Direct Taxes.

One or two things remain to be said about the question of Direct Taxes, to which we adverted last week.

One tax was to have been levied under the said law, previously to April 1, 1865; and that tax was paid by Pennsylvania to the General Government, by making appropriation for arming and equipping the soldiers sent to the army at the beginning of the war; thereby increasing our State debt to the amount of several millions, and to pay the interest on which, we are now paying a special State tax.

Perhaps Pee John, writing for his friends in the back townships, will deny that also; but the pocket of the tax payer will at once set his judgment straight on that point.

In this way, by playing hand and glove, Andy Curtin managed to conceal the fact of the levying and paying of a Direct Tax off of the people of Pennsylvania, until the actual knowledge of the fact, would neither endanger his nor Lincoln's re election Now, concealment being no longer necessary to hold the gudgeons whom they have so long deceived, the facts are admitted by all except such intensely ignorant fellows, as fugle the Republican.

We shall have more to say on this subject hereafter. For the present let what has been written suffice.

Orangeville Male and Female Academy.

The greatest outrage committed by any portion of people upon any other, was enacted by the manner of conducting and holding the election for Trustees of the Orangeville Male and Female Academy on the 31st December, A. D. 1864. We would not have referred to it at all through the newspaper; as the whole subject will undergo a judicial investigation; had not the lying Republican endeavored to make a point about the matter.

"The other party," of whom the Republican speaks as having been "wofully beaten," were not and are not beaten, and the unjustifiable course adopted by the party who controlled the election will have such a ventilation as will do them good for the balance of their natural lives. The people, who have an interest in the proper conduct of all our schools, and in the funds for carrying the same on, will see that justice is done, as soon as they get the matter in their hands.

Meeting of the Legislature.

Both Houses met and organized on the 3d inst. The House elected A. G. Olmstead of Potter county, Speaker, A. W. Benedict, Clerk, W. H. Denniston, Assistant Clerk, Alexander Adaire, Postmaster, Charles E. Idell, Sergeant-at-arms, James T. McJunkin, Door Keeper. The democrats voted for nominees of their own who might have been elected if they had received enough votes.

Wm. J. Turrel of Montrose, Susquehanna county, is Speaker of the Senate.

The vote stood on the first ballot 38 Democrats to 55 Republicans.

Harrisburg is crowded, all the Hotels being full. The markets are steep and on the rise. Board $12 00 per week.

Our Quota 60,000!

The announcement of the administration that the quota of Pennsylvania is sixty thousand on the coming draft, has alarmed even Lincoln's friends. Those who voted for him under the false assertion that his election would end the war and give peace without further drafts, have a beautiful prospect before them. All this might have been otherwise if McClellan had been elected. The South would have returned to the Union under his administration, but under Lincoln they never will, as long as they have power to resist.

☞ Rev. A. R. Rutan, of Luzerne co., who was "Kidnapped for opinions sake," and underwent a farsical trial before the Military Commission at Harrisburg, has been sentenced to pay two hundred dollars fine and undergo six months imprisonment in Fort Mifflin.

☞ Wm. H. Kember, abolitionist, was on Thursday last, elected State Treasurer of Pennsylvania, by the Joint Convention of the Legislature.

☞ Hon. James Guthrie, a noble Union Democrat, has been elected by the Kentucky Legislature, to the United States Senate.

☞ Senator Montgomery, and Representative Jacoby, have our thanks for documents.

☞ O. N. Worden has retired from the Lewisburg Chronicle. J. R. Cornelius will hereafter run the timut machine.

The Philistines are upon us.

Geo. M. Richart, of the "Pittston Gazette," some weeks since, copied an article, into his paper, headed "William Burgess," and credited it to the "Bloomsburg Democrat." Following up the extract, Mr. Richart gave Mr. Burgess a good name, and pronounced him a "patriot," alledging that he had "shouldered his musket and was doing God's service in the Army." We tell you this is a slander upon Mr. B. He did no such thing. Like most other "loyal leaguers," Mr. B., evaded duty when called to fill up the Army, and thereby defrauded the Government of his services. Just as did Geo. M. Richart, Palemon John, and Ira Avery. This is the religion of these loyal scamps.

Mr. Burgess, it is reported, is in the Army. This is only true in part. Finding it an up-hill business to any longer run the "Tunkhannock Smut Machine," he went to Washington,—not to "shoulder his musket"—not to fight in the ranks,—but to enjoy the emoluments of a safe and lucrative office (out-of-harm's-way) and joined the army of the loyal thieves and robbers. Mr. Richart, in the next place, administers to us a little loyal advice. He thinks we have never abused the rebels, or supported the Government, and advises us to "go down South and kick for a job with Jeff. Davis" Now, if we have not abused the rebels, as this loyal lincolnpoop thinks we should, we have stirred up their allies in the North—the abolition loyal-leaguers—who are equally traitors to the Country and enemies to the Union.

