HOGS IN THE APPLE ORCHARD.

Nobody sends such apples to market as my neighbor John Jacobs. He always has apples to sell and gets the highest price. Folks prefer fair, large apples; and such are always packed in Jacobs' barrels. You might reach them with a candle and not find a knotty fruit or a worm hole. Such Rhode Island Greenings or Roxbury Russets I have never met with in the old States. They are handsome as any thing in the virgin soils of the west.

I was going by Jacobs' orchards last summer, and I had the curiosity to call and examine for myself. Says I, "Neighbor, what is there in your soil that makes such smooth, large apples? They are a third bigger than any thing that I can get, and my trees look as well as yours."

"The secret is not in the soil," John replied, with a twinkle in his eye, "but on it. Do you see those grunners there? My pork brings me fifty cents a pound, eight in flesh, and the balance in fruit. I began to pasture my orchard ten years ago with hogs, and since that time I have had no trouble with wormy fruit. Apples, as a general thing, don't fall from the tree unless something is the matter with them. The apple worm and curculio lay their eggs in the fruit, and the apples drop early. The pigs devour the apples, and by September every unsound apple is gone, and I have nothing but fair fruit left. The crop of insects for the next year is destroyed by the apples help the pigs and the pigs help the apples."

I saw John's secret at once, and have profited by it. I never had so few insects as this spring, and I give the pigs credit for it. In turning the orchard into a pasture put in pigs—not land-pigs with snouts like levers. You might lose trees as well as insects in that case. But well bred animals, with judicious snouts, which root in a subacid and christian-like manner.—Cor. of American Agriculturist.

LAMPAS IN HORSES. This is an imaginary disease, but one commonly believed in by groomers, and we are sorry to add by many well informed persons. If a young horse refuses to eat, it is usually imputed to the lampas, which is said to be swelling of the roof mouth back of the upper front teeth, to such a degree that the animal cannot chew its food. The awful remedy is presented, of burning the part with a red-hot iron! and in many instances the cruel suggestion is put in force with inhuman indifference and haste.—This terrible torture is often inflicted without the slightest reference to the condition of the horse in other respects—what work he has been doing—or what exposure he has experienced.—No effort is made to learn whether he has taken cold, and is feverish, has eaten or drank heartily immediately after a lively drive, or whether there are symptoms of colic, or some injury has taken place to the mouth or jaws. No. It is the lampas, and the red-hot iron must be applied—nothing else will do.

Truly, the lot of the horse is a hard one, and if we can do anything to alleviate it, to arouse men to a more merciful consideration of the noble animal, we shall certainly feel happier every time we see one.—N. E. Farmer.

LINIMENT FOR SWELLING ON ANIMALS. A. Willard, Jr., in the 'Country Gentleman,' says: I notice that an animal of E. M. Goffin, of Iowa, had a hard callos swelling, which he says came midway between the eye and nostril. I purchased a three year old colt two years ago, which had a swelling, on the same place as described above, which was an objection among the horse buyers who prized her $25 less, and feared to buy at all. I ventured to purchase, and apply what I thought might scatter it. The owner said it came on about a month before I bought her, but did not know the cause of it. I applied the following liniment; and in less than three months the swelling disappeared wholly. I consider it the best liniment, extant for swellings on man or beast.—Apply once a day and rub it briskly;—half an ounce spirits of hartshorn; one gill spirits of turpentine; half pint sweet oil; one pint alcohol; two ounces gum camphor. (Dissolve the camphor in the alcohol.)

What a poor world this would be without women and newspapers! How would the news get about?

The reason why two buttons are put on behind a coat is that they were anciently used to support the sword belt, and the tailors have stuck to the practice ever since.
