

Spirited and successful religious revivals are progressing in the Methodist and Baptist Churches of this place.

The boys are busy in providing themselves with skates. Old Hymns has aroused them with a promise of ice.

Next Friday is Christmas. The old custom of greeting, upon the approach of this festival day, by clubs of ladies dressed in old costumes, uttering quaint recitations, which formerly prevailed, seems to have gone the way of most old-time customs, and has given way to a more popular style of amusement during the festive season.

We frequently receive notices of marriages and deaths, by mail, unaccompanied by a responsible name. Such we invariably reject.

A. B. ERASMUS' establishment is an excellent place to buy fresh Groceries, and he sells with so cheap, that we don't wonder everybody patronizes him.

W. WIRT & Company, who are attending to the cases of drafted men in this county, are having a big rush.

The Pre-Join has something to say this week about the loss of our "Gold Specks". If the fellow has them to sell he will be honest enough to hand them over.

Persons who were heretofore drafted and put in substitutes, paid commutation or were exempted by reason of physical disability, need not give themselves any concern about the coming draft—their name being out of the wheel.

Mr. L. T. SHARPLESS, having disposed of the major part of his immense stock of Fall and Winter Goods, is now in the east laying in another supply of the same sort for the benefit of his numerous customers.

Maj. SAMUEL KNORR, who lately located in Bloomsburg, as an Attorney at Law, has taken down his shingle, and gone to Washington.

In all cases where exemption from draft is asked, on the ground that "two or more sons are liable to military duty," the choice must be made before December 30th, and not postponed until the draft has been made.

Last week Col. JOHN G. FRAZER, was duly installed into the Register and Recorder's office, to which the people elected him.

We had the pleasure on Monday of taking by the hand Lieut. CHARLES B. BROCKWAY, of Ricketts's Battery, First Penna. Artillery, who had been on a few days' visit to his friends in this county.

The career of such a man as JACOB EYERLY is worthy of the contemplation of every man. His long official life has closed. His books and records have passed into other hands.

Is not that a proud legacy to leave to his children—to the world! In these degenerate days, when peculation and robbery are the rule, how bright is such an exception.

The late cold snap is but a reminder of what we may shortly expect. We can see in the advance guard all the pleasures of a happy and dreary winter—happy to those who, with the attaches of a wealthy life, can revel in the enjoyments connected therewith—drearly to those who with aching joints, eke out at any season a horribly wretched existence.

Christmas comes but once a year, and when it comes it brings good cheer, to suggest to our readers that the good old custom of exchanging Christmas presents has not been, and we trust never will be abandoned, and that now is the time to be making preparations for the gift-giving season.

In a conversation with one of our "fighting war egiys" a few evenings ago, we were somewhat astonished and amazed by hearing him say, that "he prayed for peace."

They engendered the feelings of the honest, originated a spirit of hatred between the two sections of country, by preaching liberation to the black man, and exhorting on the cruelty of his master. Thus has the rebellion been assisted by the Clergy.

Yet not satisfied by this mammoth work of carnage and destruction, the field of labor for many of them, has been turned to another channel. They preach for the prolongation of the war, unless slavery, (there black deity,) be forever abolished.

Advocate the cause of the abolition-indebted party—hold forth in the League and vigils, wane of same party—renounce and stigmatize law-abiding and "union-saving Democrats," as Traitors, copperheads and Southern sympathizers, until the Churches where once Christ and His Crucified had been preached, is now devoted, and many good members, heretofore faithful attenders, seek religious consolation and joy, at their own firesides and private closets.

For more than a quarter of a century, during the lifetime of one generation of men, day after day, the same desk saw Mr. EYERLY seated before it. For more than thirty years, the papers of the Courts of Columbia County have passed through his moulding hands.

He had witnessed the forensic battles of a race of old lawyers, whose fame is now the proud heritage of the Bar; whose integrity and courtesy they may imitate, but cannot excel; and of whose ability and legal knowledge, the judicial system of Pennsylvania is the witness.