We did more. We shouldered our musket, in the hour of our country's peril, with our two Sons, two Sons-in-Law, and twelve nephews then in the field, and marched down South in defense of our country to the bloody-fields of South Mountain and Antietam. Where then were the valorous Richarts, Burgesses', Averys Johns, &c., with all their vaunted loyalty and patriotism? Sneaking at home, denouncing patriotic democrats as "traitors and copperheads!"

Fool-like, Mr. Richart, intimates that our teachings caused the difficulties in Fishingcreek. Does he know, poor simpleton, that the abolition conspiracy against those inoffensive men up Fishingcreek, has proven a failure and been pronounced a a farce. And we are proud to-day to say, that with all the searching, swearing and falsifying of the "loyal kid-nappers," that they were unable to implicate our fidelity to good order, or even suspect our patriotism, or that of any other Democrat in Bloomsburg. Yes, we stand defiantly upon the Record, and boldly appeal to its truth, for our vindication from the tongue of calumny.

But a word more, to this "verdant loyal leaguer," and his click of abolition liars. We notice, Mr. Richart, that in your article, as applicable to us, you have interspersed the term "cowardice." We hurl it back, with re-doubled force in your teeth, as unworthy the emanation of either a gentleman or a patriot. And, we warn you in advance, that if you repeat the insinuation, and escape the wringing of a goose's-neck, you may feel the weight of a gentleman's boot in close proximity to your posterion organization.

To you and all such pimps and critters, we would say, once for all, stand from under. Be careful how you play with edged tools. Our advice is:—

That when the Lions rage,
And the band begins to play,
You "boys" around the "monkey cage,"
Had better keep away!

☞ The Atlantic Monthly for January comes out in new type. It is a return to the letter of fifty years ago, and looks quaint and in some respects pleasing.—The paper is good, though not quite so good as formerly. The number is exceedingly readable; and the writers are Bryant, Longfellow, Hawthorne, Bayard Taylor, and Holmes. Mrs. Stowe begins her papers, entitled "The Chimney Corner,"

We have repeatedly said that The Atlantic does not view political questions from our stand point; but as a literary magazine it is very able It is $4 00 a year, published by Ticknor & Fields, Boston.

Appointments by the Commissioners.

The Auditors and Commissioners met last week, and made the Annual Settlement. It will be published as soon as approved by the Court in February. The Commissioners then made the following judicious appointments for the ensuing year, viz:—

Att'y to Commissioner,—W. Wirt, Esq.
Commissioner's Clerk,—R. C. Fruit, Esq.
Mercantile Ap'r—Capt. C. B. Brockway.

☞ It is a most extraordinary thing that the fellow who runs the smut machine cannot tell the truth. In the wager he referred to last week, the Stockholder, who according to the Republican, is an honorable, high-minded man, says that the bet was, that there was "no such thing as a Direct Land Tax," and the abolitionist based his opinion upon Pee John's assertion whereby he lost his money, to his great disgust and chagrin.

We give another article on the "Direct Land Tax" this week, to which we call attention.

☞ Judge A. S. Wilson, of Lewistown, died at his residence in that place on Monday a week, aged 64.

Failure of the War in 1864.

General Banks moved since the commencement of last year to the Rio Grand. He occupied Brownsville; and we were told that the rebellion had been strangled in Texes! What are the facts now? He has withdrawn nearly all his troops from the State; and the whole line of the Rio Grande is again open for the transportation, to neutral ports, of Confederate cotton. In this one of its great movements the war, during the past year, has proved a failure.

A Federal expedition moved up Red River. A fleet of gunboats led the van. A flotilla of transports followed with regiments, brigades, divisions; and co-operating armies moved overland under a system of crushing concentration. Louisiana was, we were assured, about to be "cleaned out," Texas to be overrun, Arkansas bought into subjugation! And what came of all these high promises? The invasion, army and navy, was hurled back in disaster; some of the vessels captured or destroyed; large masses of the troops killed, wounded or taken prisoners; and the whole followed up in hot pursuit until the remnants succeded in reaching the Mississippi. In this great movement of the past year the war has proved a failure.

Sherman, at the beginning of the past year, gathered an army at Vicksburg.—Having moved to the eastward, he reached Jackson. He pressed the Confederates back until he reached the Mobile and Ohio Railroad at Meridan. A co-operating expedition of cavelry, designed to feed his army from the rich prairies of Eastern Mississippi and Central Alabama, having been driven back, the Federal chief retraced his steps. Harrassed on the way by Stephen Lee's horse, he returned to Vicksburg and, after a march of upward of two hundred and fifty miles, presented the country with another instance in which the war has proved, in 1864, a failure.

