They are coming home, coming home Bro her and lover, father and son, Friend and fee-they are coming home To rest, for their work is done They come from hospital, picket and field, From iron boat and fromwing fort, In silent companies, slowly wheeled in the rythm of a solemn thought.

This was a father of women and men. Grev-haired, but hale, and strong of limb The bayonet flashed, and flashed again. And the old man's eyes grew dim Here was a form of manly grace :

The bomb shell groaning through the air. Drenched with his blood a pictured face. And a curl of silken bair.

This was a bright eyed, venturesome boy Back from the parilous picket-ground They here him, waked from his dream of joy To a gastly, fatal wound.

And thus for three days lingering, He talked in wandering, rapid speech, Of mother, and home, and the cooling spring, His lips could almost reach.

They are coming house but not as they went With the flying flag and stiering band, With the tender word, and message sent From the distant waving hand,

Up the steps and into the door. With hidden face our loved ones come We may cry their name out o'er and o'er, But their pullid lips are dumb.

O friends untimely snatched from hence. May we find, beyond heaven's lowering dome, Some bligsfal future recompense For this sorrowful coming home?
