

Boys and Farms.

The time was when boys were considered of but trifling account upon the farm. They answered to run of errands and to do the light "chores" about the house and barn. To keep them out of michief, when not attending school, they possibly did some service astride the horse to mark out the corn ground, and cultivate the corn and potatoes. But if ambitious to join the men in the field or elsewhere the they equipped with the most worthloss cast aside tools, such as rusty hoes, dull worn out soythes,old fashioned forks,used up shovels, dull axes, battered hammers. Remedy, recommeded by some of the most unfiled saws, and so on through the whole catalougue of farm implements. They grow weary using them and so would men have done accomplishing only the same smount of labor. It would not be strange I such treatment first planted disatisfaction in the heart or many farmer's boy, which finally ripened into utter disgust, Scrofnious Sores, Rese or Erysipelas, Scaled Head the seeking of employment behind the in something less honorable, which in the end resulted in iniquity or ruin

But now, boys upon farms are equal to be men of those days. By the aid of the new class of implements they are equivalent to several men with the best of the old implements. Boys have indeed wonderfully increased in importance in these last few years, and nothing is too good for the brave, willing, ambitious little fellows, And they most richly deserve their newly gained importance. Two and one half millions of men taken from the industrial pursuits of life for the purpose of warmore than one half these direct from the farming population, and an increased number of acres in cultivation, and an increased yield in agricultural productions save where the vicissitudes of seasons or the ravages of insects have interfered .-How could this have been accomplished without the aid of the noble boys who have remained at home? Their work has been scarcely less creditable or important than that of older "boys in blue," who have labored in those other fields where the harvest has been the harvest of death.

We have faith in the farm boys of this day and generation. The nation owes them its sincere gratitude. They are deserving of all the benefits that shall result rations for the Blood, having the taxative properties from the Industral schools that are about combined, As it contains being established. Their early life is a Wild Cherry, Mandrake and Dandelionpreparatory school that will teach them to appreciate the benefits and blessings that the agricultural colleges are intended to dispense, Honor, encourage, and care for the boys of the farm.

Some Rules for Pruning.

Wherever any part of a tree does not grow freely, praing of such weak growth will generally induce it to push more freely next year. All scars made by the pruning of large branches should be painted or tarred over, to keep out rain. Many fruit trees become hollow or fall into premature decay from the rain penetrating through old saw cuts made in pruning .-Also, the branches should be out close to the trunk, so that no dead stumps shall be produced on the tree, and the bark will readily grow over. Many persons cut off branches of trees in mid-summer,in order that the returning sap may speedily clothe any wound with bark, but the loss of much foliage in summer injures the tree, and besides, painting the scar removes all danger of rotting at the wound.

Some judgement is required in pruning flowering shrubs, roses, etc., although i is usual to act as if it were one of the most common place operations. One of the most clumsy of the hands is commonly sent with the sheers, and he goes through the whole place clipping off everything indiscriminately. Distinction should be made between those flowering shrubs that make a vigorous growth, and those which grow weakly; and between those which flower on the old wood of last year Dr. E. W. Wells', and those which flower on the new growth of the next season, as the effect of pruning force a strong and vigorous growth .-Those specimens that already grow too strong to flower well, should only be lightly pruned; and in the same manner, the weakest shoots should be cut in more severely than the stronger ones. Some things, flower on the wood of last yearto prune these much now, therefore, destroys the flowering; while such as altheas, which flower on the young wood, cannot be too severely cut in, looking to that operation alone.

An Experiment with Potatoes Isaac Hicks, Long Island, writes as follows: "A neighbor last spring cut all the eyes but the strongest one, and planted the potatoes in a row, giving them the same chance as others planted in the usual way. When dug, these potatoes, Peach Blows, yield a weight double the quantity of the same variety growing adjoining them. They were also of larger size. His theory is that one good shoot, taking its support from a large potate when it begins to grow, will produce much more than when the substance, on food, is divided among panied by a Stamp. several shoots, or even one shoot with but a small piece of potato to commence its growth with. As this was the fact, will it not be a good plan for others to try the

IRON IN THE BLOOD.

It is well known to the medical profession that IRON is the Vital Principle or Life Element of the blood.—
This is derived chiefly from the food we eat; but if the food is not properly digested, or if from any enise whatever, the necessary quantity of from is not taken into the circulation, or becomes reduced, the whole system suffers. The had along will irritate the heart, will elong up the lungs, will obstruct the liver and will sand its discass-producing elements to all parts of the system, and every one will suffer in whatever organ may be predisposed to discase.

The great value of

1RON AS A MEDICINE

is well known and acknowledged by all medical men. The difficulty has been to obtain such a preparation of it as will enter the circulation and assimitate at once with the Blood. This point, says Dr. Hayes, Massachusetts State Chemist, has been attained in the Peruvian Syrup, by combination in a way before unknown. THE PERUVIAN SYRUP