Sherman commenced his advance into Northern Georgia during the year just closed. Fighting and manœuvering, he pressed on from Ringgold to Dalton, from Dalton to Kingston, from Kingston to Marietta; and finally, at a sacrifice of probably fifty thousand men, planted the Federal flag within the defences of Atlanta.—Whether or not he may have learned from the movement of the Confederates that his operations from Atlanta had become impracticable, need not be considered here; but the actual fact is beyond question that, having reached that city, he has declared its posession, of all the places, for which he had fought on the way to it, of no avail. Even brilliant successdoes, thus, not redeem the operations of Gen. Sherman, in Northern Georgia, from the conclusion which declares all the great movements of the war in 1864, practically failures.

Hunter moved last Spring against Lynchburg. His advance was designed as a cooperative movement for the reduction of Richmond, and was heralded as one of the finishing touches of the work of subjugation. And what were the features of that expedition? Early hurled upon its rear, it could not retrace its steps; but, seeking safety in flight, retreated, hungry, exhausted, and demoralized, to the Kanawha? Here again, one of the great movements of the campaign of 1864 proved, in keeping with all the others, a miserable failure.

Sheridan succeeded Hunter in the design on Lynchburg. Successful in driving back the Confederate advance, he moved up the Valley of the Shenandoah. Early threatening his flank from the Blue Ridge, the Federal chief did not dare to proceed beyond Stanton. The Southern general, having after a time assumed the offensive, Sheridan fell back: and, notwithstanding that he saved his army at Cedar Creek, has not again advanced beyond Winchester.—As a movement upon Lynchburg, the successes of Sheridan's campaign in the Valley have not saved it from the fate which has declared it in common with all the other great movements of the campaign of '64, to have proved a failure.

Grant commenced, during the past year, his operations against Richmond. High hopes and confidant assurances declared his advance to have sealed the fate of the "rebellion." Paper victories brought him, after a bloody slaughter, to a point which he might have reached by water without the loss of a man. The chicanery and falsehood touching his operations, from that day to this, meet now their correct interpretation, in the fact that General Grant still tugs and strives against Richmond in vain. Be the "key" of that city in whose pocket it may, there can be no doubt that at the close of the year 1864, the Federal onslaught on the "rebel" capital remains, like every other great movement of the campaign, a failure.

The Butler-Porter expedition against Fort Fisher! In charity we would pass over that miricle of loud mouthed promise; but we must include it in the judgement which pronounces every great undertaking of the campaign of last year a failure.

The attack on Charleston was one of the grounds of the false hopes of the 1st of January, 1864. Fort Sumpter has been battered down; but still its ruins remain unconquered. A bombardment in conflict with all the restraints of humanity and law, rained destruction on Charleston; but still that city remains covered by unapproachable defences. This year has witnessed all the false hopes of which Charleston was made the subject twelve months ago, settle down into the conclusion that the attack on that city is a failure.

Florida was to have been subjugated in 1864! A State was to have been restored by the logic of artillery into "the Union!" Federal troops congregated on the St. Johns; and, massed into an army, moved into the interior. Hurled back to Olustee, they retreated, shattered and bleeding, to their ships; and added thus another instance of the general truth, that every large operation of the campaign of last year has resulted in failure.

Ships and troops gathered like stormclouds around the harbor of Mobile. That city was, we were assured, about to be captured; and a co-operating force, moving for that base, we were told, would immediately afterward go up the Alabama to repeat the apparently harmless process of "cutting the rebellion in two!" What are the facts to-day? Mobile is still a "hotbed" of secession! The Federal army and the Federal fleet have seen proper to give its torpedoes and its artillery and its rifles a "wide berth," and even that gallant old sailor, Farragut, while able to look upon its church-spires in the distance, was unable to break the spell which appears to have decreed that each expedition of the war in 1864 should turn out a miscarriage.

But what shall we say of Sherman's raid across Georgia? Beginning at his confession of the practical failure of even the splendid successes which brought him to Atlanta, in the vain hope of strangling the rebellion, the movement of that officer to the seaboard was, such as it is, a success. The measure of that success is simply the occupation of the previously sealed City of Savannah; and of about twenty miles of the lower part of the Ogeechee-Savannah peninsula; but, while this is literlly the sum total of its results, that march is the only instance in which any one of the great movements of the campaign of last year has not proved an utter failure.

Correct the Enrollment.—There was considerable complaint under the last draft, on account of the alleged unjust quotas assessed upon some of the townships. One way to avoid this at the next draft, is to have the enrollment corrected immediately, by having all the names sticken off that do not properly belong there. All who will be over 45 on the 15th of February, who have removed from the township, who are disabled by apparent permanent physical disability, who have served two years in this war, who will not be 20 years of age on the 15th of February, all these can be stricken off, if the necessary application be at once made to the Provost of this District. We may, also, say that it is the interest of every rightly enrolled man, to report the names of all of proper age, &c., who are not enrolled, for the more of these there are on the list, the greater the chance of escape, when the drawing takes place.

