

THE PEACH CURL.

Mr. J. Kirkpatrick, in a late number of the Ohio farmer communicates the following views on this subject:

Last year a species of aphis occurred a considerable numbers on peach trees fiected with the curl, and the diseased aves persecuted many small discolored pots on the midrid evidently resulting rom the punctures of this insect. This in considerable numbers on peach trees affected with the carl, and the diseased leaves persecuted many small discolored spots on the midrid evidently resulting from the punctures of this insect. This year the ourl did not occur until several leaves were diveloped, and the wood had grown four or five inches in length .- IVere These older leaves were left unhurt, but the young ones just growing were much curled and will soon fall. The cause this year appeared to be the sudden celd immediately succeeding the warm weather of May, chilling the sap and producing a discased state of the vegetable tissues. The cuil has been known for a long time in England, and is discribed under different names. When the leaves are said to be "blistered," the cause is supposed to be cold weather after warm ; but Abereromble, in 1791, discovered a species of curl which he supposed was caused by an aphis. We know that insects often cause nnalagovs diseases of the leaves of various plants, and it is probable that peach aphis may produce a cortain kind of curl in the leaf of this tree, and also that sudden changes of temperature will produce a Come then one and all, judge for your-dlosely resembling tha other. Should it selves. Bring your trade, but don't ask be shown at some future period that we for trust. have more than one kind of curl, the effeels of different causes, it will go far to explain why there has been so much diversile of opinion on the subject.

The aphis has not appeared this year ; at least I have not observed any of them.

TO SWEETIN RANCID BUTTER.

An Agriculturiat, near Brussels, having succeeding in removing the bad smell and disagreeable trate of some butter, by beating or mixing it with chloride of lime, he was encouraged by this happy result to continue his experiments, by trying thum upon butter so raneid as to be past use; and he has restored to butter, the odor and taste of which was insupportable, all the sweetness of fresh butter. The operation is extremely simple and practicable for all. It consists in beating the butter in a sufficient quantity of water, into which had been mixed 25 or 30 drops of chloride of lime to two pounds of butter. After having brought all its parts in contact with the water, it may be left for an hour or two afterwards withdrawn and washed anew in tresh water. The chloride of lime used, having nothing injurious in it, can safely be increased but after verifying the experiment it was found that 25 or 30 drops to two and a half pounds of butter, was sufficient.

HOEING CABBAGES.

We were recently in a garden of a friend, who is an early riser. On alluding to the vigorous growth and healthy oppearance of his cabbager and coliflowers he remarked :

If you want good cabbager, you must hoe them every morning before five o'clock. This was intended as a gentle hint that he thought we did not get up in the morning as earley as a good gardeuer should .----But be this as it may, there can be no ; doubt that cabbagos and all similar plants are greatly benefited by repeated heeings.
