President's Message.

Fellow citizens of the Senate and House of Representatives:—

In the midst of unprecedented political troubles we have cause of great gratitude to God, for annual good health and most abundant harvests.

A nation which endures factions domestic division is exposed to disrespect abroad, and one party, if not both, is sure sooner or later to invite foreign intervention.

The disloyal citizens of the United States, who have offered the ruin of our country in return for the aid and comfort which they have invoked abroad...

If we could dare to believe that foreign nations are actuated by no higher principle than this, I am quite sure a sound argument could be made to show them that they can reach their aim more readily and easily by aiding to crush this rebellion...

The revenues from all sources, including loans for the financial year, ending on the 30th of June 1861, was $80,835,906 27...

It is gratifying to know that the expenditures made necessary by the rebellion are not beyond the resources of the loyal people, and to believe that the same patriotism which has thus far sustained the Government will continue to sustain it till peace and union shall again bless the land.

I respectfully refer to the report of the Secretary of War for information respecting the numerical strength of the army and for recommendations, having in view an increase of its efficiency and the well being of the various branches of the service entrusted to his care.

The recommendation of the Secretary for an organization of the militia upon a uniform basis, is a subject of vital importance to the future safety of the country, and is commended to the serious attention of Congress.

The large addition to the regular army, in connection with the defection that has so considerably diminished the number of its officers, gives peculiar importance to his recommendation for increasing the corps of Cadets to the greatest capacity of the Military Academy.

By mere omission, I presume, Congress has failed to provide Chaplains for hospitals occupied by volunteers.

I therefore recommend that they be compensated at the same rate as Chaplains in the Army, further suggesting that general provisions be made for Chaplains to serve at hospitals as well as with regiments.

Such have been the additions by construction and purchase, that it may almost be said a Navy has been created and brought into service since our difficulties commenced.

I would invite special attention to the recommendations of the Secretary for a more perfect organization of the Navy, by introducing additional grades in the service.

The present organization is defective and unsatisfactory, and the suggestions submitted by the Department will, it is believed, if adopted, obviate the difficulties alluded to, promote harmony and increase the efficiency of the Navy.

There are three vacancies on the bench of the Supreme Court; two by the decease of Justices Daniel and McLean, and one by the resignation of Justice Campbell.

I have so far forbore making nominations to fill these vacancies for reasons which I will now state: Two of the outgoing Justices resided within the States now overrun by revolt, so that if their successors were appointed in the same localities, they could not now serve upon their circuit, and many of the most competent men there probably would not take the personal hazard of accepting to serve, even here, upon the Supreme Bench.

I have been unwilling to throw all the appointments Northward, thus shunting myself from doing justice to the South on the return of peace, although I may remark that to transfer to the North one which has heretofore been in the South would not, with reference to territory and population, be unjust.

During the long and brilliant judicial career of Judge McLean, his circuit grew into an empire altogether too large for any one Judge to give the Courts therein more than a nominal attendance, rising in population from 1,470,018 in 1830, to 3,151,405 in 1860.