☞ The Methodist.—This large double-sheet Methodist Journal. is published weekly in New York, at $2 50 per year, in advance. George R. Crooks, D. D., Editor. It is an excellent religious newspaper, conducted with discretion and Christian propriety, an advocate of Lay Representation, and is sustained by a large corps of experienced writers and able Editors.

Every christian family should receive a copy of "The Methodist." Especially should it be patronized by the Society whose religious sentiments it represents.—Specimen copies can be seen at this office.

Which Shall we Follow.—The Republican press say it is treason to advocate the cause of peace. Even professed ministers of the Gospel continue to preach war to the knife and the knife to the hilt, and yet Christ on the Mount tells us that, "Blessed are the peace-makers; for they shall be called the children of God." We are told again in Romans 15: "How beautiful are the feet of them that preach the gospel of Peace." We ask the reader which is it safest to follow the teachings of the Abolition press and the war preachers, or the teachings of the written will of the Son of God.

☞ James McHenry one of the so called monsters who frightened Mr. Lincoln or somebody else out of his wits has been liberated after a confinement of 103 days in Fort Mifflin. We wish that Mr. Lincoln and the other parties at whose instance Mr. McHenry was arrested and incarcerated in a loathsome dungeon were as guiltless of a violation of law or the Constitution as the accused.—Scranton Register.

Health.—"Health is an excellent thing, especially when you are sick," as Mrs. Partington says. And when you are sick, it is important to have restorative agents, pure and reliable, such as you get at Moyer & Eyer's Drug Store, where prescriptions are always put up with the utmost care, and where fresh and genuine medicines are dispensed.

A Committee of Kentuckians, who recently waited on the President for the purpose, got his promise that the draft should be stopped in that State which has been done. It was found that the draft was putting more men from Kentucky in the rebel army, than in that of the Federal.

CORRESPONDENCE.

To the Editor of the Democrat:

Sir:—I often hear complaints in this, that abolition publications are more abundantly circulated among the people, than those of a more conservative and democratic tendency. It is true: and the reason is obvious enough.

Not only do they advertise more extensively in their own party publications, but they are constantly seducing democratic papers into giving, among our own people favorable notices of periodicals, whose doctrines and tendencies we believe to be pernicious in the highest degree. And while that is being done, the people do not find any antidote to that poison. No where is found a notice or recommendation of a democratic publication—no where is attention called by our papers to the monthlies of our own party organization; and our people are left to the mercy of abolitionism in its only seductive form, the literary one. Look at all our democratic weekleys, which circulate among the rank and file of our party, and you will see the extent of the evil to which I refer.

We do not find advertisements and notices and recommendations of "The American Monthly" a democratic magazine published at No. 37 Park Row, New York; nor of "The Old Guard," also of the true faith, published at 162 Nassau street, New York. These are left to find their way as best they can; while others fill column after column of our party papers. Depend upon it Mr. Editor, these things ought not so to be. ☞.

Return of Prisoners.

Lieut Myron Fellows, of New Columbus, has just returned on parol, from Charlestown, South Carolina, after being a prisoner of war seventeen months and ten days. His health is in bad condition, and his eye sight very much impaired.

John R. Koons also arrived at Annapolis on the 15th ult. Mr. Koons left New Columbus in 1861, enlisted with Colonel Harvey's Company, was a prisoner of war in 1862, was wounded slightly, was afterward exchanged, and then returned to his company, where he remained until the 5th of May last, when he was again taken prisoner at the battle of the Wilderness, a few days before the expiration of his term of enlistment, and sent south with nearly the whole of the 7th Regt. of the P. R. V. C., he is now paroled and is expected to see his home for the first time since he left in June 1861.

National Police Gazette,

THE GREAT

CRIMINAL PAPER OF THE AGE

The Proprietors would call the attention of the public to the fact that this paper is now in the twentieth year of its publication, and that it is the only paper published in the United States containing accurate Reports of all Criminal matters of importance occurring in the world. Having a large Corps of Reporters and correspondents extending over the country, gives them unusual facilities for obtaining correct information on subjects connected with their speciality. Each number is embellished with engravings of startling events occurring in this great metropolis and other Cities of the Union It also contains from time to time, exact likenesses of thieves and other criminals, which enables citizens to guard themselves against depredations.

To citizens and officers it is a invaluable as it contains every week an account of the doings of the thieves, their whereabouts and their plans and devices to entrap and despoil the unwary.

THE NATIONAL POLICE GAZETTE

Is published in the interest of good government and correct morals, and its extensive circulation in all parts of the country is an evidence of its appreciation by the public. It can be purchased at all news depots, and persons wishing to subscribe can do so by addressing
