "promised land"---The shrine of Freedom's glory. Our hallowed flag of Stars and Stripes. What mem'ries brighten o'er it : The hope of millions yet unborn -E'en despots how hefore it ! Lord ! write this law on every heart. " Our Union, non and ever ! " For thou has baught us through thy Son. That those whom them hast joined in one No human hand should sever !

The Serpent crept in Eve's pure heart. And by his cunning won it : Woe, woe! unto our Eden-land--Tire Surpent's trail is on it! A million hands, by madness nerved. Would strike the control mother : A million son's cry out for blood -The blood e'n of a brother ; Oh. Gou ! to whom our fathers prayed. In bonds of swest communion, Stretch forth by strong Annighty Hand, To still this tempest in our land And says our blossed Union !

Among his acquaintances he numbered young lady and a young man, both of whom stammered very badly. They were not acquainted with each other. Bob F-----, the young man alluded to, was quite sensitive ; and to think that any one was making fun of his defects, frequently flew into a passion. It was Stephon's fortune to meet them both at a party, and be soon determined on a joke.

" Miss Sue," said he, approaching his lady friend, "may I have the pleasure of introducing one of my acquaintances, a worthy young gentleman ?"

" Cer-cer-certainly, sir !"

Away he started for Bob F -----

" Bob, old fellow, here is a nice girl I vant to introduce you to. Come on."

" Does she taw-taw-talk ?" asked Bob. " Yes-like blazes."

Stephen laughed immoderately all the while, and was subsequently called on to account for the trick ; but his good nature drove away all bad feelings.
