BLOOMSBURG:

Saturday Morning, Feb. 10, '66.

Democratic State Convention. The Democratic State Convention at Harrisburg, on Monday, the fifth day of March, 1866, at 3 o'clock P. M.

By order of the Dem. State Committee-WILLIAM A. WALLACE.

Chairman. BEN. L. FOSTER, Sec'y. Harrisburg, Jan. 9, 1866.

Notice.

The Democratic Standing Committee of Columbia county, is hereby notified to meet in my office, it Bioomaburg in Shive's building, on Monday the 5th day February, 1806, at 2 o'clock P. M., for the purpose of appointing Senatorial and Representatives Conferes, to meet similar ones of this District, to appoin Delegates to the coming Democratic State Convention E. R. IKELER.

Disunion.

The Constitution is still a "league with death and a covenent with hell" in the opinion of the radicals; and Pec John says if the South does not agree to a voting basis of representation, "we (he) are entirely willing to try and get along a Doctor" cannot some how get on an equality with the nigger, he had rather the South should stay out of the Union.

Thad. Stevens and the President

It is not a year since that the radicals insisted that to attack the President was to attack the Government, and was almost, if not quite, an act of treason. But times change! They are now upon the oppochampions of arbitrary and despotic unanimously adopted : power. In the contest between the leaddent, the people will almost unanimously sustain the latter. He has nothing to fear from the howlings of Sumner and Stevens.

The Republican talks about men who were "too cowardly to take up arms to fight." Does he refer to himself, and to the time he went off to repel the rebel invaders, after the Governor had sent word that the rebels were gone, and no men who went to fight.

The Rump House on Teusday (6th) passed the Senate "Freedmen's Bureau" bill, with a few modifications, by a vote of usual voting against the wishes of his white constituency and for more wholesale plundering of the public treasury,
